The Elements of New Testament Greek

Since 1914 Cambridge University Press has published The Elements of New Testament Greek, a best-selling textbook for scholars and students of the Bible. The original book by H.P.V. Nunn was replaced and succeeded in 1965 by J.W. Wenham's book of the same title; now Jeremy Duff has produced a new book to continue this long-established tradition into the twenty-first century.

Learning Greek is a journey of many steps. In this book every one of these steps is explained clearly and reviewed using practice questions and exercises. The lessons are ordered so that the most important aspects of Greek are learnt first and the vocabulary consists of the most commonly occurring words in the New Testament. The hundreds of examples cover every book of the New Testament and there is a New Testament passage to translate in almost every chapter.

Software containing drills for vocabulary and grammar, additional practice sentences and a Tutor's pack of PowerPoint™ slides is available to complement this book and may be found on-line at <http://www.cambridge.org/0521755514>. An audio CD set containing the vocabulary, paradigms and New Testament passages from the book is also available as a study aid (ISBN 0 521 61473 2).

JEREMY DUFF is Director of Lifelong Learning in the Liverpool Diocese and Canon of Liverpool Cathedral. Previously he taught Greek and New Testament at Oxford University.

DAVID WENHAM is Dean of Wycliffe Hall, Oxford, and teaches New Testament at Oxford University.

Foreword

When I was approached by Cambridge University Press and asked if I would be interested in writing a revision of my late father's The Elements of New Testament Greek, I was grateful for the invitation, but I declined. I am someone who uses Greek in my work, but I have not taught beginners' Greek very much at all. My father's book came out of practical classroom teaching, and any effective revision would have to be done by a teacher.

Dr Jeremy Duff is such a teacher, and a very effective one. When he began teaching Greek at Wycliffe Hall in Oxford, what is often an unpopular subject suddenly started to go down very well. Students actually enjoyed Greek! So it occurred to me that Jeremy would be a worthy reviser of the Elements. I was very glad that Cambridge University Press, having been put in touch with Jeremy, agreed that he should be given the task of revising the book.

In fact what has come out is much more than a revision. It is in almost all respects a brand new book, though arising out of Wenham. There is an excellent precedent for such a revision, because my father's work was a similarly radical revision of H.P.V. Nunn's earlier book.

My pleasure in writing this foreword is twofold. First, Jeremy is a friend and a colleague of mine at Wycliffe Hall in Oxford; he is someone who has brought energy and interest to the college, and not just to the teaching of Greek. Secondly, of course, I am glad to write this foreword because of my father. He was amazed at how long and well his version of the Elements lasted. It is a tribute to how good his book was that it went on and on while other books came and went. But he firmly expected it to be superseded before too long, and I am sure he would be glad to see it superseded by someone like Jeremy! And maybe it is good anyway to be superseded as the author of a Greek textbook: my father sometimes said that he was probably the best-hated name in the theological college world. That was in the days when most theological students had to study Greek, even if they weren't any good at it and even if they didn't wish to. Maybe the hatred is diminished now, but if Jeremy is willingly taking over the role of best-hated name, then we may be grateful on my father's part!

The other side to that, of course, is that significant numbers of people in many countries are grateful for my father's book. Learning Greek may be a slog, especially for some; but, just as with learning a musical instrument, the rewards for hard work can be very great.

Admittedly, that point is not appreciated by many in the modern world. Studying ancient languages seems completely pointless to them. It isn't, of course. Historical study, including the study of ancient languages, can be most instructive for understanding culture and for understanding human beings and human nature. But for most of those who study New Testament Greek it is not just any old historical language: it is a door into the Christian Scriptures, which makes it significant for anyone who is interested in Christianity. For Christians it makes it very significant indeed, since the Bible is their foundational text, which they believe to have been given by God's inspiration and to contain God's word for the world.

This was my father's interest in it. He wrote numerous books on the Bible, starting with Christ and the Bible, in which he showed that Christian reverence for the Bible has its roots in Jesus' own teaching. His interest in Greek was because he believed that the Bible should be studied with great care: the words matter, and so does the original meaning of those words. Translations are often very good, but not always, and going back to the original is very worthwhile, as well as exciting for those who get some facility in the language.

I am personally grateful to my father for the example and inspiration he was as a Christian scholar who cared about the Bible and its words, and who encouraged me and many others to study it with academic integrity and honesty. Those many others include thousands of those who have been helped to get into the Greek New Testament through his book.

One of my favourite stories in the New Testament is the account of the walk to Emmaus in Luke 24: Jesus' two companions comment on how their hearts 'burned within them' as Jesus opened the Scriptures to them. Studying Greek isn't always as exciting as that, but I hope that Jeremy's book, like my father's, will be used by many and prove a door into understanding the New Testament and the remarkable person it portrays.

Dean and Tutor in New Testament at Wycliffe Hall, Oxford.

Preface

Students are the ones who matter. Students, and more generally all those wishing to learn, are the only reason for teachers and academic books to exist. For ninety years those wishing to learn to read the New Testament in Greek have been ably served by The Elements of New Testament Greek published by Cambridge University Press. First, in the book of that name by H.P.V. Nunn published in 1914, and then in its 1965 replacement by J.W. Wenham. So successful was John Wenham's book that for much of its forty-year history it has been the standard first-year Greek course not only in the UK but across large parts of the English-speaking world. For generations of students, 'Wenham' was synonymous with Greek.

Wenham's success was that he cared about students and did everything possible to make learning 'the elements' of New Testament Greek as simple and painless as possible. The most striking example of this was his handling of Greek accents. The scholarly tradition behind the use of accents went back many centuries, though not, as Wenham was keen to point out, back to the time of the New Testament itself. Nevertheless Wenham dispensed with accents. Or at least he dispensed with most of them – keeping only the few cases where they were useful to the student in distinguishing between otherwise identical words. Even today many scholars and teachers find this regrettable, if not even scandalous. I have never met a student, though, who shares that opinion. The student working hard to master the basic structure and vocabulary of New Testament Greek welcomes every help and simplification offered. Wenham wrote his book for them.

Time moves on, however, and by the mid-1990s Wenham's The Elements of New Testament Greek was beginning to look dated. Greek might not have changed much, but students had. It was time for Wenham to be replaced, just as Nunn had been forty years earlier. It was a great privilege to be asked to undertake this task.

Wenham explained his relationship to Nunn in these words: 'This started out as a radical revision, it ended as a new book.' The same is true of this book. Having taught Greek using Wenham, I was convinced of the soundness of his approach – step-by-step learning of grammar and vocabulary, clear explanations, lots of practice exercises, and the overriding principle of teaching only ‘the elements’ of New Testament Greek, not every ‘interesting’ peculiarity. However, it could be improved and updated. Its handling of participles was often criticised for being too late, and too dense. It did not contain enough New Testament in its examples and exercises. The drip-feed of forty-four chapters wore students down. It seemed to assume a knowledge of grammatical forms. Its opening English grammar was off-putting. Its lack of a proper Greek–English dictionary was infuriating. It seemed old-fashioned.

This book aims to stand in continuity with Wenham. Other approaches to learning Greek are possible and are represented in the multitudinous Greek grammars available. But the aim of this book has been to continue with the basic approach of Wenham, and Nunn before him, but to update, improve and revise as appropriate. As I have worked on this revision, I have been overwhelmed by the amount of good-will towards The Elements of New Testament Greek within the Greek-teaching ‘community’. Partly, of course, this is because many of them first encountered Greek under Wenham’s guidance. But more significantly, it is because they have struggled to find anything better. For one reason or another many have moved on from Wenham, experimenting with more recent books. And yet they remain unsatisfied – what is wanted is a ‘twenty-first-century Wenham’. I hope that in some measure this book fulfils that need.

A large number of different people have helped in the writing of this book. Particular mention must be made of Susan Blackburn Griffith, who did much of the labour in producing the vocabulary lists and exercises. Thanks also are due to Jon Connell, Travis Derico, Claerwyn Frost, Jon Hyde, Hannah Rudge, Rachel Thorne and Richard Trethewey. Without their work and support it is unclear if the book would ever have seen the light of day.

Initial drafts have been used across the world by various teachers and their students, whose feedback has contributed in countless ways to the final shape and content of this book. The teachers can be named: Atsuhiko Asano, Stephanie Black, Mark Butchers, Philip Church, Peter Groves, Nicholas King, Jonathan Pennington, Marian Raikes, Daniela Schubert, Margaret Sim, Matthew Sleeman, Henry Wansborough and Paul Woodbridge. Their students, who pointed out both the good and the bad in the early drafts, are unknown to me, but deserve thanks none the less. I have also felt greatly supported in this endeavour by the wide community of Greek teachers. Among these, special thanks are due to John Dobson, who despite being the author of a notable beginners’ Greek textbook himself which takes a rather different approach, provided invaluable comments on a draft version. Naturally the mistakes and infelicities that remain are mine; indeed, various of the those mentioned above will soon discover where I failed to take their advice.

More personally, four people deserve credit in different ways for sparking off and nurturing my own interest in Greek: Douglas Cashin, Rodney Lavin, John Roberts and Brenda Wolfe. More than anyone though, thanks for this belong to Tim Duff, the real Greek expert in the Duff family. Many of the trials and tribulations of 'the Wenham project' have been borne by my wife Jill with characteristic love and wisdom. Final credit, though, belongs to my own students in Oxford who for almost ten years have inspired me to keep honing and developing the material, have been gracious to my mistakes and supportive of improvements, and most of all have convinced me of the value of teaching Greek. It is to them, and future students, that this book is dedicated.

The aim of this book

This book has a single aim:

To help you learn enough Greek to read the New Testament.

This might seem obvious for a book entitled The Elements of New Testament Greek. However, there are many books designed for those beginning to study New Testament Greek that do not focus exclusively on this aim. The point will become clearer if I highlight certain things that this book does not aim at.

This book does not set out to present my understanding of New Testament Greek. It is a book for you, not for me. If I want to impress my colleagues with my Greek expertise, I will do that elsewhere. You deserve a book written to help you. In the same way it is not a ‘Greek Grammar’, as if my work was merely to set out Greek grammar, and it is then up to you to understand it and learn it. This is a textbook, written to help you in the process of learning.

This book does not try to teach you Christianity. It assumes that you want to read the New Testament in Greek in order to understand the New Testament better. For many the reason for wanting to understand it better will be a religious motivation, and that is great – I personally share that motivation. But for others it will be different. You may be unsure about Christianity, or indeed negative towards it. Nevertheless if you want to understand the New Testament better by learning Greek, this book is for you. Knowing Greek is a tool. My aim in this book is to help you acquire that tool, not to persuade you to use it in certain ways. The reason for this approach is straightforward: learning Greek takes some effort, and this book has been written to help. And it can help most if it focuses clearly on the task in hand, and does not try to engage in wider issues. In this book you will get help with learning Greek, and nothing else.

This book does not intend to help you feel superior, to initiate you into the ranks of an elite, or to give you ammunition for pointing out the errors of others. Unfortunately, the teaching of Greek often seems to encourage this. Part of this is natural. You are acquiring a valuable new skill that will aid your understanding of the New Testament. You should be proud of this. It should help you see the truth of what the New Testament says more clearly. However, Greek is a language, not a theological weapon. Understanding a language comes slowly. Gradually you will begin to appreciate the difficulties of Bible translators, and see how there are emphases, connections and flavours present in the Greek New Testament that are inevitably lost in translation. There are many riches to be gained from reading the New Testament in Greek. However, if you hope that after four lessons of Greek you will be shown theological secrets undreamt of by those relying on translations, you will be sadly disappointed. Reading the New Testament in Greek rather than in English is like watching a sports game on television rather than hearing it on the radio. Superior in many ways, but the score does not change.

This book does not pretend that you are learning Greek as a modern language, or that you are ‘picking up the language’ as children do. If you were learning Greek to speak it and hear it, you would learn it differently. But you are not. Young children are remarkably successful at learning languages by hearing it all around them and gradually making sense of it. But you are an adult, not a child. And adult learners, in general, want to understand and to make sense of things. After all, they are talented, rational people who are used to understanding what goes on around them. Therefore this book aims to help you progress step by step, explaining how Greek works, and as far as possible highlighting patterns and principles to make sense of what you are being asked to learn. You will not be ‘thrown in at the deep end’ and expected simply to ‘pick it up’.

Finally, the driving force of this book is not for you to have fun. I hope that you will, and you will certainly learn far better if you are enjoying it. However, let us be honest. If you wanted to have fun, you could probably think of many better ways than sitting here reading this book! You are reading this because you want to learn Greek. All Greek teachers struggle with the negative reputation that learning Greek has of being boring, complicated or too difficult. This leads to a great temptation – to sacrifice the goal of people learning Greek upon the altar of ensuring that everyone is happy and that Greek is popular. Thus a well-known phenomenon is for people to enjoy their Greek lessons greatly, but a year later to be no closer to being able to read the New Testament in Greek for themselves than they were at the beginning. My commitment to you is different. Working through this book will not always be easy. But you can rely on the fact that there is nothing in it that is not focused on helping you read the New Testament in Greek, and that when you have mastered what is in the book, you will be able to do just that. I sincerely hope that you do enjoy learning Greek, just as a coach might hope that the athlete enjoys the training sessions. But the real enjoyment for the athlete comes from winning the medal.

How to use this book

As well as having a clear aim, this book has been designed with particular principles in mind that give it a particular shape and structure. You will find the learning process easier if you understand these principles and are aware of the structure.

KEY PRINCIPLE OF SELECTION

In keeping with the title ‘The Elements’ and the aim to ‘learn enough Greek to read the New Testament’, this book does not contain all of the Greek grammar there is to know. Rather it contains all that you need to know to be able to make a good start in reading the New Testament in Greek. There are various irregularities, or rare features of Greek, that are not tackled here: they are best dealt with in context later on when you meet them as you read the New Testament. This book is about equipping you to begin reading the New Testament – you will then improve by practice. The ‘Going Further’ section at the end of the book (page 237) contains ideas on how to build on what you have learnt. For now we need to focus on what is important.

The order in which material is presented has not been chosen at whim or according to some arcane academic tradition. Rather it is arranged according to what occurs most frequently in the New Testament (with slight alterations according to what forms a logical order for learning). This is most apparent in two areas. First, the order in which grammar is introduced has been based on the relative frequency of the different parts of grammar in the New Testament. Thus many teachers may find the leaving of the Passive until Chapter 15 surprising. However, in practice the Passive is rare in Greek. Similarly rare are many of the uses of the Infinitive (Chapter 18). However, the basic use of participles is common in the New Testament, and therefore it is learnt much earlier here than in many books (Chapter 7). Second, the vocabulary presented in this book is the 600 most common words in the New Testament, organised with the most common ones first (although no word will be introduced before you understand how to use it). Thus as a learner you can be sure that each step you are asked to make has been chosen to be the most useful next step in the development of your understanding of Greek.

CHAPTERS

There are twenty chapters in this book. Each of these focuses on a particular area of Greek grammar, as you build up your knowledge of the Greek language step by step. Each chapter is designed to be equally challenging. If you can handle the first chapter, you just need to repeat that nineteen more times, and you will be there.

KEY GRAMMAR, HINTS AND ENGLISH GRAMMAR

The major part of the text in each of the chapters is explanation – helping you to understand a particular element of the Greek language. However, at regular intervals throughout the text you will see four different types of box appear, each with a different function.

KEY GRAMMAR

This box contains a brief one-line summary of the point being discussed. Learn and remember these points and you are halfway there.

Hint

This box contains a hint or suggestion to help you with the point being discussed. They do not add to the proper explanation, but rather are an aside – something that might help you remember it or recognise it in practice.

These boxes contain a cross-reference to the comparative guide to English grammar on pages 240–9. This is because Greek is often very similar to English and a pause to think about how something works in English might make the corresponding point in Greek easier to understand.

See it in English

1 Tim. 1.1: Πάυλος ἀποστολος Χριστου Ἰησου ...

This marks out quotations from the New Testament, which provide a preview of the grammar point about to be explained in the following section. Many students find that these examples give a useful introduction to what is about to come and provide a ‘fixed point’ they can look back to as they start to learn the detail.

EXERCISES AND PRACTICE

You learn by doing, not just by seeing. Therefore throughout the book there are exercises and practices for you to do. These fall into a number of different categories.

Practice: After each important grammar point in every chapter there is a practice section containing a number of very brief (often one word) questions. These are focused directly on the piece of grammar that has just been explained. Thus the practice questions are aimed at helping reinforce that particular grammar point.

Half-way practice: This occurs at about the mid-point in each chapter, except in the first two. It always consists of twelve short sentences (eight from Greek to English, four from English to Greek) giving an opportunity to consolidate the first half of the chapter before going on to the second part.

Sentences: At the end of each chapter, there are two sets of sentences (Chapter 1 is different since by then we have only learnt the alphabet). Each of these consists of twelve sentences for you to translate (again eight Greek to English, four English to Greek). These sentences have been chosen to help you practise what you have learnt in that chapter (grammar and vocabulary), while also integrating it into what you have learnt in previous chapters.

Thus the practice questions have been specifically created to help you focus on the new thing you are learning, while the exercises help you put this new thing in the context of what has gone before (and help you keep practising what you have already learnt). The sentences themselves are not taken directly from the New Testament – unfortunately it was not written in such a way as to provide enough sentences that only used or practised certain words or points of grammar. However, nor were the sentences simply made up. Instead, as far as possible, they are based on phrases and sentences from the New Testament that have been altered to suit the learning need – for example one word of vocabulary replaced with another. This means that from the beginning you are meeting exactly the sort of Greek that you will find in the New Testament, even if it has been altered to fit the needs of the step-by-step approach. It also means that occasionally you will notice that a sentence does not obey the rules that you have learnt. This will be because the New Testament passage it is drawing on did not follow the rules precisely either – Greek is a language, not a mathematical code. One part of learning a language is understanding which rules are a little flexible and which are not.

If you are interested in where the sentences have been drawn from, a list is provided on pages 330–2. It can be useful to see some of the slightly more unusual phrases in their original context. Of course, you can also practise your New Testament knowledge by trying to guess the source for the sentences. How many can you identify?

You might wonder why you need to translate from English into Greek (you want to read the New Testament, not write it!). Some teachers feel that this is not an important exercise, but many believe that it is only when you try writing some Greek yourself that you really understand how it works.

Passages: At the end of each chapter (except for the first two) a passage from the New Testament is given, quoted exactly. These have been chosen so that you should be able to translate them. However, there are always odd items that you have not yet met – particularly items of vocabulary. Therefore help is given in brackets [like this] throughout these passages. Thus the sentences are drawn from the New Testament but have been altered to fit what you know. The passages are exact quotations from the New Testament, with some extra help given.

Answers: There are many good reasons for giving the answers to the questions in the back of the book. In particular, it helps you take control of your learning. You can try out the question, and then look and see whether you have got it right. If not, you can then try to work out why. After all, the aim of the exercise is to help you learn, not to demonstrate what you do or do not know. However, as a teacher it can be helpful to be able to set questions to which you know answers are not provided, for then you can see how different learners are progressing and what further guidance they might need. Therefore, answers are provided in the back to the practice questions and to half of the sentences (section A sentences). Also, an answer to the passages can be found in any English Bible. However, no answers are provided to the section B sentences, to give your teacher the opportunity of seeing your unaided work.

VOCABULARY

This book makes use of 600 Greek words. These have been chosen to be the most common words in the New Testament, plus a handful of others that are needed to illustrate important elements of Greek grammar, or that are particularly worth learning. This works out as meaning all of the words that occur at least twenty-three times in the New Testament, plus a handful of others. It may surprise you to learn that these words represent over 90 per cent of all the words in the New Testament. Thus familiarity with these words is an important goal to aim at: learn to recognise these 600 words, and you will recognise 90 per cent of all the words in the New Testament.

Take the following entry in the vocabulary at the end of Chapter 2 as an example:

ἄγγελος (175) – messenger, angel

This means that the Greek word ἄγγελος (pronounced an-gel-os) occurs 175 times in the New Testament and means ‘messenger’ or ‘angel’. The one Greek word overlaps with the meaning of two English words. Which would be the best way to translate it in any given situation would depend on the context. Of course, what is going on underneath is that an angel is a messenger of God, and hence it is not surprising that Greek uses the one word with both meanings – a messenger in general, or a messenger of God. You should be aware that it is rare that a word in one language is exactly equivalent to one word in another language. There are often shades of meanings or ‘flavours’ that a word has which the ‘equivalent’ word in the other language does not have. However, you need to walk before you can run. Focus for the moment on learning the ‘basic English equivalent(s)’ of the Greek words you meet. Over time you will gain an appreciation for the particular ‘flavour’ of different Greek words.

Learning words is never easy, but it is important: grammar with no words is dead. You should follow your teacher’s guidance in what he or she wants you to memorise, but the book is designed on the basis that you do learn the vocabulary step by step. If you try to learn too many words all in one go it becomes very difficult, but broken down into weekly or daily portions it is achievable with a bit of determination, and the fact that you know that the word occurs many times in the New Testament can be an encouragement.

A hint for learning vocabulary – you need to engage your whole body in the process, not just your eyes. Staring at the list of words will get you nowhere. Write them out, say them aloud, test your friends; different approaches suit different people, but do something, don’t just stare. Also, it is very important to have a system of going back to the words you have previously learnt. As you keep on learning, half forgetting and then revisiting words, they will gradually stick permanently in your mind. Also, after each vocabulary, a number of ‘word helps’ are given, which are words in English that are derived from the Greek words in the vocabulary. For example, the English word ‘agriculture’ can help you remember that the Greek word ἄγρος (pronounced ag-ros) means ‘field’. Your first step in becoming familiar with the vocab should be working out which Greek word these ‘word helps’ relate to. Finally, for a particularly troublesome word, it can be helpful to think of a funny illustration involving the word. For example, to remember that δούλος (doo-los) means ‘slave’, remember that ‘slaves do lots’, or remember προσωπον (pros-oh-pon) meaning ‘face’ by the phrase ‘pour soap on’. Have a competition with your friends for who can think of the best ways of remembering the words.

TWO PATHWAYS

As noted above, this book makes use of 600 Greek words. The first chapter contains eight words that you can understand as soon as you know the alphabet. All of the rest of the chapters contain thirty-two words. The last chapter contains the final sixteen words. One pathway to learning the elements of New Testament Greek using this book is to learn these words chapter by chapter as you progress.

Some teachers, however, find that thirty-two words in a chapter is too many, given that you are trying to master the grammar as well. Therefore this book contains an alternative pathway, focused around a more limited vocabulary of 390 words. In each vocab list and in the Greek–English dictionary, certain words are marked with an asterisk (e.g. *βαλλω). These are the words that form this more limited group. The practice questions have been chosen so that they use only this more limited vocabulary. The sentences do use all of the words, not just these marked ones (since those taking the other pathway need practice in all the words). However, in each set of sentences at least half of them are marked with an asterisk to indicate that they use only words from the more restricted group. Thus, there are two pathways:

1. Aim at all 600 words, allowing you to do any practice questions and sentences.
2. Just focus on the 390 asterisked words, allowing you to do any practice questions, and those sentences marked with an asterisk (and the others, of course, if you are willing to look up the odd words unfamiliar to you).

DICTIONARIES

At the end of this book there are two dictionaries – one ‘Greek–English’ and one ‘English–Greek’. These dictionaries simply gather together all of the words presented in the vocabularies at the end of each chapter. The entries for ἀγγελος (the example used above) read as follows.

ἀγγελος (175) – messenger, angel 2
 angel (messenger) – ἀγγελος (175) 2
 messenger (angel) – ἀγγελος (175) 2

Notice the number 2 after each of these entries. This tells you that the word is first introduced in Chapter 2. The 175 is the number of times ἀγγελος occurs in the New Testament. Notice also that in the Greek–English dictionary both possible English equivalents are given, and that in the English–Greek dictionary you are reminded of the range of meaning of the Greek word by the mention in brackets of other possible English translations.

GRAMMAR REFERENCE

Towards the end of this book you will find grammar reference tables. For easy reference these gather together in one place material that has been introduced throughout the book.

The history of the Greek language

Greek is a remarkable language. We first have examples of it written down in the thirteenth century BC, and it continues to be written and spoken by millions of Greeks across the world today. Throughout this long history it has changed and evolved in many different ways, but it has always remained Greek. Such developments are not degeneration from best to worst, nor progress from simple to complex. They are simply change. As you embark on your study of Greek, it is useful to understand a little of this history, if only so that you understand what is meant by terms such as ‘classical’ or ‘koine’ or ‘modern’ Greek.

Our first glimpse of Greek is around 1300 BC, because we possess tablets dating to that period written in Greek, though using a different script (called Linear B). We then lose sight of it during the so-called ‘dark ages’ (dark because they have left us no written records) until about the eighth century BC, when we have our first inscriptions using the Greek alphabet. Not long after this the poems of Homer were written down, one of the great glories of the Greek language. By the fifth and fourth centuries BC Athens had grown to be the cultural capital of the Greek world, producing great drama, oratory, history writing and philosophy. Later this was seen as the ‘golden age’ of Greek literature and language – ‘classical’ Greek. The next crucial step came with Alexander the Great, who in ten years conquered all the lands between Greece and India. In his wake came ‘hellenization’ – the spreading of Greek language and culture. While certain aspects of Greek culture caused controversy (for example among some Jews), the language soon became the international language across a huge area. This language was known as ‘common Greek’ (the Greek word for ‘common’ is κοινή – koine – so you will hear it called ‘koine Greek’; modern scholars sometimes also call it ‘hellenistic Greek’). This is the language of the New Testament. By the time of Jesus the Romans had become the dominant military and political force, but the Greek language remained the ‘common language’ of the eastern Mediterranean and beyond, and Greek was still seen as the language of culture. However, many writers at this time thought that the normal spoken language of their day was inelegant and so imitated the ‘classical’ Greek of hundreds of years before. On the whole, though, the New Testament texts show little sign of this (except, perhaps, Luke, Acts and Hebrews): they are written in common (koine) Greek, the language of normal people at the time.

Greek continued as the language of the Eastern Roman Empire (the Byzantine Empire) through to its destruction in the fifteenth century AD. Around the same time during the Renaissance in Western Europe, Greek began to be studied by scholars in order to gain access to the great Greek literature of the ancient world, including the New Testament. In the process the idea of two types of Greek – classical and New Testament – was formed, though in fact New Testament Greek is just the standard language of its day and not a separate category. Meanwhile, of course, Greeks continued to speak Greek, throughout their domination by the Empire of the Ottoman Turks, and it became the official language of the new Greek state at its independence in 1821.

The alphabet

1.1 THE LETTERS OF THE GREEK ALPHABET

The first task in learning Greek is to learn the alphabet, which consists of twenty-four letters. Many are similar to English ones, and you may already be familiar with some others (for example, pi π and theta θ from mathematics). Learning the alphabet has three parts.

1.1.1. Learning how to write each of the Greek letters

In Greek, just as in English, different people will have different styles of handwriting. Also, printed Greek often looks a little different from handwritten Greek. That is fine – the aim is not to win prizes for the artistic quality of your lettering. What matters is for the different letters to be clearly distinguished from each other. In practice, you will probably copy the style of your teacher.

1.1.2. Learning which sounds the different Greek letters make

Greek has been spoken for over three thousand years, and in many different dialects. This means that there is no single right way to pronounce Greek. What matters is to make each letter have its own distinctive sound. It is also useful if your pronunciation is similar to that of other biblical scholars (and your teacher and classmates) so you can understand each other.

You may wonder why pronouncing the letters is important at all, since your desire is to read Greek, not speak it. The answer is that it is almost impossible to learn vocabulary (and grammar) by sight alone – it is saying the word to yourself that helps it stick in your mind. This is why Modern Greek pronunciation is not suggested here, for in Modern Greek several vowels are pronounced alike, which makes remembering the correct spelling very difficult.

1.1.3. Learning the order of the Greek alphabet

This is important because you need to know Greek ‘alphabetical order’ in order to look words up in a dictionary. It is very similar to English alphabetical order, and starts alpha, beta, which is where the word ‘alpha-bet’ comes from.

Greek Letter		Called		Written	Sound	Note
Normal	Capital	In English	In Greek	in English
α	A	Alpha	ἄλφα	a	a as in 'h at '	1
β	B	Beta	βῆτα	b	as English b
γ	Γ	Gamma	γάμμα	g	hard g as in 'g e t'	2
δ	Δ	Delta	δέλτα	d	as English d
ε	E	Epsilon	ἐπίλον	e	short e as in 'm e t'	1
ζ	Z	Zeta	ζῆτα	z	as English z
η	H	Eta	ἦτα	ē	long e as in 'ob e y'	1, 3
θ	Θ	Theta	θητα	th	as English th
ι	I	Iota	ἰωτα	i	i as in 'h i t'	1, 4
κ	K	Kappa	κάππα	k	as English k	5
λ	Λ	Lambda	λάμβδα	l	as English l
μ	M	Mu	μυ	m	as English m
ν	N	Nu	νυ	n	as English n	6
ξ	Ξ	Xi	ξι	x	as English x
ο	O	Omicron	ὀμικρον	o	short o as in 'n o t'	1
π	Π	Pi	πι	p	as English p
ρ	P	Rho	ῥω	r or rh	as English r	7, 8
σ or ς	Σ	Sigma	σιγμα	s	as English s	9
τ	T	Tau	ταυ	t	as English t
υ	Υ	Upsilon	ὕψιλον	u	as English u	1, 10
φ	Φ	Phi	φι	ph or f	as English f
χ	X	Chi	χι	ch or kh	hard as in 'l o ch'	5
ψ	Ψ	Psi	ψι	ps	as in 'l i ps'
ω	Ω	Omega	ὦμεγα	ō	long o as in 't o ne'	1

Notes

- While there are five vowels in English, there are seven in Greek. This is because there are separate letters for the 'long' and 'short' versions of 'e' and 'o'.

	a	e	i	o	u
Short	α	ε	ι	ο	υ
Long	α	η	ι	ω	υ

Thus, α, ι and υ can be either short or long (hat or father, hit or antique, but or ruse) but focus on the short pronunciation for now.

- 2 γγ is pronounced as ‘ng’. Thus αγγελος is angelos (angel).
- 3 There are notable variations in how η is pronounced. While here ‘obey’ is suggested, others say ‘bear’ or ‘honey’. I suggest that you follow your teacher’s way of pronouncing it.
- 4 ι can sometimes behave as a consonant when it begins a word (i.e. like a y in English). Thus Ιακωβ is Yakōb (Jacob).
- 5 Ensure that there is a difference in sound between κ and χ, by (over-) emphasising the ‘h’ sound in χ.
- 6 Watch ν – it looks like an English v but is an n (there is no v in Greek).
- 7 Greek ρ should really be pronounced ‘aspirated’ (i.e. as ‘rh’ or rolled).
- 8 Watch ρ – it looks like an English p but is an r (the Greek p is π).
- 9 The letter σιγμα is written in two different ways, depending on where it is in the word. If it is the last letter of a word it is written ζ, otherwise σ. Look at the two occurrences of the letter σιγμα in Χριστος (Christos – Christ).
- 10 It can often be helpful to know that in English words derived from Greek the υ has become a γ (e.g. μυστηριον → mystry).

Writing the letters

There is no special way in which to write the letters – it is sensible to begin by copying how someone else writes them (i.e. your teacher) and develop your own style from there. A few pointers can be given though:

- Some people write γ with a loop at the bottom – γ.
- ι is written without a dot.
- Notice the difference between υ (round bottom) and ν (pointed bottom).
- Many of the letters are written without taking the pen off the page, and with curves rather than straight lines. In particular, β, δ, θ, ρ, σ and ω.

The relative heights of the letters are important. The following chart shows which parts of the letters are written above the line and which below. In general, however, Greek letters are far more uniform in their size than English ones, the majority of every letter being contained within the lines.

αβγδεζηθικλμνξοπρσςτυφχψω

- β, δ, ζ, θ, λ and ξ stretch above the line (and the central stroke of φ and ψ in many people’s handwriting). Contrary to English, κ and τ do not.
- β, γ, ζ, η, μ, ξ, ρ, σ, φ, χ, ψ have ‘tails’ which stretch below the line.

PRACTICE 1.1

- A. Write out the Greek alphabet (small letters) in order and the English equivalents of each letter.

Hint

Use ē to represent η and ō for ω.

- B. Write out the English alphabet and give the Greek (small) letter equivalent to each one as far as possible (ignore h, q, v and w).
 C. Write the sound of the following Greek words in English letters. Also, since these words have come into English from Greek, have a guess at their meaning.

Hint

Greek puts special endings on words, so when thinking which English words may have been derived from a Greek word, ignore the Greek ending. Also remember (note 10 above) that a Greek υ is often equivalent to an English y.

- | | | |
|-------------|--------------|----------------|
| 1. βαπτισμα | 4. μεγας | 7. παραβολη |
| 2. θρονος | 5. μικρος | 8. παραλυτικος |
| 3. κοσμος | 6. μυστηριον | 9. σαββατον |

- D. The following are real Greek words written in English letters. Write them in Greek (small) letters, and have a guess at their meaning.

| 1. blasphemē | 4. mētēr | 7. prophētēs |
| 2. kardia | 5. patēr | 8. pyr |
| 3. logikos | 6. pneumatikos | 9. phōnē |

1.2 BREATHINGS

Breathings are a mark over a vowel to show whether it is spoken normally or at the same time as breathing out heavily – which is equivalent in English to placing an ‘h’ in front of the vowel (think about ‘am’ and ‘ham’). The technical term for this adding of an ‘h’ to a vowel is called aspiration. In fact there are two breathing marks in Greek – the rough breathing marking that the vowel should be aspirated (pronounced with an ‘h’ before it), and the smooth breathing marking that it shouldn’t.

It is only possible to aspirate a vowel if it is the first letter of a word. Therefore vowels that occur elsewhere are left without breathings, since by definition they will be unaspirated. Vowels at the beginning of a word that should be aspirated carry the rough breathing, and those that shouldn’t carry a smooth breathing – not to alter the pronunciation, but just to mark the absence of an ‘h’.

	Sound / English	Written	Example
Rough breathing	h	´	ἅγιος (hagios – holy)
Smooth breathing	nothing	˘	ἄγγελος (angelos – angel)

Notes

- Breathings are written on top of the letter – ἁ, ἄ, ἐ, ἑ, ἦ, ἡ, ἰ, ἴ, ὀ, ὁ, ὕ, ὖ, ὠ, ὡ.
- Smooth breathings are not optional just because they are not pronounced (ἐκκλησια must be wrong – it should be ἐκκλησια – church)
- In addition, if a ρ is the first letter in a word, it must carry a rough breathing ῥ (because a Greek ρ is always aspirated), e.g. ῥαββί – rabbi.

KEY GRAMMAR

Every Greek vowel (α, ε, η, ι, ο, υ, ω) at the beginning of a word must have a breathing

PRACTICE 1.2

In which of these Greek words is there an error in the breathing?

1. αγω 2. ῥλεπω 3. ἐχω 4. λῆγω 5. πιστευω

1.3 CAPITAL LETTERS

Capital letters are used less frequently in Greek than in English – only for the beginning of speech, paragraphs and names (i.e. not for the start of sentences).

Their form is given on the chart of the alphabet earlier. Most of these are easy to remember. However, H, P, Y and X look like the wrong English letters. Also the capitals Γ, Δ, Μ, Ξ, Σ and Ω are unlike their small equivalents.

If a breathing needs to be put on a capital letter, the breathing is placed just before the letter e.g. Ἰσραήλ (Israel).

1.4 DIPHTHONGS AND IOTA SUBSCRIPTS

When two vowels are pronounced together it is called a diphthong. In English, for example, ‘bear’ is pronounced with the two vowels ‘e’ and ‘a’ combined to make a single sound. There are seven common diphthongs in Greek.

αι	‘ai’ as in Tha iland, or the English word ‘eye’
ει	‘ei’ as in ve il, or the ‘ay’ in sa y
οι	‘oi’ as in oi l
υι	‘ui’ as in qu it

αυ	‘au’ as in sau erkraut, or the ‘ow’ in how
ου	‘ou’ as in sou p, or the ‘oo’ in hoo p
ευ / ηυ	‘eu’ as in feu d, or the English word ‘you’

If a diphthong begins a word, the breathing is put over the second of the letters of the diphthong, e.g. αἶμα (haima) – blood.

There are vowel pairs which occur that are not diphthongs. In these cases, the pair is treated as two separate letters – they are pronounced separately, and any breathing comes on the first letter, e.g. ἐάν (e-an) – if; υἱός (hui-os) – son; εὐαγγέλιον (eu-angelion) – good news.¹

The iota subscript is a special form of diphthong. It occurs when an iota follows a long vowel (η, ω, or long α), particularly at the end of a word. By convention these iota are written ‘subscripted’, i.e. under the long letter thus: α, η, ω. These are not pronounced (the ι being swallowed up in the long vowel). This is unfortunate, since they must be written and if they are not pronounced it is easy to overlook them. Thus λογῶ is pronounced as logō, but for the moment think of it in English as logō(i).

PRACTICE 1.3 AND 1.4

A. Write these names in English letters

- | | | | |
|-----------|-----------|-----------|------------------------|
| 1. Παυλος | 3. Ἀβρααμ | 5. Σιμων | 7. Ἰερουσαλημ |
| 2. Μαρια | 4. Ἰωσηφ | 6. Ἡρωδης | 8. Καισαρ ² |

B. Write these names in Greek letters

- | | | | |
|-------------|--------------|-------------------------|---------------|
| 1. Barnabas | 3. Philippos | 5. Timotheos | 7. Satanias |
| 2. Petros | 4. Pilatos | 6. Ioudaea ² | 8. Pharisaios |

C. Here is the first half of the Lord’s Prayer from Matthew (6.9-10). Work out how to pronounce it. (To begin with the easiest way of doing this may be to write it out in English letters.)

Πατερ ἡμῶν ὁ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς ἁγιασθητω το ὄνομα σου ἐλθετω ἡ βασιλεια σου γενηθητω το θελημα σου
 ὡς ἐν οὐρανῳ και ἐπι γης

¹ If there is any doubt as to whether the two vowels form a diphthong, then a diaeresis can be used to show that the letters do not form a diphthong, e.g. Μωϋσης is Μω-υ-σης.

² Note: When a Greek word containing the diphthong αι is transliterated into English letters (for example in a name) the ‘αι’ is normally represented by ‘ae’.

1.5 ACCENTS AND STRESS

Ancient Greek was written without accents. However, naturally when people spoke the language there were accepted ways of pronouncing the words. After the period of the New Testament a system of writing accents (acute ´, grave ` and circumflex ˘) gradually emerged until it developed into the system for accentuation now followed by scholars of Greek, and present in printed copies of the New Testament. This system probably reflects the way the words were originally pronounced – with the accents showing what were originally changes of pitch in the pronunciation of words, and then later changes of stress.

However, accents are not taught in this book, for three important reasons.

1. Accents were not present in written Greek in the New Testament period.
2. The rules of accentuation are complicated, and you have enough to learn.
3. Accents don't help you translate or understand Greek.

Point three is not completely true – in a very small number of situations accents can distinguish between two similar or identical-looking words. In these cases, a special note will be given pointing this out, and these are collected together on pages 273–4 in the reference section.³

However, as a matter of tradition printed Greek texts still use accents. Therefore, to help you get used to seeing an accented text, when sample passages from the New Testament are printed in this book they will be printed with accents. Otherwise accents will not be used, except when they are useful in distinguishing between identical looking words. You should not try to learn the accents now.⁴

This leaves the question of where you should put the stress when pronouncing Greek words. As with the question of the pronunciation of the letters themselves, this is a matter of some dispute, and not central to your immediate needs, so just concentrate on pronouncing the word clearly (and follow your teacher's suggestion).

KEY GRAMMAR

Breathings – Essential
Accents – Unimportant,
so ignore

³ However, remember that the original manuscripts do not have accents. So when an accent distinguishes between two words, in fact it only reveals which the editor of the printed text thinks is the correct one.

⁴ In the Going Further section (page 237) information is given for those who wish to learn more about accents.

PRACTICE 1.5

Which of the following words has a smooth breathing?

1. βάλλω 2. ἄγω 3. εὐρίσκω 4. ἄγιος 5. ἰῶτα

1.6 PUNCTUATION

Ancient Greek was written with little punctuation. However, there is a standard system now accepted for punctuation, which does make reading the text very much easier (unlike the accents).⁵ In Greek there are four punctuation marks.

Greek	English Equivalent	Used for
. (on the line)	.	End of sentence
,	,	Minor break within a sentence
· (above the line)	; or :	Major break within a sentence
;	?	Questions

Also, if a word beginning with a vowel follows a word ending in a vowel elision will sometimes take place – the final vowel of the first word is dropped, and this fact is marked by an apostrophe ', e.g. ἀλλ' ἐγώ instead of ἀλλα ἐγώ.

PRACTICE 1.6

Which are questions?

1. βλέπεις; 2. ἔχω· 3. λυουσιν. 4. βάλλει; 5. λεγετε,

(The numbers in brackets after the Greek word are the number of times the word occurs in the New Testament. The asterisked words are in the more limited group of 390 words – see the discussion of the two pathways presented in this book on page 7.)

⁵ As one learns more Greek, it is important to remember that the punctuation has only been added by the editors of your printed text and is not part of the Greek text itself. However, to begin with, assume the editors have been sensible in their judgements!

Exercises

It is important to get used to going from Greek letters to the sound they make (i.e. being able to pronounce the Greek words), and from the sound of a word to the Greek letters you would use to represent it. Without this, Greek will remain just a series of marks on a page, and this makes it almost impossible to learn. As mentioned on page 7, the best way to learn vocabulary or grammar is by the sound of the words or testing your friends, both of which require you to be able to write and read Greek letters happily.

1. Work out how to pronounce the following passage from John 1.1-14.

To begin with, the easiest way of doing this may be to write it out in English letters. To distinguish between the long and short versions of ‘ο’ and ‘ε’ you may find it helpful to use ‘ε’ for ε, ‘ε’ for η, ‘ο’ for ο, and ‘ω’ for ω. Although they are not pronounced, represent iota subscripts as (i).

⁶ It is arguable how best to translate ῥαββι. As an Aramaic word it literally means ‘my great one’, and therefore might be translated ‘master’ or ‘lord’. You can see this in Mark 9.5, where Peter calls Jesus ῥαββι, while in the same sentence in Matthew (17.4) he calls him κυριος (lord), and in Luke (9.33) ἐπιστατα (master). However, in John 1.38 and 20.16 ῥαββι is translated into Greek as διδασκαλος (teacher) (see also Matthew 23.8 and John 3.2). This fits with its usage in Aramaic when it is used for revered teachers. However, to translate it into English merely as ‘teacher’ loses something – ῥαββι is not the normal Greek word for teacher but is a term coming from a very particular historical and linguistic context. A useful rule is that if a Greek writer uses an Aramaic word (rather than translating it into Greek), then you should keep the Aramaic word (rather than translating it into English). Therefore, I would ‘translate’ ῥαββι as rabbi.

άνθρωπον, ἐρχομενον εἰς τον κοσμον. ¹⁰ ἐν τῷ κοσμῷ ἦν, και ὁ κοσμος δι' αὐτου ἐγενετο, και ὁ κοσμος αὐτον οὐκ ἐγνω. ¹¹ εἰς τα ἴδια ἦλθεν, και οἱ ἴδιοι αὐτον οὐ παρελαβον. ¹² ὅσοι δε ἐλαβον αὐτον, ἐδωκεν αὐτοις ἐξουσιαν τεκνα θεου γενεσθαι, τοις πιστευουσιν εἰς το ὄνομα αὐτου, ¹³ οἱ οὐκ ἐξ αἱμάτων οὔδε ἐκ θεληματος σαρκος οὔδε ἐκ θεληματος ἀνδρος ἀλλ' ἐκ θεου ἐγεννηθησαν. ¹⁴ και ὁ λογος σαρξ ἐγενετο και ἐσκηνωσεν ἐν ἡμιν, και ἐθεασαμεθα την δοξαν αὐτου, δοξαν ὡς μονογενους παρα πατρος, πληρης χαριτος και ἀληθειας.

2. John 1.15-23 has been written out below in English letters to represent how it would sound when read. Turn these sounds back into the Greek words, that is, write out the passage in Greek letters. Remember smooth breathings and the two different forms of sigma.

Basic sentences

2.1 THE PRESENT TENSE OF λυω

Mark 11.4: λυουσιν αὐτον – they untie him

Luke 13.15: λυει τον βουν αὐτου – he unties his ox

The Greek word λυω ('I untie') has different endings to show who is doing the untying – λυουσιν = they untie and λυει = he unties. The one Greek word means more than one English word – λυει means 'he' plus 'unties'.

The Present tense of the Greek verb λυω, which means 'I untie', is as follows.¹

Grammatical Label	Greek	English
		Either	Or
1 st person singular	λυω	I am untying	I untie
2 nd person singular	λυεις	You are untying	You untie
3 rd person singular	λυει	He, she or it is untying	He, she or it unties
1 st person plural	λυομεν	We are untying	We untie
2 nd person plural	λυετε	You are untying	You untie
3 rd person plural	λυουσιν or λουσι	They are untying	They untie

Notes

- 2nd singular and plural: Notice the distinction between λυεις and λυετε. Greek distinguishes between 'you' meaning one person ('you singular' – λυεις) and more than one person ('you plural' – λυετε) in a way that modern English does not. Keep thinking, 'Is this "you singular" or "you plural"?'

- 3rd singular: The 3rd singular means 'he', 'she' or 'it'. The context will usually reveal which is appropriate.
- 3rd plural: Notice the two possibilities – λουουσιν or λουουσι. Either form is acceptable, though the form including the 'optional ν' is more common.

2.1.1 Endings, roots and conjugations

Each of these six forms of λυω can be split into two parts:

the stem: λυ

the ending: -ω, -εις, -ει, -ομεν, -ετε, -ουσιν.

The stem denotes the basic meaning of the word: λυ meaning 'untie'.

The ending indicates the person (who is doing the action):

-ω	means	I		-ομεν	means	we
-εις	means	you singular		-ετε	means	you plural
-ει	means	he, she or it		-ουσιν	means	they

Put stem and ending together and we have a single Greek word (e.g. λυομεν) which means several English words ('we are untieing').

KEY GRAMMAR

One Greek word often means more than one English word

A pattern of the forms of a verb (a particular set of endings on the stem) is called a conjugation. We have now learnt the Present (Indicative Active) conjugation of λυω. You can now conjugate it (i.e. go through the pattern in order).

Verb?

See it in English

Section 1.2

Page 242

The good news is that almost all Greek verbs follow the same pattern (conjugation) as λυω. Thus if you know that 'I say' is λεγω and 'I see' is βλέπω, then you can work out all six forms of each verb:

λεγω	I am saying		βλέπω	I am seeing λεγεις	You (sing.) are saying		βλεπεις	You (sing.) are seeing λεγει	He, she or it is saying		βλεπει	He, she or it is seeing λεγομεν	We are saying		βλεπομεν	We are seeing λεγετε	You (pl.) are saying		βλεπετε	You (pl.) are seeing λεγουσιν	They are saying		βλεπουσιν	They are seeing

2.1.2 Meaning of the Present tense

The Present tense in Greek signifies an action:

- taking place in the present
- which is either (a) process or (b) undefined in nature.

KEY GRAMMAR

Once you know the Present of λυω, you know the Present of almost every Greek verb²

Thus λυω can be translated in English as either: (a) I am untying, or (b) I untie. Which is the more appropriate depends on the context.

| 3. άκουουσιν. | 6. λυεις. | 9. We are leading. |

Hint

The vocabulary you need is listed on page 29 at the end of the chapter. Verbs are always given in their most simple form in a vocabulary list or dictionary (e.g. the 1st person singular form of the Present Indicative Active).

2.2 THE PRESENT TENSE OF -εω VERBS (φιλεω)

1 John 1.10: ψευστην ποιουμεν αυτον – we make him a liar

ποιεω (I make/do) has very slightly different endings from λυω.
'we make' is ποιουμεν not ποιεομεν.

KEY GRAMMAR

There are many Greek verbs whose stem ends in ε, such as φιλε-ω 'I love'. They are called -εω verbs. These verbs are regular and have exactly the same endings as λυω. However, the weak

Greek grammar is very regular, but with many minor adjustments when certain letters combine exposed ε at the end of the stem combines with the vowel at the beginning of the ending. This combining or contracting of the vowels means these verbs are also known as ‘contract verbs’.

² λυω is chosen as the model word because it is completely regular in all its forms, and it is short – try chanting the forms of θεραπευω and you will see the difference!

The rules for the contractions are: ε + ε → ει

ε + ο → ου

ε + any long vowel or diphthong is absorbed
(i.e. the ε disappears without making any difference)

Thus, the Present Indicative Active of φιλεω is:

	Actual Form	The process of getting there
I am loving	φιλω	φιλε + ω → φιλω
You are loving	φιλεις	φιλε + εις → φιλεις
He, she or it is loving	φιλει	φιλε + ει → φιλει
We are loving	φιλουμεν	φιλε + ομεν → φιλουμεν
You are loving	φιλειτε	φιλε + ετε → φιλειτε
They are loving	φιλουσιν or φιλουσι	φιλε + ουσιν → φιλουσιν

Hint

-εω verbs like φιλεω are always listed in vocabularies or dictionaries in their uncontracted form (i.e. φιλεω) although in fact this form will never be found in actual Greek (since it would have contracted into φιλω).

2.3 THE NOMINATIVE AND ACCUSATIVE CASES

John 6.24: εἶδεν ὁ ὄχλος – the crowd saw

Mark 6.34: εἶδεν πολλὸν ὄχλον – he saw a great crowd

The Greek word for crowd changes depending on how it fits into the sentence – ὄχλος when the crowd is doing the seeing, ὄχλον when it is being seen.

2.3.1 The forms of λογος

Nouns, like verbs, are inflected in Greek. This means that each noun will have a stem and an ending – the stem denoting the basic meaning of the word, and the ending communicating more precise information about the function of the word in this particular sentence.

Inflection?

See it in English

Page 246

A noun occurs in one of five cases (forms used to indicate the word's function in the sentence, such as being the subject), and in either the singular or the plural (whether a noun is singular or plural is called its number, which shouldn't be confused with verbs being in the 1st, 2nd or 3rd persons). The pattern of endings for a noun is called a declension: going through them is called declining it. While most verbs conjugate like λυω, nouns fall into in a number of different declensions. We will first learn the declension of λογος, which means 'word'.

Case	Number
	Singular	Plural
Nominative	λογος	λογοι
Accusative	λογον	λογους

See it in English

Page 241

Using λογος as a pattern, you can work out the nominative and accusative forms, both singular and plural, of many other Greek nouns (some are listed in the vocabulary at the end of this chapter).

Examples

- αδελφος (brother): αδελφος, αδελφον, αδελφοι, αδελφους.
- κυριος (lord): κυριος, κυριον, κυριοι, κυριους.

PRACTICE 2.3.1

| 1. αρτον | 3. ουρανους | 5. οχλος | 7. δουλοι |
| 2. αγγελι | 4. υιοι | 6. θεους | 8. νομον |

2.3.2 The meaning of the nominative and accusative cases

In English, word order distinguishes subject from object – the subject comes before the verb, the object after the verb. Thus ‘the dog bites the man’ means something rather different from ‘the man bites the dog’.

In Greek, cases distinguish subject from object. Word order does not matter.³

KEY GRAMMAR

Nominative – Subject
Accusative – Object

2.3.3 Forming a sentence

We now need to put together a verb and one or more nouns to form a sentence.

- βλέπεις. – You (singular) see.
- βλέπεις ἄγγελον. – You (singular) see an angel.
- βλέπεις ἄγγελους. – You (singular) see angels.

Note: There is no word for ‘a’ (indefinite article) in Greek. Thus λογος means ‘word’ or ‘a word’ – the context will make it clear.

Once we use a noun (in the nominative) as the subject of the sentence, we meet the important concept of agreement. The different parts of the sentence have to fit properly together.

Sentence?

See it in English

Page 244

KEY GRAMMAR

Verbs agree with their subject in number

So, if the subject is singular, the verb must be singular, and if plural the verb must be plural.

Hint

We do this in a limited fashion in English – he sees, they see

Also, if the verb is in the 1st or 2nd persons (I, we or you) there is unlikely to be a separate subject (because the verb itself contains the ‘I, we or you’ information). However, if there is a separate subject (e.g. ‘the king’, ‘a girl’, ‘the mountain’, ‘pigs’) then the verb will be in the 3rd person (he, she, it or they).

³ Or at least word order in Greek only communicates a difference in emphasis, not in meaning. This is discussed further in Chapter 5, section 5.7.

Examples

- | | |
|------------------------------|--------------------------|
| • βλέπετε. | – You see. |
| • ἄγγελος βλέπει. | – An angel sees. |
| • βλέπετε ἄγγελον. | – You see an angel. |
| • δούλος βλέπει ἄγγελον. | – A slave sees an angel. |
| • δούλοι βλέπουσιν ἄγγελον. | – Slaves see an angel. |
| • δούλοι βλέπουσιν ἄγγέλους. | – Slaves see angels. |

Hint

There are three steps to translation:

1. Work out the cases of the words.
2. Work out why the different words have the cases they do.
3. Translate the sentence accordingly.

- κυριος ἔχει δουλους.
- | | |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| 1. κυριος is nom. sing. | δουλους is acc. pl. |
| 2. κυριος is nom. because it is the subject | δουλους is acc. – the object |
| 3. Sentence = ‘A lord has slaves.’ | |

δουλους κυριος ἔχει would mean exactly the same, since κυριος is still nominative and so the subject, and δουλους accusative so the object. The change in word order would not change the sentence's meaning, although the stress would have changed; there is more on word order and stress in Chapter 5 (section 5.7).

PRACTICE 2.3.3

Translate

- | | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 1. ἀδελφος διδασκει ὄχλους. | 6. ἄγγελοι τηρουσιν νομους. |
| 2. ζητουμεν ἄρτον. | 7. A brother sees a house. |
| 3. δουλους λυεις. | 8. People are watching. |
| 4. κυριος λεγει λογον. | 9. We love a world. |
| 5. ἄνθρωποι καλουσιν. | 10. God leads. |

2.4 THE DEFINITE ARTICLE

In Greek the definite article ('the') also has to be declined. It must always agree with the noun it is going with in case and number. It will normally come immediately before the noun. (Note that because there is no indefinite article 'a' in Greek, the definite article is often referred to simply as 'the article'.)

Case	Number
	Singular	Plural
Nominative	ὁ	οἱ
Accusative	τον	τους

Examples

- βλέπεις τον ἄγγελον. – You (singular) see the angel.
- οἱ ἄγγελοι βλέπουσιν. – The angels see.
- ἄνθρωπος βλέπει τους ἄγγελους. – A person sees the angels.

In comparison ὁ λογὸν cannot be right, whatever is meant, since ὁ does not agree with λογὸν.

2.5 SPECIAL USES OF THE DEFINITE ARTICLE

Normally the definite article is used in Greek in the same situations as ‘the’ in English. However, there are three special uses of the article in Greek.

1. Names. Greek often uses the definite article before a name e.g. ὁ Δαυὶδ = David (not ‘the David’).
2. Abstract Nouns. Greek normally uses the definite article with abstract nouns or generalisations, e.g. ὁ ἄνθρωπος can mean ‘the person’, but can also mean ‘humanity’ in general; similarly ὁ νόμος can mean ‘law’ (as a concept) as well as ‘the law’.
3. God. Writers from a monotheistic perspective will also normally use the article before θεός (similar to the distinction in English between ‘god’ and ‘God’).

⁴ Often when foreign words are used in Greek they are indeclinable. This is true of all seven Hebrew words in the vocab for Chapter 1. A word being indeclinable means that its form does not change, regardless of the case it is in. Thus, for example, Ἀβρααμ could be nominative or accusative (though normally, being a name, it will appear with the definite article, thus: ὁ Ἀβρααμ, τον Ἀβρααμ).

Cases and gender

3.1 THE GENITIVE AND DATIVE CASES

Rev. 19.1: ἤκουσα ... φωνὴν ... ὄχλου – I heard the sound of a crowd
 Matt. 23.1: ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἐλάλησεν τοῖς ὄχλοις – Jesus spoke to the crowds Changing the endings on ὄχλος can express the idea of ‘of’ or speaking ‘to’.

There are two more cases in which nouns can occur:

Case	ὁ – the		λογος – word
	Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
Genitive	του	των	λογου	λογων
Dative ¹	τω	τοις	λογω	λογοις

The genitive case equates to the use of of in English (or adding ‘s’); the dative is used to denote the person or thing to or for which anything is done, which is technically known as the indirect object.²

Indirect object?

Page 245

Examples

- ὁ ἄγγελος του θεου λεγει τον λογον.
- 1. ὁ ἄγγελος = the angel – nominative του θεου = God – genitive
 τον λογον = the word – accusative
- 2. Angel is nom. because it is the subject God is gen. – the possessor Word is acc. – the object

KEY GRAMMAR

Genitive – Possessor (≈ ‘of’)
 Dative – Indirect object (≈ ‘to’ or ‘for’)

¹ Notice the iota subscripts in τω and λογω (see Chapter 1, section 1.4).

² There are other, less common, uses of the genitive and dative which we shall meet later.

3. Sentence = ‘The angel of God speaks the word.’

• ὁ ἄγγελος λεγει τῷ δουλῳ.

1. ὁ ἄγγελος = the angel – nom. τῷ δουλῳ = the slave – dat.
2. Angel is nom. because it is the subject Slave is dat. – the indirect object
3. Sentence = ‘The angel speaks to the slave.’

• ὁ ἄγγελος λεγει τον λογον του θεου τῷ δουλῳ.

1. ὁ ἄγγελος = the angel – nom. τον λογον = the word – acc.
του θεου = God – gen. τῷ δουλῳ = the slave – dat.
2. Angel is nom. because it is the subject Word is acc. – the object
God is gen. – the possessor Slave is dat. – the indirect object
3. Sentence = ‘The angel speaks the word of God to the slave.’

PRACTICE 3.1

If these sentences were in Greek, which case would the underlined word be in?

1. I like lectures.
2. The teacher's voice is boring.
3. I am cooking for my wife.
4. The students eat many cakes.
5. I have the books of a friend.
6. We are making a hat for the tutor.
7. I hate essays.
8. Classes end too quickly.

Give the case and number of the following

- | | | | |
|-------------|-----------|------------|-----------|
| 9. ἀδελφου | 11. τους | 13. των | 15. νομοι |
| 10. κυριοις | 12. δουλῳ | 14. κοσμου | 16. θεον |

3.2 SPECIAL USES OF THE GENITIVE AND DATIVE

Earlier, in Chapter 2, section 2.3, we learnt that the accusative is used for the object of a verb. In grammatical language, most verbs ‘govern’ a noun in the accusative. Thus, ‘he sees an angel’ is βλέπει ἄγγελον – βλέπω governs a noun in the accusative (its object); or as it is often put – ‘βλέπω takes the accusative’.

In Chapter 3, section 3.1 we learnt the general meaning of the dative cases. In fact certain verbs are always likely to govern a noun in the dative, because they naturally have an indirect object. For example, after λεγω (I say) you often get a noun in the dative expressing to whom you are speaking: λεγω τῷ κυριῷ – ‘I am speaking to the master’. However, λεγω can have a normal object (in the accusative) – the thing which is said: λεγω λογον τῷ κυρίῳ – ‘I am speaking a word to the master’. This can be summarised as:

λεγω means ‘I speak’, + accusative of thing said, + dative of person spoken to.

For λεγω this matches English, since in English we use the word ‘to’ in front of the person spoken to. However, English and Greek do not always match in this way. Therefore, if a word habitually governs a noun in a case other than the accusative this will be stated in the vocabulary lists and dictionary.

For example, in the vocab for this chapter, you will see the word πιστευω which means ‘I believe (in), trust, have faith in’. This is listed as πιστευω + dat. because the person or thing you believe/trust/have faith in is put in the dative (e.g. πιστευω τῷ λογῳ – I believe the word).

We can now also add a further detail to one of the items of vocabulary learnt in Chapter 2:

ἀκουω – I hear, listen to + acc. of thing heard, + gen. of person heard

Examples

- ἀκουομεν του κυριου – We hear the Lord
- ἀκουομεν τον λογον – We hear the message
- πιστευουσιν τῷ θεῳ – They believe in God

PRACTICE 3.2

8. ὁ ἀδελφος λυει δουλον τῷ κυρίῳ.

9. I teach the word of God.

 12. You speak to the crowd.

3.3 FEMININE AND NEUTER NOUNS

Mark 13.31: ὁ οὐρανὸς καὶ ἡ γῆ παρελευσονται

– (The) heaven and (the) earth will pass away

οὐρανὸς and γῆ are both subjects and therefore nominative, but they have different endings because they come from different patterns of words – οὐρανὸς is masculine and γῆ is feminine.

3.3.1 The idea of gender

So far we have met one type of noun – those which decline like λογος. Almost all of these words are masculine. We now need to learn how to decline the main family of feminine nouns, and the main family of neuter nouns.

When we talk of masculine, feminine and neuter, this refers to a grammatical gender, which is a way of classifying nouns. Sometimes it will match what English speakers might think the gender of the nouns should be, but sometimes it will not. In effect, rather than talking of masculine, feminine and neuter nouns, we could just as well talk about class 1, class 2 and class 3 nouns, or even blue, green and yellow nouns. ‘Gender’ is just a way of grouping together nouns that behave in similar ways.

Chapter 8 contains more about the gender of nouns. For now, though, things are simple:

- nouns ending in -ος are masculine and decline like λογος
- nouns ending in -η or -α are feminine and decline like ἀρχη, ἡμερα or δοξα
- nouns ending in -ον are neuter and decline like ἔργον

So, for example, because ἀγαπη ends in -η you know that it is feminine.

Gender?

Page 249

3.3.2 The feminine and neuter declensions

	Case	Feminine words	Neuter words
		(beginning)	(work)
Sing.	Nom.	ἄρχη	ἔργον
	Acc.	ἄρχην	ἔργον
	Gen.	ἄρχης	ἔργου
	Dat.	ἄρχῃ	ἐργῷ
Plural	Nom.	ἄρχαι	ἔργα
	Acc.	ἄρχας	ἔργα
	Gen.	ἀρχων	ἐργων
	Dat.	ἀρχαίς	ἐργοῖς

Notes

- The nom. and acc. of ἔργον are identical. This is always true for neuter words.
- There is a special rule for neuter plural nouns. They normally take a singular verb. Thus ‘the children keep the law’ is ‘τα τέκνα τηρεῖ τον νομον’ not ‘τα τέκνα τηρουσιν τον νομον’.

KEY GRAMMAR

Neuter plural nouns take a singular verb

PRACTICE 3.3.2

What case and number are the following words in?

- | | | | |
|--------------|----------|-------------|--------------|
| 1. ἄγαπην | 3. τέκνα | 5. ἀδελφαις | 7. ψυχῇ |
| 2. εὐαγγελίῳ | 4. γῆς | 6. βιβλίων | 8. δαιμονίου |

3.3.3 The feminine and neuter of the definite article. agreement

The definite article (‘the’) also comes in a feminine and neuter form, supplementing the masculine forms we have already seen.

		Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ὁ	ἡ	το
	Acc.	τον	την	το
	Gen.	του	της	του
	Dat.	τω	τη	τω
Plural	Nom.	οἱ	αἱ	τα
	Acc.	τους	τας	τα
	Gen.	των	των	των
	Dat.	τοις	ταις	τοις

We have already learnt that the definite article must agree with the noun it is going with in case and number. It also must agree in gender.

KEY GRAMMAR

Article and noun agree in gender, case and number

PRACTICE 3.3.3

Which part of the definite article agrees with these nouns?

- | | | | |
|----------|----------|-----------|---------|
| 1. θεον | 3. ἔργων | 5. τεκνα | 7. ζωνη |
| 2. ἀγαπη | 4. ἀρχη | 6. λογοις | 8. ἱερα |

3.3.4 Overview of nouns and the article

This chart, putting the definite article ('the') in all its forms alongside the masculine, feminine and neuter nouns, highlights the patterns and similarities.

		Masculine		Feminine		Neuter
		Article	Noun	Article	Noun	Article	Noun
Sing.	Nom.	ὁ	λογος	ἡ	ἀρχη	το	ἔργον
	Acc.	τον	λογον	την	ἀρχην	το	ἔργον
	Gen.	του	λογου	της	ἀρχης	του	ἐργου
	Dat.	τω	λογω	τη	ἀρχῃ	τω	ἐργω
Plural	Nom.	οἱ	λογοι	αἱ	ἀρχαι	τα	ἔργα
	Acc.	τους	λογους	τας	ἀρχας	τα	ἔργα
	Gen.	των	λογων	των	ἀρχων	των	ἐργων
	Dat.	τοις	λογοις	ταις	ἀρχαις	τοις	ἐργοις

Note: The endings of the article are the same as the endings of the nouns of the corresponding gender, except in the masculine nominative singular and the neuter nominative and accusative singular.

3.3.5 Variant feminine forms

Most feminine nouns follow the pattern of ἄρχη outlined above. However, in some nouns in the singular only, there are slight variations on this pattern.

		(day)	(glory)	(beginning)
Sing.	Nom.	ἡμερα	δοξα	ἀρχη
	Acc.	ἡμεραν	δοξαν	ἀρχην
	Gen.	ἡμερας	δοξης	ἀρχης
	Dat.	ἡμερα	δοξη	ἀρχη
Plural	Nom.	ἡμεραι	δοξαι	ἀρχαι
	Acc.	ἡμερας	δοξας	ἀρχας
	Gen.	ἡμερων	δοξων	ἀρχων
	Dat.	ἡμεραις	δοξαις	ἀρχαις

Notes

- The pattern is that in the singular ἄρχη has an η, ἡμερα an α, and δοξα starts with an α but then changes to an η (they all have an α in the plural).
- The rule is that if the letter before the ending is
 - a vowel or ρ, it goes like ἡμερα
 - σ, ξ, ζ (i.e. any 's' sound), it goes like δοξα
 - anything else, it goes like ἀρχη
- Despite these variations, the feminine of the definite article always follows the same pattern (given in 3.3.3). Thus, for example, ἡ δοξα, την ἡμεραν.

PRACTICE 3.3.4 AND 3.3.5

Parse³ the following

- | | | |
|-----------|-----------|-----------|
| 1. βιβλια | 4. τω | 7. ζωη |
| 2. οικιων | 5. ἀρτοις | 8. φωναις |
| 3. κυριου | 6. την | 9. Πετρον |

³ Parse means explain the form of the word. Thus for nouns you need to give the case and number, and for the definite article the case, number and gender. For example, λογον – accusative singular; της – feminine genitive singular.

Do the article and noun in the following agree?

- | | | |
|---------------|------------------|------------------|
| 10. ὁ Χριστον | 13. το ἔργον | 16. τους σημεια |
| 11. τον λαον | 14. τῷ εὐαγγελια | 17. ὁ Παυλος |
| 12. την ὥραν | 15. την νομον | 18. τας ἀμαρτιαν |

3.4 THE VOCATIVE

There is a fifth case in Greek, the vocative, though it is rare and simple.

The vocative is used when addressing people. In form it is almost always identical to the nominative, except in the singular of words that follow the λογος pattern. Sometimes a word in the vocative is preceded by ὦ – O!

Vocatives:	Singular		Plural
	Most words λογος	As nominative λογε	All words	As nominative

Examples

- Μαρια, φιλεις τον κυριον; – Mary! Do you love the lord?

John 4.11: λεγει αὐτῷ Κυριε, οὐτε ἀντλημα ἔχεις.

– She says to him, ‘Sir, you have no bucket.’

Rom. 12.1: παρακαλω οὖν ὑμας, ἀδελφοι ... – Therefore, brothers, I urge you ...

Hint

An ancient piece of Christian liturgy is the Kyrie Eleison (κυριε ἐλεησον), which means ‘Lord, have mercy’. If you can remember this, it will remind you that the vocative of κυριος is κυριε. (Matt. 17.15: κυριε ἐλεησον μου [my] τον υἱον).

PRACTICE 3.4

Which of these could be vocatives?

- | | | | | |
|---------|-----------|------------|-----------|--------|
| 1. θεον | 2. ἀδελφη | 3. ἀδελφος | 4. κυριοι | 5. υἱε |

3.5 Ἰησους

Jesus is unique, at least in grammatical form! The name Ἰησους – Jesus or Joshua – declines in a way similar to, but not quite the same as, λογος (the variations are the result of the strong ου sound dominating the normal endings).

Nom.	Ἰησοῦς	(Vocative is Ἰησοῦ)
Acc.	Ἰησοῦν
Gen.	Ἰησοῦ
Dat.	Ἰησοῦ

E.g. οἱ ὄχλοι ζητοῦσιν τὸν Ἰησοῦν. – The crowds are seeking Jesus.

ὁ δούλος τοῦ Ἰησοῦ λεγεί. – The slave of Jesus is speaking.

Hint

Because Ἰησοῦς usually has the definite article, spotting which case it is in is easy – τῷ Ἰησοῦ must be dative because τῷ is dative and the article and nouns have to agree in case (and number and gender).

3.6 αὐτός

αὐτός is an extremely important pronoun in Greek. It is the 3rd person pronoun. Therefore in the singular it means ‘he’, ‘she’ or ‘it’ depending on its gender, and ‘they’ in the plural. The English translation of each part of it is given below for ease.

Pronoun?

See it in English

Page 242

		Masculine		Feminine		Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	αὐτός	he	αὐτή	she	αὐτό	it
	Acc.	αὐτόν	him	αὐτήν	her	αὐτό	it
	Gen.	αὐτοῦ	his ⁴	αὐτῆς	her ⁴	αὐτοῦ	its ⁴
	Dat.	αὐτῷ	to him	αὐτῇ	to her	αὐτῷ	to it
Plural	Nom.	αὐτοί	they	αὐταί	they	αὐτά	they
	Acc.	αὐτούς	them	αὐτάς	them	αὐτά	them
	Gen.	αὐτῶν	their ⁴	αὐτῶν	their ⁴	αὐτῶν	their ⁴
	Dat.	αὐτοῖς	to them	αὐταῖς	to them	αὐτοῖς	to them

Notes

- The endings of αὐτός are identical to those of the nouns of the appropriate gender (λογος, ἀρχή or ἔργον), except in the neuter nominative and accusative singular where the ending is -o not -ov, though this is the same variation as is found in the article (which is το, not τον).
- αὐτός does not normally occur in the nominative, because λυεῖ itself means ‘he, she or it unties’: there is no need for a word for ‘he, she or it’. It can be used in this way for emphasis, but that is discussed in Chapter 9. When translating English to Greek, you should not use αὐτός in the nominative unless you intend a particular emphasis on the subject.

- When the genitive of αὐτός is used to express possession (his, her, its, their) the definite article is used with the noun as well the genitive of αὐτός. Thus ‘his word’ is not λογος αὐτου but ὁ λογος αὐτου (think of ‘his word’ as ‘the word of him’).

Examples

- λαλουμεν αὐτη. – We are speaking to her.
- ὁ κυριος αὐτου φιλει αὐτον. – His master loves him.
- βλεπεις αὐτο; – Do you see it?

Section C

From now on after each chapter a piece of the New Testament will be given for you to translate. These passages will be printed exactly as they appear in the New Testament. Thus (a) the text will be accented (look back at page 17 to understand why accents are ignored in this book but are present in printed copies of the New Testament); (b) there may be words that you have not yet met – their meaning will be given in square brackets.

Mark 1.1 Ἀρχὴ τοῦ εὐαγγελίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ υἱοῦ θεοῦ.

Prepositions

4.1 BASIC PREPOSITIONS

Mark 12.41: ὁ ὄχλος βαλλει χαλκον εἰς το γαζοφυλακιον.

– the crowd throws money into the treasury.

John 18.28: ἄγουσιν ... τον Ἰησουν ἀπο του Καϊάφα εἰς το πραιτωριον.

– they lead Jesus from Caiaphas into the headquarters.

A preposition is a word (or phrase) in front of a noun (or pronoun) to indicate how it fits into the rest of the sentence:

- e.g. (i) God sent the messenger into the village
(ii) The women came out from the city.

Preposition?

See it in English

Page 243

The key to prepositions in Greek is that they determine the case of the noun that comes after them (the word that they govern). Thus in (i) above, the case of ‘village’ (and therefore of ‘the’ which agrees with village) is determined by the ‘into’, and in (ii) the case of ‘city’ is determined by ‘out from’.

KEY GRAMMAR

Prepositions determine the case of the noun they precede

For each preposition you must learn which case it ‘goes with’ (i.e. which case the noun it governs will be found in). Here are five of the most common prepositions.

Preposition	Case
εἰς – to, into προς – to, towards	Accusative
ἀπο – (away) from ἐκ – (out) from	Genitive
ἐν – in	Dative

Notes

- εἰς signifies motion to, while the dative is used on its own to translate ‘to’ without motion (when it signifies personal interest or involvement). Thus, I go to the town (εἰς plus accusative) and I speak to God (just the dative).
- This chart illustrates the differences between εἰς and πρὸς, and ἐκ and ἀπο.

Examples

- ὁ κυριος ἄγει τον δουλων εἰς την οἰκίαν.
1. ὁ κυριος = the master – nom. τον δουλων = the slave – acc.
την οἰκίαν = the house – acc.
 2. Master is nom. because it is the subject Slave is acc. – the object
House is acc. because it is governed by εἰς which takes the accusative
 3. Sentence = ‘The master is leading the slave into the house.’
- ὁ κυριος ἄγει τον δουλων ἐκ της οἰκίας.
1. ὁ κυριος = the master – nom. τον δουλων = the slave – acc.
της οἰκίας = the house – gen.
 2. Master is nom. because it is the subject Slave is acc. – the object
House is gen. because it is governed by ἐκ which takes the genitive
 3. Sentence = ‘The master leads the slave out of the house.’

PRACTICE 4.1

| 2. εἰς τους οὐρανους | 5. ἀπο του ἱερου | 8. into the crowds |
| 3. πρὸς τα πλοια | 6. ἐν τη ἐκκλησιᾳ | 9. away from him |

We have now met two different factors that determine which case a noun will be in – because of its function in the sentence (subject, object, possessor etc.), and because it is governed by a preposition.¹ Fortunately, these two never clash.

4.2 MORE PREPOSITIONS

Matt. 10.24: οὐκ ἐστὶν ... δούλος ὑπὲρ τον κυριον αὐτου.

– A slave is not above the master of him (his master).

1 Cor. 15.3: Χριστος ἀπεθανεν ὑπὲρ των ἁμαρτιων ἡμων.

– Christ died on behalf of the sins of us (our sins).

The same preposition ὑπὲρ has a different meaning when followed by an accusative ('above the master') compared to a genitive ('on behalf of the sins').

4.2.1 The principle of prepositions with more than one case

The five prepositions we have already met (εἰς, πρὸς, ἐκ, ἀπὸ and ἐν) can only be used with a single case.² Thus each of these will always be followed by a noun in that particular case, and each always conveys the same basic meaning. However, many Greek prepositions can be used with two or even three different cases, and they convey a different meaning depending on which case they are governing. Thus μετὰ + acc. has a different meaning from μετὰ + gen.

KEY GRAMMAR

The same preposition has a different meaning when it is used with a different case

The case that a preposition governs when conveying a particular meaning needs to be learnt (i.e. it is no good learning that μετὰ means 'with' – it doesn't; μετὰ + acc. means 'after' and μετὰ + gen. means 'with').³

¹ At a deeper level it can be argued that the case of a noun after a preposition is determined by the meaning conveyed by the different cases, not by the preposition. However, in practice it is easier to think of the prepositions governing certain cases.

² In fact on rare occasion πρὸς can be used with the genitive or dative.

³ There are some general principles underlying the connection between the meaning of a preposition and the case used with it. However, while helpful to understand, these principles cannot be relied upon – the preposition and its case still needs to be learnt.

- The accusative is connected with ideas of extension (whether in time or space). Thus 'movement to' takes the acc. (as εἰς and πρὸς do).
- The genitive has two senses. (i) The idea of separation (whether in time or space). Thus 'movement from' takes the gen. (as ἀπὸ and ἐκ do). (ii) The idea of kind (i.e. describing the nature of something, often corresponding to the English 'of').
- The dative is connected to ideas of location (whether in time or space). Thus ἐν takes the dat.

4.2.2 Prepositions with three cases

παρα + accusative	motion beside – περιπατει παρα την θαλασσαν – she walks beside the sea
genitive	from beside (a person) – άνθρωπος παρα του θεου – a man from God
dative	location beside – διδασκει παρα τη θαλασση – he teaches besides the sea

ἐπι + accusative	onto – βαλλει τον ἄρτον ἐπι το βιβλιον – she throws the bread onto the book
genitive ⁴	location on – ἐπι της γης – on the land/earth in the time of – περιπατει ἐπι του Ἰησου – he lives in the time of Jesus
dative ⁴	location on/in – ἐπι τοις οὐρανοις – in the heavens on the basis of – οὐ περιπατει ἐπι ἄρτῳ – she does not live by bread

4.2.3 Prepositions with two cases⁵

δια + accusative	because of – δια τον ὄχλον – because of the crowd
genitive	through – δια του ἀγγελου – through the messenger

κατα + accusative	according to – κατα νομον – according to law
genitive	against – κατα του Ἰησου – against Jesus

μετα + accusative	after – μετα το σαββατον – after the Sabbath
genitive	with – μετα αὐτου – with him (written μετ' αὐτου, see section 4.2.5)

⁴ In practice there is often little difference between the meaning of ἐπι when it occurs with the genitive and with the dative.

⁵ Notice that for each of these prepositions (except for ὑπο) the English meaning with the accusative comes earlier in the alphabet than the English meaning when it comes with the genitive. This might help you distinguish the meanings!

περι + accusative genitive	approximately, around – περι τον Παύλον – around Paul concerning, about – περι άμαρτίας – concerning sin
ύπερ + accusative genitive	above – ύπερ την γην – above the earth on behalf of – ύπερ τεκνου – on behalf of a child
ύπο + accusative genitive	under – ύπο νομον – under law by – ύπο του Πετρου – by Peter (as in ‘it was done by Peter’)

Note

- The English words ‘by’ and ‘with’ are sometimes represented in Greek by a preposition (ύπο and μετα), sometimes just by the use of the dative. This is explained further in Chapter 4, section 4.3.

4.2.4 Prepositions with one case

There are five more prepositions that occur with a single case to add to those from section 4.1 to give ten.

εις προς	+ accusative	to, into to, towards
άπο έκ ένωπιον έξω έως προ	+ genitive	(away) from (out) from before (place) – ένωπιον του θεου – before God outside – έξω της οικίας – outside the house until – έως του σαββατου – until the Sabbath before (time) – προ σαββατου – before Sabbath
έν συν	+ dative	in with – συν αύτοις – with them

Note: Naturally there is not a perfect overlap between the range of meanings of a Greek preposition and those of any one English preposition. The meanings given above are the basic meanings, which will point you in the right direction when translating. However, as you become more practised at reading Greek, you will get used to being more flexible. For example, εις means ‘into’ but in Mark 1.4 John proclaims a baptism ‘εις άφεσιν (forgiveness) άμαρτιων’. ‘Baptism into forgiveness of sins’ does not sound quite right in English, although it makes the meaning clear. We might say ‘baptism resulting in forgiveness of sins’, ‘aiming at forgiveness of sins’ or ‘for forgiveness of sins’.

4.2.5 Elision in prepositions

Many prepositions that end in a vowel drop the vowel when the following word begins with a vowel (this is called elision). ἐκ also has its own peculiarities. The rules are as follows.

In front of a word beginning with a vowel:

ἀπο, δια, ἐπι, κατα, μετα, παρα, ὑπο	drop their final vowel ⁶
ἐξω, περι and προ	remain unchanged
ἐκ	becomes ἐξ

Examples

- δι’ αὐτοῦ – through him.
- περι ἁμαρτίας – concerning sin.
- ἐξ οἰκίας – from a house.

3. λαλοῦσιν αὐτῷ περὶ τοῦ ἱεροῦ.
4. λέγει ὁ κυριος τῆς οἰκίας ὑπὲρ τοῦ τέκνου.
5. ὁ υἱὸς λαμβάνει τὸν ἄρτον μετ’ αὐτοῦ.
6. ὁ θεὸς φιλεῖ τὰ ἔργα κατὰ τὸν νομὸν.

⁶ In addition, if the vowel has a rough breathing, a final τ will become a θ and a π will become a φ. Thus: ‘under sin’ = ὑφ’ ἁμαρτιαν (ὑπο ἁμαρτιαν → ὑπ’ ἁμαρτιαν → ὑφ’ ἁμαρτιαν). Similarly ἀπο → ἀφ’, ἐπι → ἐφ’, κατα → καθ’, μετα → μεθ’.

7. ὁ Παῦλος λέγει τῷ λαῷ κατὰ τοῦ Χριστοῦ τοῦ θεοῦ.
 8. ἄγουσιν τὰ τέκνα εἰς τὸν οἶκον.
 9. I see it in her heart.
 10. Jesus is teaching the crowd outside the temple.
 11. God loves the peoples under heaven.
 12. God speaks the law through angels.

4.3 INSTRUMENTS AND AGENTS

In English we use the words ‘with’ or ‘by’ to indicate the means by which something happens, or the instrument or agent used:

I was helped by her. I was walking with a stick. I was hit by a stone.

However, we also use the word ‘with’ in a different sense, not meaning ‘by means of’ but rather ‘along with’:

I went with him.

Greek has a clear way of expressing instruments and agents that removes some of the ambiguity of English words such as ‘with’ and ‘by’.

Instrument

An instrument is an inanimate object by means of which the action of the verb happens. In Greek this is normally expressed by the instrument just occurring in the dative, without a preposition.

- God makes the heavens with a word – ὁ θεὸς ποιεῖ τοὺς οὐρανούς λόγῳ.

However, sometimes an instrument is expressed by the preposition ἐν + dat.⁷

Agent

An agent is a living being by means of which the action of the verb happens. In Greek this is expressed by the preposition ὑπό + gen.

- The gospel was proclaimed by Peter – . . . ὑπο τοῦ Πέτρου.⁸

⁸ Agents normally only occur in ‘Passive’ sentences, which are quite rare in Greek (left until Chapter 15), but it makes sense to learn ὑπό now alongside the other prepositions.

Along with

‘With’ meaning ‘along with’ rather than ‘by means of’ is expressed in Greek by the preposition μετα + gen (or more rarely συν + dat.).

- I depart with Peter – ὑπάγω μετα του Πετρου.

Example

ὁ θεος λεγει μετα τεκνων και ποιει τον κοσμον λογω.

God speaks with children and makes the world with a word.

PRACTICE 4.3

Which of the following would use an instrumental dative in Greek?

- | | |
|--------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1. I went with him. | 3. I was helped by her. |
| 2. I was hit by a stone. | 4. I was walking with a stick. |

4.4 COMPOUND VERBS

In Greek many words are constructed by combining a basic word with a preposition. For example, ἐκ means ‘out of’ and βαλλω means ‘I throw’, so ἐκβαλλω means ‘I throw out’. Later on (Chapter 6) identifying compound verbs becomes important. For now, though, thinking about compound verbs helps build up your vocabulary. You will find 11 compound verbs in this chapter’s vocabulary.

Notes

- In English you cannot deduce the meaning of ‘understand’ by thinking of its two constituent parts ‘under’ and ‘stand’. Similarly in Greek you cannot always deduce the meaning of a word from its parts.
 - In some verbs, the force of both the verb and the preposition is preserved
e.g. ἐκβαλλω – I throw out
 - In some verbs, the preposition intensifies or completes the meaning, though without the force of the preposition being clearly preserved.
e.g. ἀπολυω – I release (λυω itself means ‘I untie’)
 - In some verbs, the preposition seems to give the verb a new meaning, which is not easily connected to the force of the preposition.
e.g. ἀναγινωσκω – I read (γινωσκω itself means ‘I know’ and ἀνα means ‘upwards’ or ‘again’).

- When forming compounds, the rules for the elision of prepositions (section 4.2.5) are particularly important. Thus ἀπο + ἄγω = ἀπαγω (I lead away).
- Even though a compound verb may ‘contain’ a preposition, the correct preposition will still be found in the sentence used in the normal way e.g. ἐκβαλλω αὐτον ἐκ της οἰκίας.

4.5 QUESTIONS

Asking questions is simple in Greek:⁹

Either 1. Use a question word

There are question words in Greek such as πῶς; – how? or πού; – where?

e.g. πῶς βλέπεις τον θεον; – How do you see God?

Or 2. Rely on tone of voice

Of course, you can’t see the tone of voice when it is written down! Therefore all that marks out the question is the question mark:

e.g. βλέπεις τον θεον. – You see God.
 βλέπεις τον θεον; – Do you see God?

4.6 NEGATIVES

A verb in the Indicative (which means all the verbs we have met so far) is made negative by the addition of the word οὐ (= ‘not’).

Before a vowel with a smooth breathing this becomes οὐκ.

Before a vowel with a rough breathing this becomes οὐχ.

Examples

- οὐ βλέπω. – I do not see.
- οὐκ ἀκουουσιν. – They do not hear.
- οὐχ εὕρισκει το τεκνον. – She does not find the child.

⁹ Remember (page 18) the question mark in Greek is ; Like all punctuation, question marks are not actually part of the text but have been added by editors.

3. προσκυνουμεν τω θεω εν τω ιερω.
- 4. δια την ωραν ο κυριος απολυει τον οχλον.
- *5. περιπατειτε εν τη αγαπη του θεου κατα τον λογον αυτου;

¹² From now on increasing numbers of the sentences in the exercises will be based on sentences from the New Testament. This means that occasionally they will not quite follow the 'rules' you have learnt – Greek is a language, not a mathematical code. So, for example, in A1 you would expect to see παρ' ανθρωπων not παρα ανθρωπων, the final vowel of παρα eliding (as explained in section 4.2.5). However, while normally you would find παρ' this sentence is taken directly from John 5.41, where παρα is found. See page 5 for further discussion of the rationale behind the sentences, and what difference it makes.

6. ὁ ἄγγελος λυει τον Πετρον και παραλαμβανει αὐτον προς τους ἀδελφους.
7. μετα την ἀρχην του σαββατου ὁ ῥαββι και οἱ υἱοι αὐτου οὐ ποιουσιν ἔργον.
8. που ὁ κυριος διδασκει περι του εὐαγγελιου της βασιλειας του θεου;
9. Mary gathers the sisters and they seek the Lord with the brothers.
- *10. The child dwells in the house of the Lord, and does not depart from it.
- *11. The voice of God is [ἐστιν] above the heavens and in their hearts.
- *12. The people do works on behalf of the children because of the love of Christ.

Section C¹³

John 1.1-4 Ἐν ἀρχῇ ἦν [was] ὁ λόγος, καὶ ὁ λόγος ἦν πρὸς¹⁴ τὸν θεόν, καὶ θεὸς ἦν ὁ λόγος.¹⁵ οὗτος [this one] ἦν ἐν ἀρχῇ πρὸς¹⁴ τὸν θεόν. . . ἐν αὐτῷ ζωὴ ἦν, καὶ ἡ ζωὴ ἦν τὸ φῶς [light] τῶν ἀνθρώπων.

¹³ Remember, the biblical text in section C is given exactly as it appears in printed texts of the New Testament. This means that the words have accents on them, and there will be some words that you have not met yet whose meaning is given in brackets. See the explanation on page 6.

¹⁴ We have learnt πρὸς + acc. means 'to' or 'towards'. It is also sometimes used metaphorically in situations when there is a direction or orientation, but no actual movement ('with a view to', 'aiming at'). What do you think it means here?

¹⁵ λόγος is the subject here, not θεός. The reason for this is explained in Chapter 5, section 5.8.

Adjectives

5.1 FORMATION OF ADJECTIVES

Rev. 21.1-2: εἶδον οὐρανὸν καὶνον καὶ γῆν καὶνην. ὁ ... πρῶτος οὐρανὸς καὶ ἡ πρῶτη γῆ ἀπῆλθαν – I saw a new heaven and a new earth. The first heaven and the first earth departed.

καῖνος (new) and πρῶτος (first) are adjectives. They add further description to a noun. In Greek they have to agree with the noun they are describing. Thus οὐρανὸν καὶνον but γῆν καὶνην. Both οὐρανὸν and γῆν are accusative singular, but οὐρανὸς is masculine and γῆ feminine.

καῖνος does not have a gender itself; instead it uses a masculine form when describing a masculine noun, and a feminine form when describing a feminine noun. Similarly πρῶτος and πρῶτη are both nominative singular, but one is ‘in the masculine’ (agreeing with οὐρανὸς) and the other ‘in the feminine’ (agreeing with γῆ).

Most adjectives decline like ἀγαθος (good):

		Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ἀγαθος	ἀγαθη	ἀγαθον
	Acc.	ἀγαθον	ἀγαθην	ἀγαθον
	Gen.	ἀγαθου	ἀγαθης	ἀγαθου
	Dat.	ἀγαθῳ	ἀγαθῇ	ἀγαθῳ
Plural	Nom.	ἀγαθοι	ἀγαθαι	ἀγαθα
	Acc.	ἀγαθους	ἀγαθας	ἀγαθα
	Gen.	ἀγαθων	ἀγαθων	ἀγαθων
	Dat.	ἀγαθοῖς	ἀγαθαῖς	ἀγαθοῖς

Notes

- We have already learnt these endings. They are the same as those for nouns of the corresponding gender (and hence similar to αὐτός and the article).

5.2 USE OF ADJECTIVES (1) – ATTRIBUTIVE

Adjectives must agree with the noun they qualify in gender, case and number

Example

- They see the beautiful land.

Here we have a basic sentence ‘they see the land’, but then the ‘land’ has been further qualified or described by the addition of the adjective ‘beautiful’. This is the normal (attributive) use of the adjective.

Furthermore, because 'beautiful' is qualifying 'land', it will have to agree with 'land' in gender, case and number.

Word order

When a noun is qualified by both the article and an (attributive) adjective, there are two possible word orders in Greek. The first is the same as in English.

They see the beautiful land. either βλέπουσιν την καλήν γην.
 or βλέπουσιν την γην την καλήν.

Thus, if the adjective comes after the noun, the article is repeated.

When there is no definite article, things are simpler and the adjective can come either before or after the noun it qualifies:

They see a new earth.

*or*βλεπουσιν καινην γην.
βλεπουσιν γην καινην.

| 5. ο κυριος ουκ εχει καλον υιον. | 10. The crowd seeks the only god. |

5.3 εἰμι – I AM

As in most languages, the verb ‘to be’ has its own distinctive pattern:

1 st sing.	I am	εἰμι
2 nd sing.	You are	εἶ
3 rd sing.	He, she or it is	ἐστί(ν)
1 st plural	We are	ἐσμεν
2 nd plural	You are	ἐστε
3 rd plural	They are	εἰσι(ν)

- Note the first and second plural have similarities with λυω ἐσ-μεν compared to λυ-ο-μεν ἐσ-τε compared to λυ-ε-τε

Hint

Normally, accents do not convey any useful information. However, there are two different words written as εἶ which can be distinguished by their accents:

εῖ – with the circumflex – you are (2nd singular of εἰμι)

εἶ – no accent – if

Thus: Matt. 4.3: εἶ υἱος εἰ του θεου → If you are the son of God.

Noticing this may help you.

5.4 USE OF ADJECTIVES (2) – PREDICATIVE

Rom. 7.12: ὁ νομος [ἐστίν] ἅγιος – ‘The law is holy.’

This sentence is in the form ‘x (noun) is y (adjective).’ Many sentences using the verb ‘to be’ are similar. The adjective is still describing the noun (ask ‘what is holy?’ and the answer is ‘the law’) but it is being used differently from the way it is used in a sentence such as ζητῶ ἅγιον νομον – I seek a holy law.

In these sentences it is important to understand that the adjective is not an object, but rather is an adjective qualifying the noun: ‘holy’ is telling us something further about ‘the law’. Thus it needs to agree with the noun in gender, case and number. However, such use of an adjective is different from the attributive use, because the adjective is not merely qualifying one of the nouns in the sentence – the whole point of the sentence is to make this description. The adjective itself completes the sentence (hence the adjective is called a complement). This use of the adjective is called the predicative use.

Complement?

See it in English

Page 245

Hint

To tell the difference between the attributive and predicative use, try deleting the adjective from the sentence. If it still makes sense, the adjective was attributive. If it doesn’t, it was predicative.

Word order

Predicative adjectives follow a different word order from the attributive. Again, there are two options, one being the same as in English.¹

The law is holy. either ὁ νομος ἐστίν ἅγιος.
or ἅγιος ἐστίν ὁ νομος.

KEY GRAMMAR

Predicative adjectives are never immediately preceded by the article.

¹ It is quite unusual to have a predicative use when there is no definite article, but when this does happen the options are predictably νομος ἐστίν ἅγιος or ἅγιος ἐστίν νομος.

Omission of the verb 'to be'

However, Rom. 7.12 does not in fact say ὁ νομος ἐστὶν ἅγιος but ὁ νομος ἅγιος. This is because the Greeks often let the verb 'to be' drop out of sentences. In these cases you need to put it back in (supply it). It is normally easy to spot when this is necessary: (a) if the sentence does not appear to have a verb in it, one must have dropped out; (b) the adjective will be in the predicative position.

Example

- Rom. 7.12: ὁ νομος ἅγιος καὶ ἡ ἐντολὴ ἅγια καὶ δίκαια καὶ ἀγαθὴ.
= The law (is) holy and the commandment (is) holy and just and good.

9. A wicked crowd seeks signs.
10. Is God dead?
11. We are departing to our own houses.
12. The Jewish sister is good.

5.5 USE OF ADJECTIVES (3) – AS NOUNS

Greek has a way of making nouns from adjectives, which is very common. The adjective is just put with the article. The case of the adjective is then determined by its function in the sentence (subject, object etc.). Its gender reveals whether it is a person or a man (masc.), a woman (fem.) or a thing (neuter). Note that Greek uses the masculine as the default when referring to people in general.

Examples

- ὁ ἀγαθος - the good person/man
- ἡ καλη – the beautiful woman
- τα ἅγια - the holy things
- οἱ νεκροί – the dead (ones)

Matt. 5.8: μακαριοι οἱ καθαροι ... – blessed are the pure ...

2. οἱ ἀγαθοι διδασκουσιν.
3. ὁ Παυλος λεγει τοις ἁγιοις.

5.6 πολυς AND μεγας

These two important adjectives, πολυς meaning ‘much/many’ and μεγας meaning ‘large/great’, decline in the same way as ἀγαθος but with a slight irregularity.

	Masc.	Fem.	Neuter	Masc.	Fem.	Neuter
Singular
Nom.	πολυς	πολλη	πολυ	μεγας	μεγαλη	μεγα
Acc.	πολυν	πολλην	πολυ	μεγαν	μεγαλην	μεγα
Gen.	πολλου	πολλης	πολλου	μεγαλου	μεγαλης	μεγαλου

Dat.	πολλοις	πολλαις	πολλοις	μεγαλοις	μεγαλαις	μεγαλοις

If you look closely at this you will see that:

- πολυς is πολλος with a shortened nom. and acc., masc. and neuter sing.
- μεγας is μεγαλος with a shortened nom. and acc., masc. and neuter sing.

Examples

(Mark 1.34, Col. 4.13, and Mark 1. 26 slightly simplified.)

- δαιμονια πολλα ἐκβαλλει = He throws out many demons.
- ἔχει πολυν πονον [toil] ὑπερ των ἐν Λαοδικεια = He has much labour on behalf of those in Laodiceia (i.e. 'he has worked very hard ...').
- λεγει φωνη μεγαλη = He says in loud (great) voice.

5.7 WORD ORDER IN GREEK SENTENCES

In general

As we have already seen, because the case of a noun communicates its function in a sentence and agreement shows which adjectives go with which nouns, word order can be more flexible in Greek than it is in English.

Thus, the basic meaning of these two sentences is the same:

- (i) ὁ θεος διδασκει τους Ἰουδαιους.
 (ii) τους Ἰουδαιους ὁ θεος διδασκει.

However, the word order can communicate emphasis. The word that comes first carries more stress – thus (i) seems to be emphasising that it is God who is teaching the Jews, while (ii) emphasises that it is the Jews whom God is teaching. In longer sentences, the final word also carries quite a lot of stress.

'Sandwich' constructions

We have now learnt three different ways of qualifying a noun (i.e. adding further description to it):

- | | | | |
|---------------|---------------|------|------------------------------------|
| Adjectives: | Either | (i) | βλεπω το ιερον το καλον . |
| | Or | (ii) | βλεπω το καλον ιερον. |
| Genitives: | | | βλεπω το ιερον του κυριου . |
| Prepositions: | | | βλεπω το ιερον ἐν τη γη . |

If you look carefully you will see that the word order in the examples above using genitives and prepositions is very similar to example (i) using adjectives – the descriptive word or phrase comes after the noun.²

There is an alternative word order for genitives and prepositions which is similar to order (ii) for adjectives. This is called the ‘sandwich’ construction because the τοῦ κυρίου or the ἐν τῇ γῇ is put between the το and the ἱερόν, just as the καλόν was between the το and the ἱερόν.

βλεπὼ το τοῦ κυρίου ἱερόν.

βλεπὼ το ἐν τῇ γῇ ἱερόν.

The occurrence of two articles on the run (το τοῦ) or the article followed by a preposition (το ἐν) can be confusing initially. However, the advantage of this construction is that it is clear which noun the descriptive phrase is going with.

5.8 SPECIAL USES OF εἰμι

Preparatory use

While ἐστί(ν) and εἰσι(ν) normally mean ‘he, she or it is’ and ‘they are’, if they are put first in the sentence they mean ‘there is’ or ‘there are’:

e.g. ὁ τυφλὸς ἐστὶν ἐν τῇ συναγωγῇ. – The blind man is in the synagogue.
ἐστὶν τυφλὸς ἐν τῇ συναγωγῇ. – There is a blind man in the synagogue.

Nouns as complements

We met earlier the idea of an adjective as a complement, noting that the adjective is not an object, but agrees with the noun it is describing and will therefore be in the nominative. Thus ‘the son is good’ is:

ὁ υἱὸς ἐστὶν ἀγαθός or ἀγαθὸς ἐστὶν ὁ υἱός

Unsurprisingly, the complement can be a noun, instead of an adjective, e.g. ‘the son is the lord’

ὁ υἱὸς ἐστὶν ὁ κύριος

Note that ὁ κύριος here is in the nominative. It is not an object, but a complement which is further describing ὁ υἱός and therefore in the same case as it.

² Indeed, sometimes the article is repeated before the genitive or preposition, just as it is before the καλόν, e.g. το ἱερόν τοῦ κυρίου and το ἱερόν το ἐν τῇ γῇ.

Complement?

See it in English

In this situation it is easy to imagine that ἐστιν simply functions as an ‘equals sign’: ὁ υἱός = ὁ κύριος. However, it is a little more complicated because ‘the king is the judge’ is not quite the same as ‘the judge is the king’.

Thus it is necessary to distinguish between the subject and any noun that is a complement, although both will be in the nominative. Greek does this in the following way:

Either the subject comes before the complement or the article is dropped from the complement.

E.g. The son is the lord is either ὁ υἱός ἐστιν ὁ κύριος or κύριος ἐστιν ὁ υἱός

Examples (subjects underlined>

Mark 2.28: κύριος ἐστιν ὁ υἱός του ἀνθρώπου δικαίος (79) – upright, just ἐκάστος (82) – each

*ἕτερος (98) – another, different

*ἴδιος (114) – one's own

*Ἰουδαίος (195) – Jewish, a Jew

κακός (50) – bad

*ὁσός (110) – as/how great, as/how much

πιστός (67) – faithful, believing

*πονηρός (78) – evil, wicked

*τυφλός (50) – blind

³ Because θεός is a complement preceding the subject it can't have the article (the rule we have just learnt), thus grammatically we can't tell if the author meant that the word was θεός or ὁ θεός, but we do know the sentence means 'the word was (the) god', not 'god was the word'.

Two slightly irregular adjectives

*μεγας μεγαλη μεγα (243) – large, great *πολυς πολλη πολυ (416) – much, many

Four more feminine nouns

Γαλιλαια (61) – Galilee

*ειρηνη (92) – peace

*κεφαλη (75) – head

*συναγωγη (56) – synagogue

Four important conjunctions

*αλλα (638) – but

Two special words:

(i) There are two alternatives for ‘Jerusalem’: either *Ιεροσολυμα (77) – a neuter plural word with a rough breathing, or *Ιερουσαλημ (63) a feminine singular indeclinable word with a smooth breathing. (For the meaning of indeclinable see note 4 on page 30.)

(ii) *αιωνιος (71) an adjective meaning ‘eternal’. αιωνιος never uses the feminine forms. It uses the masculine endings when agreeing with a feminine noun, e.g. η αιωνιος ζωη.

The tenses

6.1 IDEA OF TENSES

John 14.1: πιστευετε εἰς τον θεον – you believe in God.

John 11.48: παντες πιστευουσιν εἰς αὐτον
– everyone will believe in him.

John 7.5: οἱ ἀδελφοι αὐτου ἐπιστευον εἰς αὐτον
– his brothers were believing in him.

John 4.50: ἐπιστευσεν ὁ ἄνθρωπος τῷ λόγῳ
– the man believed the word.

Alterations in a verb change its tense: πιστευετε – believe; πιστευουσιν – will believe; ἐπιστευον – were believing; ἐπιστευσεν – believed.

- The Future, Imperfect and Aorist are tenses, to put alongside the Present.
- Greek indicates tense by altering the form of the verb, while in English we add extra words. Thus, λυσομεν (note the added σ) means ‘we will untie’.
- The different tenses communicate both the time when the action is taking place (Present, Future, Past etc.) and the aspect (the nature of the action – whether it was a process, or completed etc.).
- The Present, Future, Imperfect and Aorist are the four common tenses – the final two will be added much later (Chapter 16).

6.2 DISTINGUISHING THE TENSES

The different tenses are formed by

- (i) adding prefixes and suffixes to the stem
- (ii) by having a different set of endings.

The prefixes and suffixes are the easiest thing to spot:

		Stem		Ending
Tense:	Present		λυ	ω
	Future		λυ σ	ω
	Imperfect	ἐ	λυ	οῦ
	Aorist	ἐ	λυ σ	α

- The two Past tenses (Aorist and Imperfect) have an ἐ prefix (called an augment).
- The Future and the Aorist both have a σ suffix.

Thus:

KEY GRAMMAR
no prefix		no suffix	Present
no prefix	plus	σ suffix	= Future
ἐ prefix		no suffix	Imperfect
ἐ prefix		σ suffix	Aorist

PRACTICE 6.2

Which tense are the following in?

Hint

Ignore the endings – look for the prefixes and suffixes

- | | | |
|---------------|-----------------|--------------|
| 1. ἀκουσ-ομεν | 3. ἐπιστευσ-ατε | 5. λυσ-ουσιν |
| 2. ἐβλεπ-ον | 4. ἐδιδασκ-εν | 6. ἀγ-ω |

6.3 THE MEANING OF THE TENSES

Greek tense	Time	Aspect	English equivalent
Present	Present	Process or Undefined	I am untying or I untie
Future	Future	Undefined	I will untie
Imperfect	Past	Process	I was untying
Aorist	Past	Undefined	I untied

The meaning of the tenses is built up from the combination of time and aspect. Time is just as in English – Past, Present or Future. Aspect needs more attention.

- Process Aspect means that the action is being viewed as part of an ongoing process – either continuous or repeated
- Undefined Aspect can be used for two different reasons:
 - (i) It is truly undefined – or default – nothing is being implied at all about the manner in which the action occurred.
 - (ii) It is deliberately being used as opposed to using the process aspect, thus a punctiliar ('one-time') sense is meant.

Present

If you want to express present time, there is no choice in Greek. You just use the Present tense, even though this can have two different aspects – undefined or process. This is why we learnt earlier (Chapter 2, section 2.1) that the Greek Present tense can mean either 'I am untying' (process) or 'I untie' (undefined).

Future

If you want to express future time, there is no choice. You use the Future.

Past: The Difference between the Imperfect and the Aorist

If you want past time, there is a choice – the Imperfect carries the process aspect, and the Aorist the undefined aspect.

The Aorist describes a past action without reference to continuance, repetition or completion, often but not always implying a single past action.

– I untied, you untied etc.

The Imperfect describes an action in the past that is viewed as a process. This itself gives rise to three different possibilities:

- Continuous process gives the English translations using 'was' or 'were'
 - I was untying, you were untying, etc.
- Repeated (or habitual) process gives the English translations using 'used to'
 - I used to untie, you used to untie, etc.
- Plus, the Imperfect can also be used for a process in the past that is viewed as just beginning.
 - I began to untie, you began to untie, etc. For example:

Matt. 5.2: He opened his mouth (Aorist) and began to teach (Imperfect).

6.3.1 Basic English equivalents

Although you should try to understand the meaning and ‘flavour’ of the different Greek tenses, many students do find it easier to begin with to identify English equivalents.

	Present	Future	Imperfect	Aorist
1 st sing.	I am untying	I will untie	I was untying	I untied
2 nd sing.	You are untying	You will untie	You were untying	You untied
3 rd sing.	He is untying	He will untie	He was untying	He untied
1 st pl.	We are untying	We will untie	We were untying	We untied
2 nd pl.	You are untying	You will untie	You were untying	You untied
3 rd pl.	They are untying	They will untie	They were untying	They untied

Remember: 3rd person singular is ‘he’, ‘she’ or ‘it’; Present can be ‘I untie’, ‘you untie’, etc.; Imperfect can be ‘I used to untie’, etc.

PRACTICE 6.3

Which Greek tenses are correct for the following?

1. I will see.
2. They were hearing.
3. She used to eat.
4. You are throwing.
5. He sent.
6. I see.

Translate

Don't worry about the endings – they are all in the first person singular.

Hint

7. ἀκουσῶ.
8. λαμβανῶ.
9. ἐπεμπον.
10. ἐβαπτιζον.
11. ἐπιστευσᾶ.
12. ἔχω.

6.4 THE ENDINGS

	Present	Future	Imperfect	Aorist
I	λυ-ω	λυσ-ω	ἐλυ-ον	ἐλυσ-α
You (sing.)	λυ-εις	λυσ-εις	ἐλυ-ες	ἐλυσ-ας
He, she, it	λυ-ει	λυσ-ει	ἐλυ-ε(ν)	ἐλυσ-ε(ν)
We	λυ-ομεν	λυσ-ομεν	ἐλυ-ομεν	ἐλυσ-αμεν
You (pl.)	λυ-ετε	λυσ-ετε	ἐλυ-ετε	ἐλυσ-ατε
They	λυ-ουσι(ν)	λυσ-ουσι(ν)	ἐλυ-ον	ἐλυσ-αν

Notes

- The endings of the Future are the same as the Present (but there is the σ suffix to distinguish them).
- The Present, Future and Imperfect have an ‘ο’ or ‘ε’ sound at the beginning of the ending; the Aorist tends to have an ‘α’ sound.
- The endings in the 1st and 2nd person plural are very similar in all the tenses.
- There is an optional ν in the Imperfect and Aorist 3rd person singular, just as there is in the Present (and so Future) 3rd person plural.

PRACTICE 6.4

| 2. ἐλυσαμεν. | 5. ἐπιστευσαν. | 8. They will believe. |
| 3. ακουσετε. | 6. απολυσουσιν. | 9. You (pl.) were taking. |

6.4.1 Examples of the tenses

- ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἐδίδασκεν ἐν τῇ συναγωγῇ καὶ πολλοὶ ἐπιστευσαν.

ἐδίδασκεν is Imperfect, therefore describing a past process – ‘Jesus was in the process of teaching in the synagogue.’ ἐπιστευσαν is Aorist, therefore describing a past undefined (not a process) action – ‘many believed’ or ‘many came to believe’ = Jesus was teaching in the synagogue and many believed.

- ὁ θεὸς ἐπεμπεν τοὺς ἀγγέλους, ἀλλὰ νῦν ἐσμεν μόνοι.

ἐπεμπεν is Imperfect, therefore describing a past process – ‘God used to send messengers.’ ἐσμεν is Present, therefore describing the current situation – ‘we are alone.’ = God used to send messengers, but now we are alone.

1. ἐδίδασκεν τον ὄχλον.
2. ὁ θεος ἀκούσει αὐτοῦ.
3. οἱ ἄγιοι ἔχουσιν τον νομον.
4. λυσομεν το πλοιον.
5. δια τον λογον ἐπιστευσατε;
6. ἔλεγον περι της βασιλειας.
7. πως ἀπολυσεις αὐτην;
8. οἱ ἀδελφοι οὐκ ἐπιστευσαν.
9. We used to take the boat.
10. They believed God.
11. The good master will set free the slaves.
12. I used to speak but now I will listen.

6.5 POINTS TO NOTE ABOUT ἐ PREFIXES

6.5.1 Words beginning with a vowel

Look at what happens when the ἐ prefix is added to a word beginning with a vowel:

ἀκουω	–	I hear (Present)
ἤκουον	–	I was hearing (Imperfect)

In order to indicate that a verb is in the Imperfect or Aorist, an ἐ (augment) needs to be added to the beginning of the stem. This is fine if the stem begins with a consonant but not if it begins with a vowel – you can't say ἐἀκουον!

What happens is that the normal rule for adding the ἐ augment is followed, but contractions then take place (ἐ + ἄ → ἦ etc.).¹

KEY GRAMMAR

Watch out when an ἐ (augment) is added to a word beginning with a vowel

KEY GRAMMAR

ἐ plus	α	becomes	η
	ε	becomes	η
	ο	becomes	ω
	η, ι, υ and ω	remain	η, ι, υ and ω

¹ Some people prefer to understand this as the vowel being lengthened instead of the ἐ being added. The result is the same, but this seems to be an extra rule to remember.

Diphthongs follow the logic of the above chart. For example, αι → η	ει → η	οι → ω

αυ → ηυ	ευ → ηυ ²

Thus, since the Imperfect of λυω is ἐλϋον

- the Imperfect of ἀκουω is ἤκουον.
- the Imperfect of οἰκοδομεω is ὤκοδομουν.³
- the Imperfect of εὐλογεω is ἠὺλογουν.³

The ἐ behaves in the same way in the Aorist, so

- the Aorist of ἀκουω is ἤκουσα.

6.5.2 Compound verbs

Look at what happens when the ἐ prefix is added to a compound verb (Chapter 4, section 4.4):

ἀπολυω	–	I set free (Present)
ἀπελϋον	–	I was setting free (Imperfect)

In compound verbs the ἐ (augment) comes between the preposition and the verb's stem. You can understand this by thinking of the following four steps.

KEY GRAMMAR

Watch out when an ἐ (augment) is added to a compound verb

1. Take off the preposition
2. Add the ἐ to the verb as normal (take care if the verb begins with a vowel)
3. Replace the preposition
4. Watch out for elision, since the preposition now precedes a vowel (look back at the rules in Chapter 4, section 4.2.5)

Examples

Present	Imperfect
	Actual form	Meaning	Process of getting there ἀπολυω	ἀπελϋον	I was setting free	ἀπο-ελϋον
ἐκβαλλω	ἐξεβαλλον	I was throwing out	ἐκ-εβαλλον
ὑπαγω	ὑπηγον	I was departing	ὑπο-εαγον ὑπο-ηγον
συναγω	συνηγον	I was gathering	συν-εαγον συν-ηγον

² In fact it is more common for ευ to be left unchanged, despite ηυ being more logical.

³ The endings used by the -εω verbs in the Imperfect are explained in Chapter 6, section 6.8.

The augment behaves in the exactly the same fashion in the Aorist.

e.g. The Aorist of ἀπολυω is ἀπελυσα

Hint

Observe carefully the difference between the contractions that occur when an augment is added to a verb that begins with a vowel and the elision that happens when a preposition is followed by a vowel. A vowel at the beginning of a verb combines with the augment, while a vowel at the end of a preposition is normally destroyed by the augment.

ἐ + ἄγον → ἤγον ἐ + ἀναβλεπον → ἀνεβλεπον ἐ + ἀναγω → ἀνηγον

PRACTICE 6.5

Put these verbs into the Imperfect (1st singular)

- | | | | |
|----------|-------------|----------------|------------|
| 1. ἄγω | 3. βλεπω | 5. παραλαμβάνω | 7. ἀνοίγω |
| 2. ὑπαγω | 4. ἀναβλεπω | 6. ἀποκαλύπτω | 8. διδάσκω |

6.6 POINTS TO NOTE ABOUT THE σ SUFFIX

Look at what happens when the σ suffix is added to verbs which end in particular consonants:

- | | | |
|-------|---|---------------------|
| βλεπω | – | I see (Present) |
| βλεψω | – | I will see (Future) |

A σ suffix (for the Future or Aorist) will often combine with the final consonant of the verb's stem. This should not be seen as a special rule about the Future and Aorist of verbs; it is more a matter of pronunciation. We will meet the same changes later on in certain nouns (Chapter 12).⁴

Watch out when an σ is added to stem of a verb ending in a consonant

⁴ The groupings of letters here is not random. The sounds π, β, φ are all made with the lips (and are called 'labials'), τ, δ, θ, ζ are made by the tongue touching the teeth (called 'dentals') and κ, γ and χ are made further back in the throat (called 'gutturals').

KEY GRAMMAR

π, β, φ	+	σ	→	ψ
τ, δ, θ, ζ	+	σ	→	σ ⁵

Examples

Present	Future
	Actual form	Meaning	Process
βλεπω	βλεψω	I will see	βλεπ-σω
βαπτίζω	βαπτισω	I will baptise	βαπτιζ-σω
άνοιγω	άνοιξω	I will open	άνοιγ-σω

The σ behaves in the same fashion in the Aorist (Aorist of βλέπω is ἐβλεψα).

Hint

Because the Aorist involves the addition of the ε prefix and the σ suffix, both sets of complications can occur. Thus the Aorist of άνοιγω is ήνοιξα (εάνοιξα).

PRACTICE 6.6

Put these verbs into the Aorist (1st singular)

- | | | | |
|------------|-----------|-------------|---------------|
| 1. βαπτίζω | 3. άκουω | 5. κηρυσσω | 7. άποκαλυπτω |
| 2. πεμπω | 4. άπολυω | 6. άναβλεπω | 8. δοξαζω |

6.7 DEALING WITH THE PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES

You need to think carefully about the way in which these prefixes and suffixes behave (as described in sections 6.5 and 6.6) because they make it harder to spot which tense verbs are in. You need to get used to realising that ήγον is really ε-άγον and thus is an Imperfect

άνοιξω is really άνοιγ-σω and thus a Future

⁵ Except for κραζω which behaves as if it were κρασσω. Thus since σσ + σ → ξ its Future is κραξω and its Aorist is έκραξα.

Hint

Very few verbs begin with η or ω in their basic form⁶ – if you see a verb beginning in this way, it is very likely to have been something else initially (α , ϵ , or \omicron) to which an ϵ has been added – it will therefore be in the Imperfect or the Aorist.

Almost no verbs end in ψ , ξ , or a single σ (they do end in $\sigma\sigma$) naturally⁷ – if you see a stem ending in this way it must have been something else initially to which an σ has been added – it will therefore be in the Future or the Aorist.

Note: $\epsilon\chi\omega$ (I have) is unusual.

Imperfect $\epsilon\iota\chi\omicron\nu$ (ϵ being augmented to $\epsilon\iota$ not η)
 Future $\epsilon\xi\omega$ ($\chi + \sigma \rightarrow \xi$ as expected, but ϵ not ϵ)

The Aorist of $\epsilon\chi\omega$ is actually $\epsilon\sigma\chi\omicron\nu$ which is arrived at by following a different pattern (see Chapter 11, Section 11.1.3) but is quite rare, since ‘having’ in the past normally implies ‘over a period’ and hence the Imperfect.

PRACTICE 6.7

What tense are the following in?

- | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1. $\epsilon\kappa\rho\alpha\zeta\epsilon\nu$ | 3. $\beta\lambda\epsilon\psi\epsilon\tau\epsilon$ | 5. $\epsilon\iota\chi\omicron\mu\epsilon\nu$ | 7. $\pi\epsilon\iota\sigma\omicron\mu\epsilon\nu$ |
| 2. $\epsilon\delta\iota\omega\zeta\alpha$ | 4. $\epsilon\gamma\rho\alpha\psi\alpha\nu$ | 6. $\alpha\nu\epsilon\beta\lambda\epsilon\pi\epsilon\tau\epsilon$ | 8. $\epsilon\kappa\eta\rho\upsilon\zeta\epsilon\nu$ |

6.8 TENSES IN THE - $\epsilon\omega$ VERBS

In Chapter 2, section 2.2 we learnt that there was a family of verbs with a weak ϵ at the end of their stems. This combined with the endings in the Present, giving forms such as $\phi\iota\lambda\omicron\upsilon\mu\epsilon\nu$ ($\phi\iota\lambda\epsilon$ - $\omicron\mu\epsilon\nu$).

- In the Imperfect the same pattern of contractions occurs.
- In the Future and Aorist the addition of the σ suffix causes two changes:
 - (i) The ϵ lengthens to a η (except $\kappa\alpha\lambda\epsilon\omega$ keeps the ϵ : $\kappa\alpha\lambda\epsilon\sigma\omega$, $\epsilon\kappa\alpha\lambda\epsilon\sigma\alpha$)
 - (ii) The endings are now next to the σ , not the weak ϵ , so there are no contractions (i.e. the Future and Aorist of - $\epsilon\omega$ verbs are identical to $\lambda\upsilon\omega$).

⁷ In the NT only $\upsilon\psi\omicron\omega$ (20 times) and $\alpha\upsilon\zeta\omega$ and $\theta\alpha\rho\sigma\epsilon\omega$, both of which are uncommon.

Thus the full pattern for φιλεω (I love) is as follows:

	Present	Future	Imperfect	Aorist
I	φιλῶ	φίλησω	ἐφίλουν	ἐφίλησα
You (sing.)	φιλεις	φίλησεις	ἐφίλεις	ἐφίλησας
He, she, it	φιλει	φίλησει	ἐφίλει	ἐφίλησεν
We	φίλουμεν	φίλησομεν	ἐφίλουμεν	ἐφίλησαμεν
You (pl.)	φιλεετε	φίλησετε	ἐφίλεετε	ἐφίλησατε
They	φίλουσιν	φίλησουσιν	ἐφίλουν	ἐφίλησαν or φιλοῦσι

Moods

7.1 IDEA OF MOODS

The Mood of a verb indicates the manner in which the action is to be regarded – is it a statement, a command, hypothetical etc.? There are five moods in Greek – we have already met one (Indicative). This chapter introduces three others (Imperative, Infinitive, Participle) and one is left until Chapter 17 (Subjunctive).

Mood	Used to express	Example in English
Indicative	Statements and questions	I am listening
Imperative	Commands	Listen!
Infinitive	The idea of the verb in general	To listen
Participle	Verbal adjective	Listening, he understood
Subjunctive	Uncertainty	I may listen

- Often the Indicative behaves in one way and all four other moods behave in a different way – therefore they are known as the other moods.
- In the other moods, there is no Future tense or Imperfect.
- In the Indicative, tense communicates both time and aspect. In the other moods, the time part falls away – thus the difference between the Present and the Aorist becomes solely one of aspect – process or undefined.
- In the Indicative, verbs are made negative by the addition of οὐ (or οὐκ/οὐχ) – see Chapter 4, section 4.6. In the other moods, a different word is used – μη. This also affects any compounds of οὐ. Thus, οὐκετι means ‘no longer’, but this becomes μηκετι with a verb in one of the other moods.

7.2 THE IMPERATIVE

Acts 16.31: πιστευσον ἐπὶ τον κυριον Ἰησουν – Believe on the Lord Jesus!

πιστευσον is communicating a command (or exhortation). πιστευω is now in a different mood – the Imperative.

7.2.1 The formation of the Imperative¹

	Present	Aorist
2 nd person singular	λυε	λυσον
2 nd person plural	λυετε	λυσατε

Notes

- Imperatives are either singular (to one person) or plural (to more than one).
- Imperatives are either in the Present tense or in the Aorist.
- These imperatives are known as 2nd person imperatives – this is because they are commands to ‘you’ to do something.²
- Note that the Aorist Imperatives do not have the augment. This is because the augment marks past time, but in the Imperative the difference between the tenses is only one of aspect, not of time.
- The Aorist Imperative has a σ suffix, just as it does in the Indicative.
- The 2nd plural Present Imperative looks identical to the 2nd plural Present Indicative (λυετε could be ‘you untie’ or ‘untie!’ but the context normally makes it clear which it is).
- The εω verbs follow the normal rules for the contractions (pages 24 and 71) which gives the imperatives: φιλει, φιλειτε, φιλησον, φιλησατε.

Hint

It’s easy to mix up the Future Indicative and the Aorist Imperative (both have a σ suffix and no prefix). The endings are the key – if it looks like a Future but doesn’t seem to have the right endings, think ‘Aorist in another mood’.

- Acts 16.31: πιστευσον ἐπὶ τον κυριον Ἰησουν
– Believe in the Lord Jesus! (Aorist Imperative)

¹ Throughout this section, ‘command’ needs to be understood quite broadly, covering the whole range of more or less forceful/polite expressions – thus a request, exhortation, plea etc.

² There are 3rd person imperatives (‘let him/them listen’). Since these are rare, they are left until Chapter 18.

- Matt. 27.42: πιστευσομεν ἐπ’ αὐτον
– We will believe in him. (Future Indicative)

7.2.2 The difference between the Present and Aorist Imperatives

English only has one Imperative. However, Greek has the flexibility of putting a command in either the Present or Aorist tense, to communicate aspect.

KEY GRAMMAR

Present – Process
Aorist – Undefined

The Present Imperative expresses a ‘process’ – that is, a command for something to be done either repeatedly or continuously – ‘keep on doing it’.

The Aorist Imperative is undefined. Sometimes this will be truly undefined (or default) – the simplest form of the Imperative. Sometimes it is deliberately used as opposed to using the Present for process, to stress a ‘one-time’ sense.

It is hard to put into an English translation the difference between the Present and Aorist Imperative – that’s why you need to read the Bible in Greek!

Hint

Most students wrongly think of the Present Imperative as the normal one, and then either forget the Aorist or think of it as stressing a ‘one-time’ action. In fact, the Aorist is the normal or default – if you see a Present Imperative being used you should ask yourself, ‘Why is the process command being used here?’

Examples

- κηρυσσετε το εὐαγγελιον. – Preach (pl.) the good-news! (continually: ‘go on preaching’)
- βλεψατε τα προβατα. – Watch (pl.) the sheep! (default)
- κυριε, σωσον τον λαον. – Lord, save the people! (default)

| 4. γραψον αυτη. | 9. Teach (pl.) her! (continually) |
| 5. ακουετε την φωνην. | 10. Untie (pl.) the children! |

7.3 THE INFINITIVE

John 16.12: πολλά ἔχω ὑμῖν λεγειν. – I have many things to say to you.

λεγειν is the equivalent of ‘to say’ in English. This is clearly closely related to λεγω meaning ‘I say’ – it is the same verb but now in the Infinitive mood.

Infinitives come in just one form in each of the Present and Aorist tenses.

	Present	Aorist
Infinitive	λυειν	λυσαι

Notes

- The Infinitive can be translated in English as ‘to . . .’. Both λυειν and λυσαι mean ‘to untie’.
- As in the Imperative, the Aorist Infinitive has a σ suffix, but no augment.
- The εω verbs follow the normal rules: φιλειν, φιλησαι.

The difference between the Present and Aorist Infinitive is the same as between the Present and Aorist Imperative – the Aorist is the default, undefined, aspect; the Present is process (either continuous or repeated).

Later (in Chapter 18) we will learn some special uses of the Infinitive in Greek.

However, it is often used just as it is in English. In particular, it is used to convey purpose, and tends to follow certain verbs, such as:

θελω – I wish / want to . . . μελλω – I intend to . . ., I am about to . . .
δει – It is necessary to . . . εξεστι – It is permitted to . . .

Examples

Mark 3.14-15: ἐποίησεν δωδεκα ... εχειν ἐξουσιαν ἐκβαλλειν τα δαιμονια.

And he made twelve . . . to have authority to throw out the demons.

These infinitives are Present, because the twelve will continuously have authority and will repeatedly throw out demons.

ὁ Ἰησους θελει σωσαι αὐτην. – Jesus is willing to save her.

This Infinitive is Aorist because it does not point to a continual action.

2. ἀκουσον αὐτου.
3. ἐξεστι λαλησαι;
4. δει λεγειν τῳ Τιμοθεῳ.
5. προσκυνειτε τῳ ἁγίῳ θεῳ.
6. ἀκουσατε αὐτου.
7. θελω πεμψαι ἀγγελον.
8. μη ζητει ἀπολυσαι.
9. Do you (pl.) want to give thanks?
10. Seek (pl.; continually) the good news!
11. Do not walk (s.; in general) in the temple!
12. They are about to cry out, 'Amen'.

7.4 PARTICIPLES

Philem. 4-5: εὐχαριστω τῳ θεῳ ... ἀκουων σου την ἀγαπην.

– I give thanks to God . . . hearing of your love.

Acts 18.8: πολλοι των Κορινθιων ἀκουοντες ἐπιστευον.

– many of the Corinthians hearing were believing.

ἀκουων and ἀκουοντες are from ἀκουω (I hear) but are in the Participle mood meaning 'hearing' (one is singular, one is plural). A participle works alongside a main verb adding a further layer of meaning: not just 'I give thanks' but 'hearing of your love', not just 'they were believing' but 'hearing'.

The frequent use of participles is one of the most characteristic features of Greek. The full scheme for participles is quite complicated, and so is left until Chapter 14. However, we will learn one particular usage now that is particularly common in the New Testament.

Participles are verbal adjectives – part of the verb behaving like an adjective.

Like adjectives:

For now, we will learn only the masculine nominative of the participle, because often in the New Testament participles are qualifying (further describing) masculine nouns in the nominative. You will need to ensure they agree in number – singular or plural.

KEY GRAMMAR

Participles must agree with the noun they qualify in gender, case and number

Like verbs:

KEY GRAMMAR

Participles have tense (Present or Aorist), and may have an object

7.4.1 The form of the participle

	(Masculine nominative)
	Present	Aorist
Singular	λϋων	λϋσας
Plural	λϋοντες	λϋσαντες

Notes

- As in the Infinitive and Imperative, the Aorist does not have an augment (time is not expressed outside of the Indicative), but it does have a σ.
- The plural participles both have endings in -ντες.
- The Aorist participles have an ‘α’ sound, the Present an ‘ο’ sound.
- The εω verbs follow the normal rules, thus the participles are:

	(Masculine nominative)
	Present	Aorist
Singular	φιλων	φιλησας
Plural	φιλουντες	φιλησαντες

Parse the following (giving tense, gender, case and number)

1. βαλλοντες 3. διωξαντες 5. γραφων 7. υπαγοντες
2. πεμψας 4. ποιησας 6. παρακαλων 8. ακουσας

7.4.2 The meaning of the participle

Greek participles do not easily translate word for word into English. The technique is to start with the ‘wooden translation’ given below and rephrase it into good English, guided by the underlying ‘idea’ of the participle.

Wooden translations	Present participle	untying
	Aorist participle	having untied

Idea The heart of understanding participles is that the participle is dependent upon a main verb (Indicative, or possibly Imperative) in the sentence. It expresses meaning in relation to that main verb, not absolutely.

Present Participle Simultaneous process – the action in the participle is a process going on at the same time as the action in the main verb.

Aorist Participle Sequence – the action in the participle occurred before the action in the main verb.³

KEY GRAMMAR

Present Participle	Simultaneous
Aorist Participle	Sequence

Good English

Rephrasing into appropriate, good English is really a matter of practice.

For a Present participle, this often involves ‘while’ or ‘as’. Thus from ἐσθιοντες η̇κουσαν you get ‘eating they heard’ and so ‘while they were eating, they heard’.

For an Aorist participle, this often involves ‘after’ or ‘when’. Thus βλεψαντες ἐπιστευσαν is rephrased from ‘having seen they believed’ to ‘after they had seen they believed’ or ‘when they had seen they believed’.

³ The connection between this and ideas of aspect will be discussed more in Chapter 18, section 18.5.

Examples

Matt. 4.18: περιπατων παρα την θαλασσαν της Γαλιλαιας ειδεν (he saw) δυο αδελφους.

– While he was walking alongside the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers.

Mark 6.16: ακουσας δε (but) ο Ηρωδης ελεγεν ...

– But when Herod heard (this) he said (was saying) . . .

| 2. εκραξεν λεγων. | 5. ακουσας τον λογον εδοξασα τον θεον. |
| 3. βλεψας λεγει αυτω. | 6. πιστευσαντες μετενοησαν. |

7.4.3 Participles with objects

Because the participle is a verb, it can have its own object (in the accusative). This is not complicated once you get the hang of it:

- βλεψας τον οχλον ο Ίησους εκηρυξεν τον λογον.

The main sentence is underlined above: Jesus (subject) proclaimed (main i.e. Indicative verb) the word (object). The participle introduces a subordinate clause. It agrees with the subject of the sentence (Jesus) and is telling us something extra involving its own object: ‘having seen the crowd’.

= When he saw the crowd, Jesus proclaimed the word.

Hint

If the simple subject-verb-object sentence is the trunk of the tree, the participle starts off a new branch:

3. γράψας τὸ βιβλίον ὁ Πέτρος ἐπέμψεν αὐτὸ τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ.
4. After proclaiming the word, they worshipped God.

7.5 PARTICIPLES AS NOUNS

We learnt in Chapter 5, section 5.5 that adjectives can be ‘turned into’ nouns by the addition of the article. Thus ὁ ἀγαθὸς means ‘the good man’. Since participles are verbal adjectives, unsurprisingly the same can be done with participles.

- Mark 4.14: ὁ σπειρῶν τὸν λόγον σπειρεῖ.
σπειρῶν = sowing (Present masculine nom. sing. participle of σπειρώ – I sow)
ὁ σπειρῶν = the sowing person = the sower
Sentence = The sower is sowing the word.
- Mark 4.18: οὗτοι (these) εἰσιν οἱ τὸν λόγον ἀκουσάντες.
ἀκουσάντες = having heard (Aorist masculine nom. pl. participle of ἀκούω) οἱ ἀκουσάντες = the having heard ones = those who heard Sentence = These are the people who heard the word.

Hint

Don’t be afraid to introduce words like ‘who’ in your translation of participles that are acting as nouns. The aim is to convey the meaning in good English.

2. οἱ Φαρισαιοι καταργουσιν την ἐντολὴν της ἀγαπης.
3. πολλοι συνηγον θεωρειν το μνημειον.

- *9. People do not seek death.
10. A man bound Paul, but an angel released him.

⁵ Normally in the New Testament we find σαββασιν when we would expect σαββατοῖς (this is presumably because the plural of σαββατον looks like the 3rd declension pattern for neuter nouns, in which the dative plural ending is -σιν; see Chapter 12, section 12.3).

⁶ Because of the way -εω verbs work there are two different possible ways of parsing these verbs. Can you work out what they are? In your translation use the imperative.

*11. Lord, open the eyes of the blind.

*12. They are about to bear witness concerning the righteousness of Christ.

Section C

1 John 3.4-10 Πᾶς [everyone] ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν καὶ [also] τὴν ἀνομίαν [ἀνομία - lawlessness] ποιεῖ, καὶ ἡ ἁμαρτία ἐστὶν ἡ ἀνομία.⁵ καὶ οἶδατε [you know] ὅτι [that] ἐκεῖνος [that one] ἐφανερώθη [was revealed], ἵνα [so that] τὰς ἁμαρτίας ἄρῃ [he might take], καὶ ἁμαρτία ἐν αὐτῷ οὐκ ἔστιν.⁶ πᾶς ὁ ἐν αὐτῷ μένων [μένω - I remain] οὐχ ἁμαρτάνει [ἁμαρτανω - I sin]. πᾶς ὁ ἁμαρτάνων οὐχ ἑώρακεν [he has seen] αὐτὸν οὐδὲ ἔγνωκεν [irreg. Aorist of γινωσκω] αὐτόν.⁷ Τεκνία [=τεκνα], μηδεὶς [nobody] πλανάτω [let him deceive] ὑμᾶς [you]· ὁ ποιῶν τὴν δικαιοσύνην δίκαιός ἐστιν, καθὼς [just as] ἐκεῖνος δίκαιός ἐστιν.⁸ ὁ ποιῶν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν ἐκ τοῦ διαβόλου [διάβολος - devil] ἐστίν, ὅτι ἀπ' ἀρχῆς ὁ διάβολος ἁμαρτάνει. εἰς τοῦτο [for this reason] ἐφανερώθη ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ θεοῦ, ἵνα λύσῃ [so that he might release] τὰ ἔργα τοῦ διαβόλου.⁹ Πᾶς ὁ γεγεννημένος [having been born] ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ ἁμαρτίαν οὐ ποιεῖ, ὅτι σπέρμα [seed] αὐτοῦ ἐν αὐτῷ μένει, καὶ οὐ δύναται [he is able] ἁμαρτάνειν, ὅτι ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ γεγέννηται [he has been born].¹⁰ ἐν τούτῳ [in this way] φανερά [revealed] ἐστὶν τὰ τέκνα τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ τὰ τέκνα τοῦ διαβόλου· πᾶς ὁ μὴ ποιῶν δικαιοσύνην οὐκ ἔστιν ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ, καὶ ὁ μὴ ἀγαπῶν [loving] τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ.

Other patterns of nouns and verbs

8.1 DEPONENT VERBS

John 21.13: ἐρχεται Ἰησους και λαμβάνει τον ἄρτον.
– Jesus comes and takes the bread.

Both ἐρχεται and λαμβάνει are 3rd person Present Indicative verbs. However, they have different endings. This is because ἐρχεται is from a different family of verbs called the deponent verbs, with their own set of endings.

The majority of Greek verbs conjugate like λυω. However, there are two other groups. One, the μι verbs, only contains a handful of words and will be left until Chapter 19. The other group, the deponent verbs, needs to be learnt now.

The deponent verbs behave just as other verbs do, including sharing the same pattern of ε and σ in the different tenses, but simply have different endings.

8.1.1 The deponent endings

Indicative of ῥυομαι – I rescue

	Present	Future	Imperfect	Aorist
I	ῥυ-ομαι	ῥυσ-ομαι	ἔρυ-ομην	ἔρυσ-αμην
You (sing.)	ῥυ-η	ῥυσ-η	ἔρυ-ου	ἔρυσ-ω
He, she, it	ῥυ-εται	ῥυσ-εται	ἔρυ-ετο	ἔρυσ-ατο
We	ῥυ-ομεθα	ῥυσ-ομεθα	ἔρυ-ομεθα	ἔρυσ-αμεθα
You (pl.)	ῥυ-εσθε	ῥυσ-εσθε	ἔρυ-εσθε	ἔρυσ-ασθε
They	ῥυ-ονται	ῥυσ-ονται	ἔρυ-οντο	ἔρυσ-αντο

Notes

- The endings are completely different from those of λυω.
- As in λυω the Aorist endings have ‘a’ sounds, the other tenses ‘ο’ or ‘ε’.
- As in λυω the endings in the Future are the same as the Present.
- The endings are very similar in the different tenses, except for the 2nd sing.
- The addition of the ε and the σ have the same features as in λυω. Thus from ἀρχομαι (I begin), the Future is ἀρξομαι, the Imperfect ἤρχομην and the Aorist ἤρξαμην.

Other moods of ῥυομαι

		Present	Aorist
		ῥου ῥεσθε	ῥσαι ῥσασθε
Imperative	2 nd Sing. 2 nd Pl.
Infinitive		ῥεσθαι	ῥσασθαι
Participle (masc. nom.)	Sing.	ῥομενος	ῥσαμενος
	Pl.	ῥομενοι	ῥσαμενοι

Notes

- As in λυω the 2nd plural Present Imperatives are the same as the 2nd plural Present Indicatives.
- As in λυω the Aorists in the other moods lack the ε but still have the σ and the ‘a’ sound in the endings.
- The Present endings are very similar to those of the Aorist.
- The participles have a distinctive -μεν-.

PRACTICE 8.1.1

Parse

- | | | |
|---------------|----------------|-----------------|
| 1. ἔρχονται | 4. ἀρνησαμενος | 7. εἰσερχομενοι |
| 2. ἐλογιζετο | 5. δεξεται | 8. ἐργαζομενος |
| 3. συνηρχομην | 6. ἄπτου | 9. ἀσπαζεσθε |

8.1.2 Using deponent verbs

It is crucial to understand that deponent verbs are simply a second group of verbs.

KEY GRAMMAR

Deponent Verbs mean exactly the same as Normal Verbs

For example, the Future of a deponent verb means just the same as the Future of a normal verb (like λυω). Some verbs are deponent verbs and use the deponent endings, most are normal and use the normal endings – that is just the way it is – and it makes no difference to the meaning.

8.1.3 Which verbs are deponent?

It is very difficult to produce a rule for why certain verbs are deponent when most are normal. Many of the deponent verbs are intransitive verbs, that is they cannot have objects (e.g. I go), but there are so many exceptions that this is not a useful guide.

The form of a verb in a vocabulary list or dictionary reveals whether the verb is deponent, since verbs are always quoted in their 1st person singular Present Indicative. If the verb is listed as ending in -ω, it is therefore like λυω (normal); if it is listed as ending in -ομαι, it will be deponent, like ῥυομαι.

For example, πιστευω (I believe) and βαπτιζω (I baptize) are normal like λυω, while ἐρχομαι (I come) and ἀρχομαι (I begin) are deponent like ῥυομαι.

PRACTICE 8.1.3

Put the verb in the form indicated

1. βλέπω, Present 3rd plural Indicative
2. ἐρχομαι, Present 3rd singular Indicative
3. δεχομαι, Imperfect 2nd plural Indicative
4. ἀρχομαι, Aorist masc. nom. pl. participle
5. γραφω, Future 1st plural Indicative
6. ἐξερχομαι, Present Imperative (plural)
7. λογιζομαι, Aorist 3rd plural Indicative
8. πειθω, Present masc. nom. sing. participle
9. προσευχομαι, Present Infinitive
10. ἀρνεομαι, Imperfect 3rd plural Indicative

8.1.4 Terminology

Grammatically, the deponent verbs are said to be in the Middle Voice, and the normal verbs in the Active Voice. This is potentially confusing because it could imply that it is possible for a deponent verb to be put into the Active Voice rather than the Middle Voice, which is not true.

Later (in Chapter 15) we will need to use the terminology of Middle and Active Voices. For now, it is easier to think of two types of verbs – normal and deponent – each with their own family of endings. Indeed, the details in Chapter 15 will be easier to understand if you have got used to the ideas of two different types of verb, and have learnt the different endings appropriate to each.

When parsing (e.g. ἐρχομαι) you can say either Middle or deponent (1st sing. Present) – the former is technically better, though the second more helpful.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

1. ἐρχονται εἰς το ἱερον.
2. θελω ρυσασθαι αὐτον.
3. δεχεσθε τον λογον.
4. ακουσαντες η̐ρξαντο ἐρχεσθαι.
5. ἀπερχομενος ἐδοξαζεν τον θεον.
6. μελλω προσευχεσθαι λεγων
7. οἱ Ἰουδαιοι ἐξερχονται ἐκ της συναγωγης.
8. μη εὐαγγελιζεσθε.
9. The Pharisees began to work.
10. They were greeting the wicked.
11. I will refuse to keep the law.
12. It is necessary to go into the temple.

8.2 IMPERFECT, FUTURE AND OTHER MOODS OF εἰμι

We have already learnt the Present of εἰμι (I am). Unfortunately, most of its forms are irregular, and so also need to be learnt specially.

	Present	Future	Imperfect
Indicative
I	εἰμι	ἐσομαι	ἦμην
You (sing.)	εἶ	ἐσῃ	ἦς (or ἦσθα)
He, she, it	ἐστί (ν)	ἐσται	ἦν
We	ἐσμεν	ἐσομεθα	ἦμεν (or ἦμεθα)
You (pl.)	ἐστε	ἐσεσθε	ἦτε
They	εἰσι (ν)	ἐσονται	ἦσαν
Present Infinitive	εἶναι
Present participle (masc. nom.)	Sing. ὢν	Plural ὄντες

Notes

- The Imperfect begins with an η, the Present and Future an ε. This makes sense – if you add the augment for the Imperfect to an ε, you get an η.

- The Future is almost exactly ϵ plus σ (for the Future) plus deponent endings (except the 3rd singular is $\epsilon\sigma\tau\alpha\iota$ rather than $\epsilon\sigma\epsilon\tau\alpha\iota$).
- There can be no Aorist of $\epsilon\iota\mu\iota$ – since if you are talking of ‘being’ in the past, it is naturally Imperfect, describing a ‘process’ or ‘continued state’.

PRACTICE 8.2

Translate

1. $\acute{\alpha}\gamma\iota\alpha\iota \ \eta\sigma\alpha\nu \ \acute{\alpha}\iota \ \acute{\epsilon}\nu\tau\omicron\lambda\alpha\iota.$
2. $\acute{o} \ \Delta\alpha\upsilon\iota\delta \ \eta\nu \ \mu\epsilon\gamma\alpha\varsigma.$
3. $\theta\epsilon\lambda\omega \ \epsilon\iota\nu\alpha\iota \ \mu\epsilon\tau' \ \alpha\upsilon\tau\omega\nu.$
4. $\acute{o} \ \phi\iota\lambda\omega\nu \ \theta\epsilon\omicron\nu \ \acute{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\alpha\iota \ \mu\alpha\kappa\alpha\rho\iota\omicron\varsigma.$
5. $\pi\rho\omicron\sigma\eta\upsilon\chi\epsilon\tau\omicron \ \acute{\omega}\nu \ \acute{\alpha}\gamma\iota\omicron\varsigma.$
6. The children were alone.
7. The slaves will be dead.
8. Being Jewish, we wish to enter the synagogue.

8.3 NOUNS OF CONFUSING GENDER

John 20.3: $\acute{o} \ \Pi\epsilon\tau\rho\omicron\varsigma \ \kappa\alpha\iota \ \acute{o} \ \acute{\alpha}\lambda\lambda\omicron\varsigma \ \mu\alpha\theta\eta\tau\eta\varsigma \ \dots \ \eta\rho\chi\omicron\nu\tau\omicron \ \epsilon\iota\varsigma \ \tau\omicron \ \mu\eta\nu\mu\epsilon\iota\omicron\nu.$
 – Peter and the other disciple were coming to the tomb.

The words \acute{o} , $\Pi\epsilon\tau\rho\omicron\varsigma$, $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ and $\mu\alpha\theta\eta\tau\eta\varsigma$ are nominative masculine singular since ‘Peter’ and ‘disciple’ are both the subjects of the sentence, and \acute{o} and $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ are agreeing with them. However, $\mu\alpha\theta\eta\tau\eta\varsigma$ does not look like a masculine nominative singular – this is because it is from a new pattern of nouns.

So far we have learnt that masculine nouns decline like $\lambda\omicron\gamma\omicron\varsigma$ and feminine nouns like $\acute{\alpha}\rho\chi\eta$ (or $\acute{\eta}\mu\epsilon\rho\alpha/\delta\omicron\varsigma\alpha$). However, there is a family of masculine nouns that decline similarly to $\acute{\alpha}\rho\chi\eta$, and a couple of feminine nouns that decline like $\lambda\omicron\gamma\omicron\varsigma$.

8.3.1 Masculine nouns similar to $\acute{\alpha}\rho\chi\eta$ – $\pi\rho\omicron\phi\eta\tau\eta\varsigma$ and Ἰουδας

There is a group of masculine nouns that are either proper names or are the names of types of people. Their endings are identical to those of $\acute{\alpha}\rho\chi\eta$ / $\acute{\eta}\mu\epsilon\rho\alpha$ except in the nominative and genitive singular.

		(prophet)	(Judas/Judah)
Sing.	Nom.	$\pi\rho\omicron\phi\eta\tau\eta\varsigma$	$\text{Ἰουδ}\alpha\varsigma$
	Acc.	$\pi\rho\omicron\phi\eta\tau\eta\nu$	$\text{Ἰουδ}\alpha\nu$
	Gen.	$\pi\rho\omicron\phi\eta\tau\omicron\upsilon$	$\text{Ἰουδ}\alpha$
	Dat.	$\pi\rho\omicron\phi\eta\tau\eta$	$\text{Ἰουδ}\alpha$

Plural	Nom.	προφηται	(the few words in -ας for which a plural is logical have the same endings as in προφητης)
	Acc.	προφητας
	Gen.	προφητων
	Dat.	προφηταις

Notes

- These nouns are unusual for not having vocatives identical to their nominatives – the vocatives are προφητα and Ἰουδα.
- Nouns in -ας whose stems end in ε, ι or ρ (e.g. Ἡλιας) have a genitive in -ου (Ἡλιου), copying προφητης.

8.3.2 Feminine nouns identical to λογος

Here are three words that decline exactly the same as λογος but are feminine.

ὁδος – way ἔρημος – wilderness Αἴγυπτος – Egypt

8.3.3 Agreements

For both of these types of noun you need to watch agreements carefully, for these nouns are the gender they are (e.g. προφητην is masculine, ὁδου is feminine) despite what the endings might suggest.

When these nouns have the article, adjective or anything else that has to agree with them, the agreement is with the actual gender of the noun, rather than simply ‘the endings matching’.

e.g. τον προφητην, της ὁδου, τῷ πιστῷ Βαρναβᾷ.

8.3.4 Terminology

Traditionally the different declensions we have learnt are labelled as follows:

	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
1 st declension	(Limited number of words like προφητης)	ἀρχη	(none)
2 nd declension	λογος	(Few words like ὁδος declining like λογος)	ἔργον

However, since the adjectives, pronouns and the article all take endings like λογος in the masculine, like ἀρχη in the feminine and like ἔργον in the neuter, it is more helpful to think of all these words belonging to a single pattern, with the minor variations noted in this section.

	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Normal Pattern	λογος	ἄρχη	ἔργον
Exceptions	(Limited number of nouns like προφητης which have feminine-looking endings)	(Few nouns like ὁδος which decline like the masculine λογος)	(none)

However, occasionally it might be necessary for you to understand the traditional terminology of 1st declension and 2nd declension.

Αἴγυπτος, ἡ (25) – Egypt

*ἐρημος, ἡ (48) – wilderness, desolate land

Hint

It is easy to confuse ἀρχομαι and ἐρχομαι particularly since they look identical in the Imperfect – ἤρχομην.

Don't try to use ἐρχομαι (or its compounds) yet in the Future or Aorist – these are irregular (we will meet them in Chapter 11, section 11.1 and Chapter 18, section 18.4).

Pronouns and conjunctions

9.1 ἐκεῖνος AND οὗτος (THAT AND THIS)

- Matt. 21.11: ἐλεγον· Οὗτος ἐστὶν ὁ προφητὴς Ἰησοῦς ...
 – They were saying: ‘This is the prophet Jesus . . .’
- Matt. 14.1: ἐν ἐκείνῳ τῷ καιρῷ ἤκουσεν Ἡρῳδῆς ...
 – At that time Herod heard . . .

9.1.1 Formation

ἐκεῖνος (‘that’, plural ‘those’) declines just like αὐτός (Chapter 3, section 3.6) – i.e. like ἄγαθος except in the nominative and accusative neuter singular, where the ending is -ο rather than -ον.

		Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ἐκεῖνος	ἐκείνη	ἐκεῖνο
	Acc.	ἐκεῖνον	ἐκείνην	ἐκεῖνο
	Gen.	ἐκεῖνου	ἐκείνης	ἐκεῖνου
	Dat.	ἐκείνῳ	ἐκείνῃ	ἐκείνῳ
Plural	Nom.	ἐκεῖνοι	ἐκείναι	ἐκείνα
	Acc.	ἐκείνους	ἐκείνας	ἐκείνα
	Gen.	ἐκείνων	ἐκείνων	ἐκείνων
	Dat.	ἐκείνοις	ἐκείναις	ἐκείνοις

οὗτος ('this', plural 'these') is a little more awkward:

		Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	οὗτος	αὕτη ¹	τούτο
	Acc.	τούτον	ταύτην	τούτο
	Gen.	τούτου	ταύτης	τούτου
	Dat.	τούτῳ	ταύτῃ	τούτῳ
Plural	Nom.	οὗτοι	αὗται	ταυτά
	Acc.	τούτους	ταυτάς	ταυτά
	Gen.	τούτων	ταυτῶν	τούτων
	Dat.	τούτοις	ταυταῖς	τούτοις

Notes

- The endings of οὗτος are the same as for ἐκεῖνος (and therefore the same as αὐτός and similar to ἄγαθος).
- οὗτος begins with a τ in most of its forms. However, there is a rough breathing instead in the nominative, masculine and feminine, singular and plural. This is the same as in the article (which begins with a τ except for ὁ, ἡ, οἱ and αἱ).
- The first vowel fluctuates between ου and αυ. The rule is that it matches the second vowel (the one in the ending). If the second vowel has an o sound, the first vowel is ου, but if it has an η or α sound, it is αυ.

Hint

Initially, what is important is simply to be able to recognise the forms of οὗτος in Greek. This is relatively easy, but watch for the forms without the τ.

PRACTICE 9.1.1

Parse

- | | | | |
|------------|-----------|----------|-----------|
| 1. ἐκείναι | 3. ταυτά | 5. αὐτοί | 7. ἐκεῖνο |
| 2. τούτου | 4. ἐκεῖνα | 6. οὗτοι | 8. αὕτη |

9.1.2 Use

οὗτος and ἐκεῖνος can both be used either as a pronoun or as an adjective. Although this sounds complicated, it is exactly the same as English (pronoun – this is boring; adjective – this book is boring).

Their use as pronouns is straightforward (if it is not clear what noun they are standing in place of, try supplying in English ‘person’ or ‘man’ if they are masculine, ‘woman’ [feminine] or ‘thing’ [neuter]).

ἐβλεψα ἐκείνους. – I saw those people.

ἀρξεται ταυτα. – He will begin these things.

Their use as adjectives is almost as simple, but two points need to be learnt.

- (i) The article must always be used in addition.
- (ii) They are placed in the predicative word order (i.e. before the article or immediately after the noun, but never immediately after the article) despite the fact that their use is really attributive.²

In English: This brother

In Greek: οὗτος ὁ ἀδελφος (This the brother)

- ὅλος (‘whole’) declines like ἄγαθος but it is used like οὗτος (i.e. it comes before the article), e.g. the whole crowd = ὅλος ὁ ὄχλος not ὁ ὅλος ὄχλος

PRACTICE 9.1.2

Translate

| 2. νεκρα τα προβατα τουτων. | 5. οἱ προφηται αὐτου ἐρχονται. |
| 3. ὅλος ὁ ὄχλος ἤκουεν. | 6. τυφλοι εἰσιν οὗτοι οἱ μαθηται. |

9.2 THIRD PERSON PRONOUNS

9.2.1 Further use of αὐτος

We have already met the common 3rd person pronoun αὐτος (he, she, it, they – Chapter 3, section 3.6). As well as its use as a pronoun, αὐτος can be used as an adjective, in which case it has two different meanings, depending on its position:

- Adjective meaning ‘same’
Normal attributive position (between article and noun)
- Emphatic adjective (himself, herself, itself, themselves)
Coming before the article (predicative position) ‘for emphasis’

² You can rationalise this by thinking that ‘this’ and ‘that’ are by nature emphatic words, and so come first for emphasis.

Examples

- λεγω αὐτῇ. – I am speaking to her.
- οἱ μαθηταὶ αὐτοῦ ἔλεγον. – His disciples were speaking.
- ὁ αὐτός κυριος σωζει τον λαον. – The same Lord saves the people.
- αὐτός ὁ κυριος σωζει τον λαον. – The Lord himself saves the people.

9.2.2 ἐαυτος

ἐαυτος is the 3rd person reflexive pronoun (himself, herself, itself, themselves). This is confusing, because English uses the same words (e.g. himself) to cover two different meanings – an emphatic adjective and a reflexive pronoun. In Greek the emphatic adjective is αὐτος, the reflexive pronoun ἐαυτος.

ἐαυτος declines exactly as αὐτος does, but because of its meaning will never occur in the nominative.

Examples

- ὁ κυριος σωζει ἐαυτον. – The Lord saves himself.
- αὐτός ὁ κυριος σωζει τον λαον. – The Lord himself saves the people.

Hint

You can tell whether ‘himself’ etc. is reflexive or emphatic by deleting it. If the sentence’s basic meaning is unaltered, it was emphatic; if not, it was reflexive.

9.2.3 ἄλλος and ἄλληλος

ἄλλος (other) and ἄλληλος (one another) both decline like ἐκεινος.

ἄλλος is an adjective meaning ‘other’. It is used in the same way as a normal adjective, i.e. in the attributive position (not like ἐκεινος and οὗτος).

ἄλληλος is a pronoun meaning ‘one another’. It is used exactly as one would expect (note: because of its meaning, it can never appear in the nominative).

Examples

Mark 4.36: καὶ ἄλλα πλοια ἦν μετ’ αὐτοῦ. – And other boats were with him.³

Mark 4.41: ἔλεγον πρὸς ἄλληλους. – They were saying to one another.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

1. ἀρνουνται ἐαυτους.
2. φιλω ἐκεινον τον μαθητην.

³ The neuter plural nom. or acc. of ἄλλος looks the same as the word for ‘but’. Here accents can help us – ἀλλά means ‘but’ while ἄλλα is from ἄλλος.

3. συναγει ταυτα τα προβατα.
4. ἐδιδασκεν ἄλλαις παραβολαῖς.
5. ἐν τῇ αὐτῇ ἡμερᾷ ἡ Μαρία ἐβλεψεν τον κυριον.
6. δια ταυτα ὁ ὄχλος ἐλάλει ἀλλήλοις.
7. αὐτος ὁ Ἰησους προσηχετο.
8. ὑπηρετης ἦν τουτου του ἱεροῦ.
9. We are praying to the same God.
10. Peter himself denied Jesus.
11. They began to listen after this.
12. Those demons were evil.

9.3 FIRST AND SECOND PERSON PRONOUNS AND ADJECTIVES

9.3.1 Pronouns

	1 st Person				2 nd Person
	Sing.		Plural		Sing.	Plural
Nom.	ἐγώ	I	ἡμεῖς	we	σύ	you	ὅμοι
Acc.	ἐμε or με	me	ἡμᾶς	us	σε	you	ὅμας
Gen.	ἐμου or μου	of me, mine	ἡμῶν	of us, our	σου	of you, your	ὅμων
Dat.	ἐμοι or μοι	to/for me	ἡμῖν	to/for us	σοι	to/for you	ὅμιν

Note

- λυομεν itself means ‘we untie’. There is no need for a word for ‘we’. Indeed, these pronouns should be used in the nominative (ἐγώ, ἡμεῖς, σύ, ὅμοι) only when particular emphasis or contrast is intended.

Examples

Gal. 5.2: ἐγὼ Παῦλος λεγὼ ὅμιν ... – I Paul tell you . . .

John 12.27: σῶσον με ἐκ τῆς ὥρας ταυτης. – Save me from this hour.

John 21.17: λεγει αὐτῷ ... Φιλεις με; ... και λεγει αὐτῷ Κυριε ... συ γινωσκεις ὅτι φιλω σε. – he said to him . . . ‘Do you love me?’ . . . and he said to him, ‘Lord . . . you know that I love you’.

9.3.2 Reflexive pronouns

Myself	ἐμαυτος (declines like αὐτος)
Yourself (sing.)	σεαυτος (declines like αὐτος)
Ourselves	just use plural of ἐαυτος
Yourselves (pl.)	just use plural of ἐαυτος

9.3.3 Possessive adjectives

The most common way of expressing possession is by using the genitive of the personal pronouns – μου, σου, ἡμῶν, ὑμῶν (of me, of you, of us, of you).

However, there are also adjectives (which decline like ἀγαθος) for ‘my’ and ‘you’ (singular).

My	ἐμος	Your (sing.)	σος
----	------	--------------	-----

Hint

‘My words’ is οἱ λόγοι μου not λόγοι μου. (Compare: ‘his words’, οἱ λόγοι αὐτου.) ἐμος, σος, μου, ἡμῶν, σου and ὑμῶν all need the article.

Examples

John 10.26: οὐκ ἐστε ἐκ τῶν προβατῶν τῶν ἐμῶν. – You are not of my sheep.

John 20.28: Ὁ κυριος μου και ὁ θεος μου. – My Lord and my God!

5. Save yourself!
6. I will proclaim your (pl.) deeds.

9.4 CONJUNCTIONS

Conjunctions are words that join together two sentences – words such as ‘therefore’, ‘thus’, ‘when’ etc. There are equivalent words in Greek and so translation is quite straightforward. However, there are four points to note.

9.4.1 Timid words

There are a number of conjunctions that are ‘timid’, in that they cannot stand first in their sentence or clause (the technical name for them is postpositives).

KEY GRAMMAR

ἀρα – so

γὰρ – because / for δὲ – but

μὲν – indeed

οὖν – therefore τε – and cannot come as the first word⁴

When translating you need mentally to move the postpositive one word earlier in the sentence.⁵

Examples

Mark 3.10:

↓ πολλοὺς γὰρ ἐθεραπεύσεν
– because he healed many

1 Thes. 2.20: ὑμεῖς γὰρ ἐστε ἡ δόξα ἡμῶν καὶ ἡ χάρις.

– because you are our glory and joy.

9.4.2 μὲν and δὲ

μὲν is normally used preceding a δὲ. In these cases, a contrast between two things is being stressed. You can think of μὲν meaning ‘on the one hand’ and then δὲ as meaning ‘on the other hand’ (although this can sound excessive in English).

λογιζεσθε ἑαυτοὺς εἶναι ↓ νεκροὺς μὲν τῇ ἀμαρτίᾳ ↓ ζῶντας δὲ τῷ θεῷ
(Rom. 6.11) – consider yourselves to be (on the one hand) dead to sin but (on the other hand) alive to God.

1 Cor. 1.12: ἕκαστος ὑμῶν λεγεί· Ἐγὼ μὲν εἰμι Παύλου, ἐγὼ δὲ Ἀπολλῶ, ἐγὼ δὲ Κηφᾶ, ἐγὼ δὲ Χριστοῦ. - Each of you says, ‘I am Paul’s, I am Apollos’, I am Cephas’, I am Christ’s’ (or ‘I belong to Paul, I belong to Apollos . . .’).

If μὲν and δὲ are used just with the article, they mean ‘some . . . but others . . .’.

Acts 14.4: ... καὶ οἱ μὲν ἦσαν συν τοῖς Ἰουδαίοις, οἱ δὲ συν τοῖς ἀποστόλοις.
– and some were with the Jews but others were with the apostles.

9.4.3 Use of δὲ

Normally every Greek sentence needs to be connected to the previous one by a conjunction in a way that is not necessary in English. Greek will tend to use the word δὲ to do this. Therefore, a Greek δὲ will often be untranslated in English.

⁴ Plus ποτε (once, at some time) learnt in Chapter 6.

⁵ Notice that in English we sometimes do put conjunctions later in the sentence – for example, saying ‘I find, however, that Greek is enjoyable’ in place of ‘However, I find that Greek is enjoyable.’ In Greek, though, there is less flexibility: most conjunctions will occur at the beginning of the sentence; the postpositives never do.

Thus δε is a weak ‘but’. Another conjunction, ἀλλὰ (which is not postpositive), expresses ‘but’ more strongly.

δε is also used just with the article (e.g. ὁ δε) to point out that the subject has changed (e.g. Mark 6.37-38: λεγουσιν αὐτῷ ... ὁ δε λεγει αὐτοις, Ποσους ἄρτους ἔχετε; – They said to him ... he said to them, ‘How many loaves of bread do you have?’)

9.4.4 Use of και

και normally means ‘and’.⁶ However, it can also be used to give emphasis, equivalent to ‘also’ or ‘even’ in English. The rule for translating it is that if ‘and’ is necessary (i.e. there is no other conjunction), then it is ‘and’. If ‘and’ is not necessary (i.e. the και seems redundant), then it is there for emphasis and should be translated ‘also’ or ‘even’.

τε is often followed by και giving the meaning ‘both . . . and’.

Examples

Mark 2.28: κυριος ἐστιν ὁ υἱος του ἀνθρωπου και του σαββατου.

– The son of man is lord even over the Sabbath.

Acts 1.1: (ὧν) ἤρξατο ὁ Ἰησους ποιειν τε και διδασκειν.

– (which) Jesus began both to do and to teach.

4. ὁ Ἰωσηφ λεγει αὐτῷ. ὁ δε οὐκ ἀκουσει.
5. οἱ μεν προσερχονται, οἱ δε ὑπαγουσιν εἰς τους οἶκους αὐτων.
6. Therefore we will seek the lord.

Luke 6.46: τί δε με καλεῖτε κυριε κυριε, και οὐ ποιειτε ὅ λεγω;

– why do you call me, ‘Lord, Lord’, and do not do what I say?

The Greek word ὅς (which declines giving forms such as οὗ and ὅ) is equivalent to the English ‘who’ (which itself produces whom, whose, what and which). These words join together two sentences/clauses: they come in the second, but point back to a noun in the first, exactly as they do in English.

10.1.1 Understanding relatives

The relative pronoun is not difficult in Greek – it functions in basically the same way as in English. However, because the function of the relative is to join together into one sentence what could be two sentences, you do need to have a firm grasp of the basics of Greek sentences (from Chapters 2, 3 and 4). In particular:

- There will be two main verbs in a complex sentence – one from each of the two constituent sentences. You need to be clear which verb is going with which subject.
- The relative pronoun functions as the join between the two constituent sentences – both of these sentences have a role in determining its gender, case and number.

Pronoun?

See it in English

Page 242

- In formal English the relative pronoun changes in different cases ('who' is different from 'whom'), but most English speakers do not now use this distinction, and so find it frustrating that there is not a single word for 'who' in Greek.¹

KEY GRAMMAR

The relative pronoun links together two basic sentences

Examples

- Two basic sentences:*
1. The lord sent the messenger.
 2. The messenger saw the sea.

Since 'the messenger' occurs in both sentences, he can be replaced in the second by the relative pronoun.

- One complex sentence:* The lord sent the messenger who saw the sea.

When this is written in Greek, it is vital to be aware that:

- there are still two basic sentences here (e.g. there are two main verbs – 'sent' and 'saw')
- 'who' is standing in for 'the messenger'. Grammatically 'the messenger' is called the antecedent of 'who' – the word in the previous sentence that the 'who' is looking back to.

- One complex sentence:* They are keeping the law which he teaches.

- Two basic sentences:*
1. They are keeping the law.
 2. He teaches the law.

Thus, in the complex sentence, 'the law' is the antecedent of 'which'.

Hint

- The antecedent will come in the first sentence.
- The relative will be in the second sentence (replacing the antecedent).
- In English the antecedent normally immediately precedes the relative.

PRACTICE 10.1.1

Break down these complex sentences into two basic sentences. Which word is the antecedent of the relative in these sentences?

1. Jesus threw out the demon which was in the man.
2. I am the man whom you are seeking.

¹ However, 'whose' as the genitive of 'who' is still generally used in English.

3.

She ate the meal which the king sent.
4.

The prophet offered the sacrifice, because of which the rain came.
5.

Is this the Messiah for whom we are waiting?
6.

The governor sent the soldiers who arrested Jesus.

10.1.2 Formation of the relative in Greek

The relative pronoun ὅς (English: who, whom, whose, what, which) declines very similarly to the definite article. To highlight this in the table below, the article is declined in the white columns next to the corresponding part of the relative.

		Masculine		Feminine		Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ὅς	ὁ	ἡ ²	ἡ	ὃ ²	το
	Acc.	ὄν	τον	ήν	την	ὄ ²	το
	Gen.	οῦ	του	ἥς	της	οὔ	του
	Dat.	ᾧ	τῷ	ἥ	τῇ	ᾧ	τῷ
Plural	Nom.	οἱ ²	οἱ	αἱ ²	αἱ	ᾶ	τα
	Acc.	οὓς	τους	ᾶς	τας	ᾶ	τα
	Gen.	ῶν	των	ῶν	των	ῶν	των
	Dat.	οῖς	τοῖς	αῖς	ταῖς	οῖς	τοῖς

Key: ὄν Relative pronoun τον Definite article for comparison

Hint

A very short word with a rough breathing is almost certain to be part of the relative pronoun. Replace the rough breathing with a τ and you will have the corresponding part of the article which, hopefully, you will be able to recognise.

² The forms ἡ, ὁ, οἱ and αἱ occur in both the relative and the article. Context will normally make clear which is meant. However, accents can help here, since the relative always has an accent (normally grave), while the article almost never does. These forms will be accented in this book to help you; you may find it helpful to write them yourself.

PRACTICE 10.1.2

Parse

1. ὁ	3. οὐ	5. αἱ	7. οὓς	9. ὧν
2. ὅν	4. ἥ	6. αἱ	8. την	10. οἷς

10.1.3 Using the relative in Greek

To get the relative correct in Greek, it is useful first to identify the two basic sentences, and the relative's antecedent.

KEY GRAMMAR

In the relative:

Number and Gender agree with the antecedent

Case is determined within its own sentence, by the normal rules (e.g. whether it is the object, governed by a preposition etc.)

Examples

- The lord sent the messenger who saw the sea.

Antecedent: the messenger

2nd sentence: who (the messenger) saw the sea

The antecedent is masculine singular; 'who' is the subject of its sentence.

Relative should be masculine, singular, nominative = ὅς

= ὁ κυριος ἐπεμψεν τον ἀγγελον ὃς ἐβλεψεν την θαλασσαν.

- They are keeping the law which he teaches.

Antecedent: the law

2nd sentence: he teaches which (the law)

The antecedent is masculine singular; 'which' is the object of its sentence.

Relative should be masculine singular, accusative = ὅν

= τηρουσιν τον νομον ὃν διδασκει.

- That is the synagogue into which they are coming.

Antecedent: the synagogue

2nd sentence: they are coming into which (the synagogue)

The antecedent is feminine singular; 'who' is governed by εἰς and therefore must be accusative. Relative should be feminine, singular, accusative = ἣν.

= ἐκεινη ἐστιν ἡ συναγωγη εἰς ἣν ἐρχονται.

Further points³

- Often the relative clause will come in the middle of the complex sentence, not neatly at the end. English also does this, but not as often as in Greek.
e.g. τα τεκνα ἃ ἐδιδάσκον κρᾶζει.
– The children whom I was teaching are crying out.
- If the antecedent should be part of αὐτός, οὗτος or ἐκεῖνος it will often be omitted.
e.g. ὁ υἱὸς οὓς θελεῖ ζῳοποιεῖ. = ὁ υἱὸς ζῳοποιεῖ αὐτοὺς οὓς θελεῖ.
– The son makes alive those whom he wishes (John 5.21)
- Also Greek will often put the relative clause first.
e.g. ἃ βλέπω φιλῶ = φιλῶ αὐτὰ ἃ βλέπω.
– I like the things which I see = I like what I see.

Examples

John 6.2: ἐθεωροῦν τα σημεῖα ἃ ἐποίει.

– They were seeing the signs which he was doing.

Rom. 9.18: ἄρα οὖν ὃν θελεῖ ἐλεεῖ.

– So then, he has mercy on whom he wishes.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

1. βλέπω τον δούλον ὃν ἐκάλεσεν.
2. ὑπάγε ἐκ τοῦ οἴκου ἐν ᾧ εἶ.
3. ποῦ ἐστὶν τα ποτηρία ἃ φιλοῦμεν;
4. ἐπίστευσαν γὰρ τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ ὃ οἱ ἀποστολοὶ ἐκήρυσσον.
5. ἀσπαζέσθε οἱ ἐρχονται πρὸς ὑμᾶς.
6. οὗτος ἐστὶν ὁ κύριος δι' οὗ προσευξομεθα.
7. ἃ ἤκουσα ταῦτα λεγῶ ὑμῖν.
8. ἀσπαζέσθε τον Τιμοθεον ὑπὲρ οὗ ἡ ἐκκλησία προσευχεται.
9. He keeps the bread which he made.
10. It is necessary to love the God who saves us.
11. Do you (s.) believe the gospel which you heard?
12. Did the disciple who denied Jesus repent?

³ The relative is also occasionally attracted into the case of its antecedent, rather than being in the case appropriate for its own sentence. Thus 1 Cor 7.1 περὶ ὧν ἐγραψατε, should really be περὶ αὐτῶν ἃ ἐγραψατε (concerning the things which you wrote), but the ἃ has been attracted into the case of the αὐτῶν, which has then dropped out!

10.2 SLANTED QUESTIONS

In Chapter 4, section 4.5 we learnt how to ask questions in Greek (using either a question word or just the question mark).

However, in Greek just as in English it is possible to ask questions in such a way as to imply that you are expecting the answer ‘yes’ or ‘no’. Greek does this in a very compact and straightforward way.

KEY GRAMMAR

A question expecting the answer:

‘no’ – μη ... ;
‘yes’ – οὐ ... ;

In English we have various different ways of expressing these kinds of question, often involving tone of voice. What is important is that we understand the meaning conveyed by the question, and then find some suitable way of putting it in English.

Examples

John 6.67: Μη και υμεις θελετε υπαγειν;

- You don’t also wish to go away, do you?
- Surely you don’t also want to go away?

John 7.25: Ουχ ουτος εστιν ον ζητουσιν;

- This is whom they are seeking, isn’t it?
- Surely this is the one they are after?

Notes

- It is difficult to find any logical reason behind the use in slanted questions of these two forms of ‘not’.
- Word order can help distinguish this special use of οὐ and μη from their use as negatives. As question words they will normally come first in the sentence, but this is very unusual when they are simple negatives. (When they are question words there will also be a question mark, of course.)
- μητι is also sometimes used instead of μη, and ουχι instead of οὐ.⁴

Luke 4.22: και ελεγον, Ουχι υιος εστιν Ιωσηφ ουτος;

- And they were saying, ‘Isn’t this Joseph’s son?’

John 8.22: ελεγον ουν οι Ιουδαιοι, Μητι αποκτενει [to kill] εαυτον;

- So the Jews were saying, ‘He isn’t going to kill himself, is he?’

⁴ μητι can also be used for a hesitant question wondering whether something could be the case. For example John 4.29: μητι ουτος εστιν ο Χριστος; – Could he be the Messiah? or He cannot be the Messiah, can he?

Translate

1. μη βλέπετε; 2. οὐ φιλεῖς με; 3. ἐγὼ οὐ φιλῶ σε. 4. μη ἐγώ;

10.3 DIRECT AND INDIRECT STATEMENTS

In English a verb of saying can be followed either by the words that were said enclosed in quotation marks or by the word ‘that’ followed by a report of what was said. The former is said to be direct speech or a direct statement, the latter indirect speech or an indirect statement.

He said, ‘I am the Christ.’ – Direct statement

He said that he was the Christ. – Indirect statement

Indirect statements also occur after other ‘verbs of saying or thinking’ (such as feeling, believing, knowing, learning, fearing etc.).

I thought that he was the Christ.

Direct statements

Direct statements are expressed in four different ways in Greek:

1. The word ὅτι is used to introduce the direct statement (thus the ὅτι is equivalent to the opening inverted commas or speech marks in English).
2. The participle of λέγω is added immediately before the direct statement (again, the participle is then equivalent to the opening inverted commas in English).
e.g. καὶ ἐκηρυσσεν λέγων· Ἐρχεται... (Mark 1.7) and he used to preach (saying), ‘He is coming . . .’
3. Both ὅτι and the participle of λέγω (i.e. 1 and 2 combined).
4. Nothing marks out the beginning of the direct statement.

In most printed texts the beginning of a direct statement is also marked out with a capital letter. However, early manuscripts were written completely in capitals, and so this marking out of direct statements merely expresses the opinion of the editors of your printed text and is not part of the text itself (but to begin with, it is sensible to assume they are right!).

- Nothing marks out the end of a direct statement in Greek. Thus it is hard to be certain where direct speech finishes (e.g. in John 3 it is not clear where between verses 10 and 21 the speech begun in verse 10 ends).

Indirect statements

Indirect statements are expressed in Greek by the word ὅτι (meaning ‘that’), and so are quite straightforward.

e.g. θεωρῶ ὅτι προφητῆς εἶ σὺ. (John 4.19)

– I see that you are a prophet.

However, when the words or thoughts were in the past, Greek uses a tense for the words / thoughts that is different from the tense used in English.

KEY GRAMMAR

Greek uses the tense of the original words or thoughts

For example, take the English sentence, ‘She heard that Jesus was coming.’ This is an indirect statement and so will be translated into Greek using ὅτι. However, the actual report that she heard was ‘Jesus is coming.’ Hence it will be translated into Greek using the Present tense of coming (is coming), whereas in English we use a past tense (was coming).

She heard that Jesus was coming.

ἤκουσεν ὅτι Ἰησοῦς ἐρχεται. (John 11.20)

Similarly, to translate into Greek the sentence ‘The Jews did not believe that he had been blind’, you need to identify that the original words/thoughts were ‘He was not blind’; thus, this would be an Imperfect in Greek:

The Jews did not believe about him that he had been blind.

οὐκ ἐπιστευσαν οἱ Ἰουδαῖοι περὶ αὐτοῦ ὅτι ἦν τυφλός. (John 9.18)

Hint

Do not be confused by the three different meanings of ὅτι:

1. To introduce direct statements (= open speech marks)
2. To introduce indirect statements (= ‘that’)
3. As a word meaning ‘because’

PRACTICE 10.3

Do these sentences include direct or indirect statements? If indirect, which Greek tense would be used in the indirect statement?

1. The centurion says that he is going.
2. I said to him, ‘Worship me.’
3. The women said that he had been blind.
4. The soldiers thought that they saw him.

5. The blind people said, 'We want to see.'
 6. Then they cried out that he was coming.

10.4 TIME EXPRESSIONS

Greek expresses time in a rather clever but compact way. No preposition is used – the word referring to the period of time is simply put in the appropriate case.

KEY GRAMMAR

Time 'how long' – accusative

Time 'during' – genitive

Time 'at which' – dative

Examples

- δυο ἡμέρας ἀκουουσιν του κυριου.
- 1. ἡμέρας is *acc. plural*⁵
- 2. In a time expression acc. means time 'how long', expressed in English by 'for'
- 3. Sentence = 'For two days they listen to the Lord.'
- της ἡμέρας ἀκουουσιν του κυριου.
- 1. ἡμέρας is *gen. sing.*⁶
- 2. In a time expression gen. means time 'during', expressed in English by 'during' or 'by'
- 3. Sentence = 'During the day they listen to the Lord.' or 'By day they listen to the Lord.'
- τη ἡμέρᾳ ἀκουουσιν του κυριου.
- 1. ἡμέρᾳ is dat.
- 2. In a time expression dat. means time 'at which', expressed in English by 'on'.
- 3. Sentence = 'On the day they listen to the Lord.'

Note: Sometimes, although no preposition is needed, ἐν is used as well as the dative (ἐν τη ἡμέρᾳ βλέπουσιν). This makes no difference to the meaning.

⁵ In form it could be gen. sing. but δυο meaning 'two' shows it must be a plural.

⁶ In form it could be acc. pl. but της in front of it shows it must be gen. sing.

PRACTICE 10.4In Greek, what case would be used for these time expressions?

- | | |
|------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1. They came on the Sabbath. | 4. Three days he was in the tomb. |
| 2. He fasted for forty days. | 5. At dawn the stone moved. |
| 3. Nicodemus came by night. | 6. He was arrested during Passover. |

Section C

Mark 6.3-6 οὐχ οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ τέκτων [builder, carpenter, stonemason], ὁ υἱὸς τῆς Μαρίας καὶ ἀδελφὸς Ἰακώβου καὶ Ἰωσήτος [Josés (gen.)] καὶ Ἰούδα καὶ Σίμωνος [Simon (gen.)]; καὶ οὐκ εἰσὶν αἱ ἀδελφαὶ αὐτοῦ ὧδε πρὸς ἡμᾶς; καὶ ἐσκανδαλίζοντο [they were scandalized] ἐν αὐτῷ. ⁴ καὶ ἔλεγεν αὐτοῖς ὁ Ἰησοῦς ὅτι Οὐκ ἔστιν προφήτης ἄτιμος [unhonoured] εἰ μὴ [except] ἐν τῇ πατρίδι [homeland] αὐτοῦ καὶ ἐν τοῖς συγγενεῦσιν [kinsmen] αὐτοῦ καὶ ἐν τῇ οἰκίᾳ αὐτοῦ. ⁵ καὶ οὐκ ἐδύνατο [he was able] ἐκεῖ ποιῆσαι οὐδεμίαν [no, none, no one] δύναμιν [act of power, miracle], εἰ μὴ ὀλίγοις [a few] ἀρρώστοις [sick, ill] ἐπιθεὶς [laying on] τὰς χεῖρας [hands] ἐθεράπευσεν. ⁶ καὶ ἐθαύμαζεν διὰ τὴν ἀπιστίαν [unbelief] αὐτῶν. Καὶ περιῆγεν [go about] τὰς κώμας [villages] κύκλῳ [in a circle, round about] διδάσκων.

Special verbs

John 1.11: εἰς τὰ ἴδια ἦλθεν, καὶ οἱ ἴδιοι αὐτόν οὐ παρέλαβον.

– he came to his own, and his own received him not.

Luke 4.9: ἡγάγεν δὲ αὐτόν εἰς Ἱερουσαλὴμ ... καὶ εἶπεν αὐτῷ ...

– he led him to Jerusalem ... and said to him ...

The four verbs here – ἦλθεν, παρέλαβον, ἡγάγεν and εἶπεν – are all in the Aorist tense, as is reflected in their translations. However, the Aorist has not been formed in accordance with the pattern we learnt in Chapter 6 (in particular, while there is an ε augment, there is no added σ). This is because these four verbs belong to the group of verbs that form their Aorist in a different way, called the ‘Second (2nd) Aorist’.

In the 2nd Aorist, verbs use different stems. Sometimes these are similar to the normal stem – παρέλαβον from παραλαμβάνω and ἡγάγεν from ἄγω – at other times they are completely different – ἦλθεν from ἐρχομαι and εἶπεν from λεγώ.

11.1 SECOND AORISTS

11.1.1 The principle

There is a group of Greek verbs that do not form their Aorist in the normal way. They are said to use a 2nd (form of the) Aorist rather than the more common 1st (form of the) Aorist, which is the one we have already met. It is crucial to realise that the 1st Aorist and the 2nd Aorist are simply different ways of forming the Aorist – they are not two different tenses.¹

KEY GRAMMAR

The 2nd Aorist has the same meaning as the 1st Aorist. A verb will have either a 1st Aorist or a 2nd Aorist but not both.

¹ Some grammars call the 1st Aorist the weak Aorist and the 2nd Aorist the strong Aorist. This is confusing because neither is stronger nor weaker than the other.

Thus, in this chapter you need to learn which verbs have a 2nd Aorist and how to form the 2nd Aorist, but there will be no discussion of its meaning or use, because its meaning and use are the same as those of the 1st Aorist in Chapter 6.

11.1.2 Compare in English

Most English verbs form their Past tense by adding –ed.

e.g. walk → walked; row → rowed; attack → attacked

Some verbs form their Past tense by changing their stem instead of adding –ed.

e.g. sing → sung; see → saw; throw → threw

Only very rare words can do both.

e.g. hang → hung or hanged.

There is no ‘different quality of pastness’ depending on which way the verb forms its Past tense. The form is different, but the meaning is the same.

There is no rule for determining which pattern a given word follows. When learning English you simply have to learn which verbs form their Past tense by changing their stem, and learn what their stem changes to. You know that all the other verbs will form their Past tense by adding –ed. Those learning English may sometimes get this wrong and create forms such as ‘sayed’. This is wrong, but understandable, and not too serious a mistake, because ‘sayed’ is simply wrong rather than meaning anything different from ‘said’.

All of the points are also true of the Greek 1st and 2nd Aorists.

English	Greek
There is a standard form of the Past tense	Most verbs have a 1 st Aorist
Certain words follow a different pattern	Some verbs have a 2 nd Aorist
Very few words can follow both patterns	No verb has a 1 st and a 2 nd Aorist
The normal pattern forms the Past tense by adding –ed to the stem	1 st Aorists are formed by adding σ to the stem
The other group forms the Past tense by changing the stem	2 nd Aorists are formed by changing their stem

11.1.3 The formation of the 2nd Aorist

The distinguishing feature of the 2nd Aorist is the changed stem. This changed stem is always present in the 2nd Aorist and is only present in the 2nd Aorist.

KEY GRAMMAR

2nd Aorist = Changed Stem

Stems

Unfortunately, there is no way of working out what the changed stem will be. You have to learn the changed stems of the verbs which have a 2nd Aorist. There are 21 such verbs which occur with any frequency in the New Testament. These are listed here and in the grammar reference pages on page 270.

KEY GRAMMAR

It is impossible to spot a 2nd Aorist unless you recognise the 2nd Aorist stem Learn them!

Some 2nd Aorist stems are shortened versions of the Present stem:

	Present	2 nd Aorist
I sin	ἁμαρταν-ω	ἥμαρτ-ον
I die	ἀποθνήσκ-ω	ἀπεθαν-ον
I throw	βαλλ-ω	έβαλ-ον
I find	εὕρισκ-ω	εὔρ-ον
I leave	καταλειπ-ω	κατελιπ-ον
I take	λαμβάν-ω	έλαβ-ον
I learn	μανθαν-ω	έμαθ-ον
I suffer	πάσχ-ω	έπαθ-ον
I drink	πιν-ω	έπι-ον
I flee	φευγ-ω	έφυγ-ον

These include two whose endings are a little different:

I go ²	βαιν-ω	έβ-ην
I know	γινωσκ-ω	έγν-ων

Others make other minor adjustments to the stem:

I lead	ἄγ-ω	ἡγαγ-ον
I have	έχ-ω	έσχ-ον
I fall	πιπτ-ω	έπεσ-ον

One is deponent (and therefore has deponent endings):

I become	γιν-ομαι	έγεν-ομην
----------	----------	-----------

Five have 2nd Aorists that bear no resemblance to their forms in the Present.³

I come	έρχ-ομαι	ἦλθ-ον
I say	λεγ-ω	ειπ-ον

² βαίνω is only ever used in compounds such as καταβαίνω and ἀναβαίνω.

³ What is happening here is that there are two different verbs with the same meaning, one of which is used in the Present and the other in the (2nd) Aorist (as in English 'go' and 'went').

I eat	ἐσθι-ω	ἐφαγ-ον
I see	ὁρα-ω ⁴	εἶδ-ον
I carry	φερ-ω	ἤνεγκ-ον

Endings

The 2nd Aorist does not use the (1st) Aorist endings. Instead it uses the endings more normally associated with other tenses – the Imperfect in the Indicative, and the Present in the other moods (where there is no Imperfect).

KEY GRAMMAR

2nd Aorist Indicative – Imperfect Endings
2nd Aorist Other Moods – Present Endings

Thus for βαλλω (I throw), the 2nd Aorist forms are:

Indicative	I	ἐβαλον	Imperative	2 nd Sing.	βαλε
	You (sing.)	ἐβαλες		2 nd Pl.	βαλετε
	He, she, it	ἐβαλεν	Infinitive		βαλειν
	We	ἐβαλομεν	Participle (masc. nom.)	Sing.	βαλων
	You (pl.)	ἐβαλετε		Plural	βαλοντες
	They	ἐβαλον

11.1.4 Indicative 2nd Aorists

Notice that in the Indicative the 2nd Aorist looks very similar to the Imperfect – having the augment, no σ and the Imperfect endings, just as the Imperfect does. In fact, the only difference between, for example, the 2nd Aorist and Imperfect of βαλλω is that the 2nd Aorist uses the changed stem, hence ἐβαλον, ἐβαλες, ἐβαλεν etc. rather than the Imperfect ἐβαλλον, ἐβαλλες, ἐβαλλεν etc.

Examples

ἐφευγον	3 rd Plural Imperfect Indicative	They were fleeing ἐφυγον	3 rd Plural Aorist Indicative	They fled
ἐγινετο	3 rd Singular Imperfect Indicative	It was happening
ἐγενετο	3 rd Singular Aorist Indicative	It happened
ἐλεγετε	2 nd Plural Imperfect Indicative	You were saying
εἶπετε	2 nd Plural Aorist Indicative	You said

⁴ ὁραω belongs to the -αω groups of verbs. These verbs are quite rare and so will not be dealt with until Chapter 19. However, εἶδον, the 2nd aorist of ὁραω, is much more common and regular (for a 2nd Aorist!) and so is dealt with here.

11.1.5 Other moods 2nd Aorists

Augments

The 2nd Aorist Indicative has an augment. However, as in the 1st Aorist, the augment is removed in the other moods. You need to be aware that the forms listed above included the augments. This is obvious in the case of, say, ἐλαβον, but less so in the case of ἦλθον (whose unaugmented form is ἐλθ-). A list of the more confusing unaugmented forms is given on page 270.

εἶπον and εἶδον are confusing, in as much as while the augment can be removed from εἶδον to give ἰδ-, even in the other moods εἶπον remains εἶπ-.

Endings

In the other moods, the 2nd Aorist can look like a Present (just as, in the Indicative, it can look like the Imperfect). For example, the -ων in βαλων tricks many students into thinking that it is a Present participle like λυων. However, in fact, the Present (simultaneous) participle of βαλλω is βαλλων while the Aorist (sequence) participle is βαλων.

Examples

λαμβάνων	Masc. Nom. Sing. Present participle	Taking λαβων	Masc. Nom. Sing. Aorist participle	Having taken ἐλθειν	Aorist Infinitive	To come (undefined)
ιδοντες	Masc. Nom. Pl. Aorist participle	Having seen μανθανε	2 nd Singular Present Imperative	Learn! (process/ongoing)

11.1.6 Unusual endings

(i) γινωσκω and καταβαινω

γινωσκω (I know) and βαίνω (I go) have unusual endings in the 2nd Aorist. In Greek of the New Testament period, βαίνω only exists in compounds such as καταβαινώ and ἀναβαινώ. Therefore we will use καταβαινώ as a model.

Indicative	ἐγνων, ἐγnows, ἐγνω, ἐγνωμεν, ἐγnowτε, ἐγnowsαν
Imperative	γνω, γνωτε	Infinitive	γνῶναι
Participle	γνους, γνοντες
Indicative	κατεβην, κατεβης, κατεβη, κατεβημεν, κατεβητε, κατεβησαν
Imperative	καταβηθι, καταβητε	Infinitive	καταβηναι
Participle	καταβας, καταβαντες

These can best be understood as the result of the form being dominated by the strong long vowel with which their stems end (ω or η). These verbs also have irregularities in the other tenses (see Chapter 18, section 18.4 and the lists on pages 253–4).

(ii) 2nd Aorists with 1st Aorist endings ἦλθον, εἶπον, εἶδον and ἤνεγκον are sometimes found with 1st Aorist endings (i.e. what we learnt in Chapter 6 as the Aorist endings) rather than with the Imperfect/Present endings you would expect for the 2nd Aorist. This makes no difference to the meaning.

e.g. εἶπαν rather than εἶπον (Acts 16.31)
ἦλθατε rather than ἦλθετε (Matt. 25.36)

11.2 THE FUTURE AND AORIST OF LIQUID VERBS

1 Cor. 1.17: οὐ γὰρ ἀπεστείλεν με Χριστὸς βαπτίζειν ...

– because Christ did not send me to baptize ...

Luke 11.49: ἀποστελῶ εἰς αὐτοὺς προφῆτας καὶ ἀποστόλους ...

– I will send to them prophets and apostles ...

ἀπεστείλεν is the Aorist of ἀποστελλω and ἀποστελῶ is the future. In both cases notice how the σ we would expect to find at the end of the stem, marking out the Future/Aorist, is missing. Also there are slight changes in the stem. This is because ἀποστελλω is a 'liquid verb'.

Verbs whose stems end in λ, μ, ν or ρ (called liquid verbs)⁵ have peculiar Aorists and Futures. However, this is not because they form a new class of verbs. What is happening is that for both the Aorist and the Future a σ is added to the stem. However, for reasons of pronunciation a σ cannot follow a λ, μ, ν or ρ – thus the expected σ disappears, and there are various compensatory changes.

The Future

- A different stem is used.
- No σ is added (which you would expect for the Future).
- The endings from the Present of φιλεω are used (-ω, -εις, -ει, -οιμεν, -ειτε, -ουσιν).

The Aorist

- A different stem is used.
- No σ is added (which you would expect for the Aorist).
- The augment and endings of the (1st) Aorist are used as normal.

Fortunately, the stem changes involved are normally minimal – just the shifting between a double and single consonant, or between long and short vowels.

KEY GRAMMAR

In liquid verbs there is no σ in the Future or Aorist

⁵ Some students find it helpful to think of these liquid verbs as the 'mineral water' verbs – since the consonants in mineral are the consonants in question – μ, ν, ρ, λ.

11.2.1 Common liquid verbs⁶

Many use the same stem in the Aorist as the Present. In the Future this stem is altered by the final vowel of the stem being shortened:

	Present	Future ⁷	Aorist
I sow	σπείρω	σπερεω	ἐσπείρα
I raise	ἐγείρω	ἐγερεω	ἤγειρα
I kill	ἀποκτείνω	ἀποκτενεω	ἀπεκτείνα

Similar is:

I lift up	αἶρω	ἄρεω	ἤρα
-----------	------	------	-----

Others move from a final double consonant in the Present to a single consonant in the Future, and to a single consonant with a lengthened vowel in the Aorist:

I send	ἀποστελλω	ἀποστελεω	ἀπεστείλα
I announce	ἀγγελλω	ἀγγελεω	ἠγγέιλα

Some are similar but show no change in the Future, since in the Present their final vowel is already short, and their final consonant is not doubled:

I remain	μένω	μενεω	ἐμείνα
I judge	κρίνω	κρίνεω	ἐκρίνα

Some follow the same general principles but have 2nd Aorists:

I die	ἀποθνήσκω	ἀποθανεομαι	ἀπεθάνον
I throw	βάλλω	βάλεω	έβαλον

Examples

John 15.10: μένειτε ἐν τῇ ἀγάπῃ μου.

– You will remain in my love.

Matt. 21.1: τότε Ἰησοῦς ἀπεστείλεν δυο μαθητάς.

– Then Jesus sent two disciples.

11.2.2 Accents in the Future

Because some liquid verbs such as μένω and κρίνω use the same stem for the Present as for the Future, the only difference in form between the Present and the Future is that the Future uses the -εω endings. However, once the contraction has happened, often the -εω endings are no different from the normal -ω endings

⁶ Because the changes affect all verbs whose stems end in λ, μ, ν or ρ, a complete list cannot be given. However, these are the common ones, and the rest behave similarly.

⁷ Written uncontracted for clarity.

(e.g. μένω, μένεις, μένει, μένουσιν). Thus the Present does not differ from the Future. In these cases the accent can be helpful.

KEY GRAMMAR

A liquid verb has a circumflex if (and only if) it is Future

e.g. μένεις is Present (you remain), μένεις is Future (you will remain).

¹³ γινωσμαι is the irregular future of γινωσκω. This is explained in Chapter 18, section 18.4.

The third declension –

Part 1

Rom. 8.9: ὑμεῖς δε οὐκ ἐστε ἐν σαρκι ἀλλὰ ἐν πνευματι.

– you are not in flesh but in spirit.

Matt. 16.17: ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν αὐτῷ· Μακάριος εἶ, Σιμων Βαριωνα, ὅτι σαρξ καὶ αἷμα οὐκ ἀπεκαλύψεν σοὶ ἀλλ' ὁ πατήρ μου.

– Jesus said to him, ‘You are blessed, Simon Bariona, because flesh and blood did not reveal (this) to you, but my father.’

Acts 2.17: λέγει ὁ θεός· Ἐκχεῶ ἀπο τοῦ πνεύματος μου ἐπὶ πᾶσαν σάρκα, καὶ προφητευσουσιν οἱ υἱοὶ ὑμῶν καὶ αἱ θυγατέρες ὑμῶν.

– God says, ‘I will pour out from my spirit on all flesh, and your sons and your daughters will prophesy.’

None of the nouns underlined in these passages have the endings that we would expect. σαρκι and πνευματι must be dative (after ἐν); σαρξ, αἷμα and πατήρ are nominatives (subjects); the τοῦ in front of πνεύματος shows it is genitive; similarly θυγατέρες must be nominative plural (with αἱ). All of this highlights that there is another family of nouns, adjectives and pronouns with a different set of endings.

12.1 THE ESSENCE OF THE 3RD DECLENSION

All the nouns, adjectives and pronouns that we have learnt so far form one large family, having endings either identical or very similar to those of ἀγαθός. The traditional terminology divides this group into 1st and 2nd declension nouns (see Chapter 8, section 8.3.4), but they basically form one family.

In this family you can work out the stem from the nominative, and then add the endings to it. Thus, θεός has the stem θε- to which we can add endings, giving θε-ος, θε-ον, θε-ου, θε-ω etc.

We now need to learn the other family of nouns, adjectives and pronouns known as the 3rd declension.

There are a few characteristic features of the 3rd declension:

- The masculine and feminine are identical; the neuter is similar.¹
- The nominative singular form is irregular – it is not formed from the stem plus an ending, although all the other forms are.²
- Because the nominative is irregular:
 - for a 3rd declension word you need to learn both the nominative and another form from which the stem can be deduced (the genitive is best)³
 - no ending indicates that a word is 3rd declension, in the way that up to now words ending in -ος have always declined like λογος. Indeed, the beauty of the 3rd declension is its ability to cope with words whatever their nominative.

These features are true of all the 3rd declension family. In this chapter we shall learn the standard 3rd declension words (those with consonants at the end of their stems). Chapter 13 covers those with stems ending in vowels.

12.2 MASCULINE AND FEMININE NOUNS WITH CONSONANT STEMS

The endings are as follows:

	Singular	Plural
Nom. ⁴	Various	-ες
Acc.	-α	-ας
Gen.	-ος	-ων
Dat.	-ι	-σιν ⁵

Notes

- On the whole there is no connection between these endings and those of the 1st and 2nd declension, although the genitive plural ending -ων is the same.
- Watch out for the endings that are used differently in the 3rd declension from the way they are in the 1st and 2nd (see overleaf):

² Unsurprisingly, at a deep level there is an underlying pattern behind the ‘irregular’ forms. However, most students find it far more trouble to go into than it is worth.

³ The genitive is used because in neuter forms the accusative is always identical to the nominative, thus a neuter accusative will be just as ‘irregular’ as the nominative, and not based on the stem.

⁴ As one would expect, the vocative is the same as the nominative.

⁵ Or -σι (the ν is optional), although the form with the ν is far more common.

3 rd declension	1 st /2 nd declension
-ος gen. sing.	masc. nom. sing.
-α acc. sing. (masc. or fem.)	neut. nom. or acc. pl. (or nom. sing. of ἡμεῖς)
-ας acc. pl. (masc. or fem.)	fem. acc. pl. (or gen. sing. of ἡμεῖς)

The stem to which these endings are added is found by removing the -ος from the genitive singular of the word (which needs to have been learnt or can be found in the vocabulary).

For example, 'star' is ἀστήρ, ἀστερος and therefore its stem is ἀστερ-.

Hence it declines as follows:

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	ἀστήρ	ἀστερες
Acc.	ἀστερα	ἀστερας
Gen.	ἀστερος	ἀστερων
Dat.	ἀστερι	ἀστερσιν

12.2.1 Note on the dative plural

Since the ending for the dative plural is -σιν, the σ will end up next to the consonant with which the stem of the word ends. Then, as happens with verbs (Chapter 6, section 6.6), the σ and the final consonant will combine. Because this is about pronunciation, rather than anything special about the 3rd declension, the combinations are the same as in the Future and Aorist of verbs.

KEY GRAMMAR
π, β, φ	+	σιν	→ ψιν
τ, δ, θ, ν	+	σιν	→ σιν
κ, γ, χ	+	σιν	→ ξιν

e.g. 'flesh' is σαρξ, σαρκος and so the dative plural is σαρξιν.

'child' is παῖς, παιδος and so the dative plural is παῖσιν.

In addition, there can be slight changes to the vowel sounds within the word. This happens according to a standard pattern for those with stems ending in -εντ and -οντ, and then occasionally for other words.⁶

e.g. 'ruler' is ἄρχων, ἄρχοντος and so the dative plural is ἄρχουσιν.

⁶ The most common being that ἄνθρωπος, ἄνδρος (man) has a dative plural in ἀνδρῶσιν and χεῖρ, χείρος (hand) has a dative plural in χερσιν.

12.2.2 The family group

father	πατηρ, πατρος	all follow the same slightly irregular pattern
mother	μητηρ, μητρος daughter	θυγατηρ, θυγατρος

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	πατηρ	πατερες
Acc.	πατερα	πατερας
Gen.	πατρος	πατερων
Dat.	πατρι	πατρασιν

Note the ε which is sometimes part of the stem and sometimes not. Also the α in the dative plural. πατηρ (alone) also has an irregular vocative πατερ.

| 12. χειρ, accusative plural | 16. αἶων, dative plural |

12.3 NEUTER NOUNS WITH CONSONANT STEMS

These follow a very similar pattern to the masculine and feminine nouns:

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	Various	-α
Acc.	Identical to nom.	Identical to nom.
Gen.	-ος	-ων
Dat.	-ι	-σιν (or -σι)

The only difference is that, as in all neuters, the acc. is the same as the nom., and the nom. and acc. plural is -α (as in the 1st and 2nd declensions). The dative plural follows the same rules as in the masculine and feminine.

For example, 'body' is σῶμα, σωματός. Therefore, it declines as follows:

	Singular	Plural
Nom.	σῶμα	σώματα
Acc.	σῶμα	σώματα
Gen.	σωματος	σωμάτων
Dat.	σώματι	σώμασιν

In fact, although there are 3rd declension neuter nouns with a wide variety of stem endings, many 3rd declension neuter words are very similar to σῶμα, ending in -μα in the nominative and having a stem ending in -ματ.

9. He loves two women.
10. The spirit does not like the flesh.
11. I have big feet.
12. They saw the light.

12.4 ADJECTIVES WITH CONSONANT STEMS

The few adjectives that follow the 3rd declension have the endings of the masculine/feminine nouns in their masculine/feminine parts, and of the neuter nouns in their neuter parts. They have a single stem, but both of their nom. sing. forms need to be learnt (i.e. the masculine/feminine and the neuter nom. sing.).

The most common adjectives of this form are the comparatives e.g. ‘more’: πλειον, πλειον, πλειονος.⁷

	Singular		Plural
	Masculine Feminine	Neuter	Masculine Feminine	Neuter
Nom.	πλειον	πλειον	πλειονες	πλειονα
Acc.	πλειονα	πλειον	πλειονας	πλειονα
Gen.	πλειονος	πλειονος	πλειονων	πλειονων
Dat.	πλειονι	πλειονι	πλειοσιν	πλειοσιν

Hint

If a noun and an adjective qualifying it are from different families, their endings will differ even when they are agreeing in gender, case and number.

e.g. ὁ ἀγαθὸς ἔχει πλειονας φιλους – The good man has more friends.

PRACTICE 12.4

1. πλειονες στρατιωται ἐρχονται.
2. ἔχεις μειζονα κεφαλὴν μου.
3. ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶχεν πλειονας μαθητας ἢ Ἰωαννης;
4. προφητης εἰμι μειζονος ἱεροῦ.

⁷ While learning the form of the comparatives, it makes sense to learn how to use them. The normal way of expressing comparison is by putting the second noun in the genitive (ἐγὼ ἔχω πλειον σου - I have more than you). Another alternative is to use the word ἢ, with the two words being compared put into the same case (ἐγὼ ἔχω πλειον ἢ συ).

12.5 τις AND τίς

There are two pronouns that decline like πλειων. What is a little more confusing, however, is that although the pronouns are different, they look identical – in all their forms – except for the accents they carry.

KEY GRAMMAR

τις is the indefinite pronoun – someone, anyone τίς is the interrogative pronoun – who? what?⁸

Formation

Since their neuter sing. is τι and their genitive τινος, they decline as follows:

	Singular		Plural
	Masculine Feminine	Neuter	Masculine Feminine	Neuter
Nom.	τις	τι	τινες	τινα
Acc.	τινα	τι	τινας	τινα
Gen.	τινος	τινος	τινων	τινων
Dat.	τινι	τινι	τισι	τισι

Use

Their use as pronouns is quite straightforward, although when using τίς meaning ‘who’ you need to think about which case is appropriate (since in English the distinction between ‘who’ and ‘whom’ is now being lost).

e.g. τίνα θεωρεῖς; Whom do you see? ἐβλεψα τινα. I saw someone.
τίς ἐρχεται; Who is coming? ἀκουει τις. Someone is listening.
περι τίνων λεγεις; What/Who are you speaking about?

Both can also be used as adjectives, when they must agree with their nouns.

e.g. τίνα μισθον ἔχετε; What reward do you have?
στρατιῶται τινες ἐρχονται. Some soldiers are coming.

τί can also mean ‘why?’

e.g. τί λεγεις; Why are you speaking? (or ‘What are you saying?’)

⁸ τίς is always a question word and hence is different from ὅς which is the relative (linking together two sentences), despite the fact that English translates both as ‘who’.

Examples

Mark 2.24: τί ποιοῦσιν τοῖς σαββάσιν ὃ οὐκ ἐξέστιν

– Why are they doing on the Sabbath what is not permitted?

Mark 8.29: ὑμεῖς δε τίνα με λέγετε εἶναι – But who do you say that I am?

Mark 11.25: εἰ τι ἔχετε κατὰ τινος – If you have something against someone.

Distinguishing between τις and τίς

There are three ways of distinguishing between τις (someone) and τίς (who?).

- The context normally makes it very clear (and indeed there will be a question mark if τίς is meant). You just need to start with an open mind.
- τις (someone) cannot be the first word in a sentence, while τίς (who) frequently is.
- You can learn some relatively simple rules about the accents.

Accents

The full rules of accentuation are complicated. But the following test is simple and 99 per cent accurate:

Accent on the first syllable → τίς (who?, what?)

No accent or an accent on the second syllable → τις (someone)

The third declension –

Part 2

In Chapter 12 we learnt the 3rd declension. In this chapter we look at several groups of words that exhibit some variations from the standard pattern.

13.1 NOUNS WITH VOWEL STEMS

There are quite a number of nouns with -ι stems. These are all feminine and frequently describe abstract nouns (e.g. γνώσις – knowledge, πίστις – faith). They have a nominative in -ις and a genitive in -εως.

Similarly, there are several nouns with -ευ stems. These are masculine, and frequently describe ‘occupations’ (e.g. βασιλεὺς – king, ἱερεὺς – priest). They have a nominative in -εὺς and a genitive in -εως.

e.g. ‘city’ or ‘town’ is πολίς, πολεως, ἡ and ‘king’ is βασιλεὺς, βασιλεως, ὁ

Singular	Plural
πολίς	πολεῖς
πολιν	πολεῖς
πολεως	πολεων
πολεῖ	πολεσιν

Singular	Plural
βασιλεὺς	βασιλεῖς
βασιλεα	βασιλεῖς
βασιλεως	βασιλεων
βασιλεῖ	βασιλευσιν

Notes

- These two patterns are very similar – in particular having the distinctive gen. singular in -εως and nom. and acc. plurals in -εῖς. The main difference between them is in the acc. singular (-ιν or -εα).
- If you think of -εως as -εος then the -ος ending is what you would expect in the 3rd declension.
- There is another pattern of words that have stems ending in -υ. However, there is only one word in this family that is at all common, ἰχθυς (fish), and even that occurs only 20 times in the New Testament. Its endings are the same as ἄστηρ except for the accusative singular: ἰχθὺς, ἰχθύν, ἰχθυος, ἰχθυι; ἰχθυες, ἰχθυας, ἰχθυων, ἰχθυσιν.

Hint

Don't worry too much about these nouns. They are not particularly common, and most of their forms are close enough to either the 1st and 2nd or the 3rd declension endings in the appropriate case and number for you to be able normally to guess them correctly!

13.2 CONTRACTING NOUNS AND ADJECTIVES

There is a family of 3rd declension adjectives and neuter nouns that have stems ending in -ε. Unsurprisingly, this weak ε combines with the endings, giving rise to slightly altered forms. However, these are not new endings, but the normal 3rd declension endings hidden by rather predictable contractions.

13.2.1 Nouns

These are all neuter. Remember their stem ends in -ε even though this is normally not displayed. E.g. 'nation' is ἔθνος, ἔθνους, το (with a stem ἔθνε).

		Form	Process of getting there
Singular	Nom.	ἔθνος	Neuter, therefore as nominative ἔθνε + ος ε + ο → ου ἔθνε + ι
	Acc.	ἔθνος
	Gen.	ἔθνους
	Dat.	ἔθνει
Plural	Nom.	ἔθνη	Neuter, therefore as nominative ἔθνε + α ε + α → η ἔθνε + ων ε + ω → ω ἔθνε + σιν
	Acc.	ἔθνη
	Gen.	ἔθνων
	Dat.	ἔθνεσιν

13.2.2 Adjectives

These decline very similarly to ἔθνος. E.g. true is ἀληθης, ἀληθης, ἀληθους.

		Masculine / Feminine		Neuter
Sing.	Nom.	ἀληθης		ἀληθης
	Acc.	ἀληθη	ε + α → η	ἀληθης
	Gen.	ἀληθους	ε + ο → ου	ἀληθους	ε + ο → ου

Pl.	Nom.	ἀληθεις	ε + ε → ει	ἀληθη	ε + α → η

	Gen.	ἀληθων	ε + ω → ω	ἀληθων	ε + ω → ω
	Dat.	ἀληθεσιν		ἀληθεσιν

Note: It is only the acc. plural masculine/feminine which is slightly peculiar in copying the nom., when you might expect some contraction of -εας.

9. The king's father spoke to the high priest.

10. Because of his mercy God rescues us.
11. Once we lived under judgement.
12. Faith found its true goal.

13.3 πας (ALL)

πάς defines a hybrid declension called the 3-1-3, because in the masculine and neuter it follows the 3rd declension but in the feminine the 1st declension. Think of πάς as a 3rd declension word that wants to have distinct feminine endings. But in the 3rd declension there are no separate feminine endings, so it borrows the only ones available – those of the 1st declension.

To decline a word such as πάς, you need to know four pieces of information:

1. the masculine nominative singular
2. the neuter nominative singular
3. the genitive (or stem) for the masculine and neuter
4. the feminine nominative singular

Points 1–3 are the same as you need to know for any 3rd declension adjective (since there is no rule for deducing the nominative singulars from the stem).

Point 4 is sufficient to generate the whole of the feminine, since in the 1st and 2nd declensions the endings follow on directly from the nominative.

Thus, for πάς, once we know the nominative singulars: πάς, πασα, παν, and the 3rd declension stem: παντ-, we can deduce the rest of the declension.

		Masculine 3 rd decl.	Feminine 1 st decl. ¹	Neuter 3 rd decl.
Sing.	Nom.	πάς	πασα	παν
	Acc.	παντα	πασαν	παν
	Gen.	παντος	πασης	παντος
	Dat.	παντι	παση	παντι
Pl.	Nom.	παντες	πασαι	παντα
	Acc.	παντας	πασας	παντα
	Gen.	παντων	πασων	παντων
	Dat.	πασιν	πασαις	πασιν

πάς is the only common adjective that follows this pattern. However, the pattern is important because half of the participles in Greek also follow it. Up to now we have only used participles in the nom. masculine (Chapter 7, section 7.4), but in the next chapter we shall need to use them in any case, gender or number.²

¹ Because the final letter of the stem of πασα is a σ, it follows the pattern of δοξα.

Using πας

πας means ‘all’, but in English this is normally best translated as ‘every’ or ‘whole’ when in the singular. It is used in the same manner as other adjectives:

- On its own, in which case its gender reveals what is implied: masculine = person/man; feminine = woman; neuter = thing.
e.g. John 1.3: παντα δι’ αὐτου ἐγενετο. – All things came to be through him.
Mark 6.50: παντες γαρ αὐτον ειδον. – For everyone saw him.
- It can occur with a noun without the article.
e.g. Matt. 7.17: παν δενδρον ἀγαθον καρπους καλους ποιει.
– Every good tree produces good fruit.
- It can occur with a noun with the article, in which case it normally stands in the predicative positive (i.e. before the ‘the’).
e.g. Mark 14.53: συνερχονται παντες οἱ ἀρχιερεις.
– All the chief priests gather.
- It can occur with the article and participle.
e.g. 1 John 5.1 πας ὁ πιστευων ὅτι Ἰησους ἐστιν ὁ Χριστος.
– Everyone who believes that the Messiah is Jesus.

² Notice that the sing. participles (λυνων, λυσας) do not precisely match πας, but that the plural forms (λυνοντες, λυσαντες) do share the masculine nom. plural ending -ες. This is to be expected: in the 3rd declension the nom. sing. (alone of the forms) is not fixed.

13.4 εἰς – ONE

The word ‘one’ declines in a manner similar to πας, in as much as its masculine and neuter follow the 3rd declension, and its feminine (using a completely different stem) the 1st declension. Obviously there is no plural of ‘one’.

	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Nom.	εἷς	μία	έν
Acc.	ένα	μιαν	έν
Gen.	ένος	μιας	ένος
Dat.	ένι	μια	ένι

Hint

Watch the breathings – έν (one) and έν (in); εἷς (one) and εἰς (into).

οὐδεις and μηδεις

Both οὐδεις and μηδεις mean ‘no one, nothing’. οὐδεις is used when οὐ would be used (i.e. clauses in the Indicative), and μηδεις is used when μη would be used (i.e. in other moods). They are declined as εἷς plus a prefix:

	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Nom.	οὐδεις	οὐδεμια	οὐδεν
Acc.	οὐδενα	οὐδεμιαν	οὐδεν
Gen.	οὐδενος	οὐδεμιας	οὐδενος

Acc.	μηδενα	μηδεμιαν	μηδεν
Gen.	μηδενος	μηδεμιας	μηδενος
Dat.	μηδενι	μηδεμια	μηδενι

Note: In Greek, a sentence is either negative or not. If it is negative (i.e. it contains οὐ or μη), then other suitable forms in the sentence will also be in the negative. That is, in Greek two negatives make a negative, not as in English where two negatives make a positive (e.g. οὐ βλέπω οὐδεν means ‘I did not see anything’ not ‘I did not see nothing’, which in English implies that you did see something!).

Examples

Mark 13.32: περι δε της ημερας εκείνης ἢ της ώρας οὐδεις οἶδεν [he knows] οὐδε οἱ ἄγγελοι ἐν οὐρανῷ οὐδε ὁ υἱος, εἰ μὴ ὁ πατήρ.

– But about that day or hour no one knows, neither the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father.

Mark 14.60: Οὐκ ἀποκρινη οὐδεν;

– Do you reply nothing? (Don't you have any answer?)

- *9. And one of the scribes, having approached, said to him, 'Rabbi, I will follow you.'
- *10. And he will be king over⁴ the house of Jacob forever⁵, and of his kingdom there will not be an end.

³ Note the Present tense here. Greek sometimes uses a Present tense when relating a story in the past. This is called a 'historic present' and can make the account more vivid. It is very common in the gospels.

⁴ For 'over' use ἐπὶ + acc.

⁵ For 'forever' use 'into the ages' (This is a common Jewish way of expressing 'forever', found here in Luke 1.33. The singular 'into the age' is as common.)

- *11. In this world you have suffering, but you have peace in me.
 12. Some go out into resurrection of life, but others to a resurrection of judgement.

Section B

1. και ἐρχεται εἰς τῶν ἀρχισυναγωγῶν⁶, ὀνοματι Ἰαῖρος, και ἰδὼν αὐτὸν πιπτει προς τοὺς ποδας αὐτοῦ.
2. ὁ νοὺς ἐν τῷ σκοτεῖ ἐργάζεται πονηρὰ τῇ συνειδησεὶ τῇ κακῇ.
3. το δε πληθος ἐπὶ τῷ ὀρει αἰτησεὶ τὴν παρακλῆσιν ἀπο τοῦ κυρίου.

Matthew 28.18-20 καὶ προσελθὼν ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἐλάλησεν αὐτοῖς λέγων, Ἐδόθη [has been given] μοι πᾶσα ἐξουσία ἐν οὐρανῷ καὶ ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς.¹⁹ πορευθέντες [going] οὖν μαθητεύσατε [μαθητεῦω = μαθητῆς ποιῶ] πάντα τὰ ἔθνη, βαπτίζοντες αὐτοὺς εἰς τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ πατρὸς καὶ τοῦ υἱοῦ καὶ τοῦ ἁγίου πνεύματος,²⁰ διδάσκοντες αὐτοὺς τηρεῖν πάντα ὅσα ἐνετειλάμην [ἐντελλομαι = I command] ὑμῖν· καὶ ἰδοὺ ἐγὼ μεθ' ὑμῶν εἰμι πάσας τὰς ἡμέρας ἕως τῆς συντελείας [completion] τοῦ αἰῶνος.

⁶ ἀρχι-συναγωγος = ἀρχων τῆς συναγωγῆς (compare ἀρχ-ιερεὺς).

Participles

Example 1

In Chapter 7, section 7.4 we learnt the basics of participles:

Luke 18.22: ἀκουσας δε ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν αὐτῷ· Ἐτι ἓν σοι λειπει·
 – having heard Jesus said to him, ‘One thing still remains for you . . .’
 – when Jesus heard (this) he said to him, ‘You still lack one thing . . .’

ἀκουσας is a participle from ἀκουω. It agrees with ὁ Ἰησοῦς (nom. masc. sing.), which tells us that it is Jesus who is doing the hearing. It is in the Aorist to convey the ‘sequence’ meaning (present would be ‘simultaneous’), i.e the action in the participle is happening before that in the main verb: first Jesus hears, then he speaks.

Example 2

Luke 7.9: ἀκουσας δε ταυτα ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἐθαυμασεν αὐτον.
 – when he heard these things Jesus was amazed at him.

Once again, ἀκουσας is a participle, but this time it has its own object ταυτα – these things.

Thus the participle has some of the features of a verb, and some of an adjective (grammarians call it a ‘verbal adjective’).

Like adjectives:

Like verbs:

Up to now, we have only dealt with participles that are in the nominative – qualifying the subject. However, participles can qualify any noun.

KEY GRAMMAR

Participles must agree with the noun they qualify in gender, case and number

KEY GRAMMAR

Participles have a tense (Present or Aorist) and may have an object

Example 3

Rev. 7.2: και ειδον ἄλλον ἄγγελον ἀναβαινοντα ἀπο ἀνατολης ἡλίου ἔχοντα σφραγιδα θεου ... – and I saw another angel ascending from the rising of the sun having a seal from God . . .

The basic sentence here is clear:

ειδον is the main verb, containing in it the subject – ‘I saw’.

ἄγγελον is the object – an angel.

ἄλλον is an adjective (‘other’) in the acc. masc. sing. agreeing with ἄγγελον, thus it is further describing (qualifying) ἄγγελον – not ‘an angel’, but ‘an other angel’.

– ‘I saw another angel’, but then the sentence is enriched by two participles:

ἀναβαινοντα is a participle – it behaves partly as an adjective and partly as a verb.

As an adjective, it is similar to ἄλλον. It is also in the acc. masc. sing. because it is further describing ἄγγελον.

As a verb, it is in the Present tense – the ascending is going on at the same time as the seeing – and it leads into ἀπο ἀνατολης ἡλίου – from the rising sun.

ἔχοντα is also a participle. Again it is masc. acc. sing. agreeing with ἄγγελον.

It is in the Present tense – having – and has its own object – σφραγιδα – a seal.

Thus we have two participles in the accusative, further describing the object of the main verb. He did not just see an angel, but an angel ascending . . . and having . . .

Example 4

Mark 1.16: παραγων παρα την θαλασσαν . . . ειδεν Σιμωνα και Ἀνδρεαν . . . ἀμφιβαλλοντας ἐν τη θαλασση.
– While he was passing alongside the sea, he saw Simon and Andrew casting (nets) in the sea.

The basic sentence is again clear:

ειδεν Σιμωνα και Ἀνδρεαν – he saw Simon and Andrew

There are two participles παραγων and ἀμφιβαλλοντας but these agree with different words in the sentence.

παραγων is nominative singular, so it is agreeing with the subject ‘he’. The person seeing is the same person as the one going alongside the sea.

ἀμφιβαλλοντας is accusative plural, so it is agreeing with the object ‘Simon and Andrew’. Simon and Andrew are the ones casting in the sea.

It is only by identifying the case (and gender and number) of the participle that we can identify which noun in the sentence it is qualifying. Otherwise we might wrongly translate Mark 1.16 as ‘he saw Simon and Andrew passing along the sea casting in the sea’, or ‘while he was casting in the sea he saw Simon and Andrew passing alongside the sea’ or ‘while he was passing along the sea casting in the sea he saw Simon and Andrew’.

14.1 FORMATION

We have already met the Present and Aorist participles of the normal (Active) verbs like λυω and the deponent (Middle) verbs like ρυομαι.

Thus we have four basic participles:

	Active	Deponent (Middle)
Present	λυ-ων (untying)	ρυ-ομενος (rescuing)
1 st Aorist	λυ-σας (having untied)	ρυ-σαμενος (having rescued)

Notes

- In the Aorist there is no augment (there are never augments in the other moods).
- In the Aorist there is a σ and an α sound.
- The 2nd Aorist participle uses the Present participle endings (e.g. βλῶν), as does the (Present) participle of εἶμι (ὢν – ‘being’).

What we now need to do is to learn how to decline each of these basic participles, so that we can form, for example, the accusative neuter singular of the Present participle of λυω. Before we do that you should revise the formation of the participles we have already covered (pages 83–7 and 126).

PRACTICE 14.1 – REVISION

Put the verb in the participle form indicated (all nom. masc.)

- | | |
|------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1. γράφω, Aorist singular | 4. φιλέω, Aorist plural |
| 2. ποιέω, Present plural | 5. λογιζομαι, Aorist singular |
| 3. έρχομαι, Present singular | 6. προσευχομαι, Present plural |

14.2 DECLENSION

The participles follow two different declensions.

Note: πας is from the 3rd declension, so its nominative is ‘irregular’, not following the pattern of stem plus endings. Thus both λυων and λυσας can decline like πας.

KEY GRAMMAR

Participles ending in -ος decline like ἀγαθος
Participles ending otherwise decline like πας

14.2.1 ῥυομενος and ῥυσαμενος

These decline exactly as ἀγαθος does. Thus:

ῥυομενους – Accusative masculine plural of the Present participle of ῥυομαι ἄρξαμεναις – Dative feminine plural of the Aorist participle of ἄρχομαι ἐρχομενα – Nom./acc. neuter plural of the Present participle of ἐρχομαι

14.2.2 λυων and λυσας

These follow the 3-1-3 pattern like πας (Chapter 13, section 13.3). Therefore, to decline them, we need their three nominative singulars, and the 3rd declension stem:

λυων	nom. sing. – λυων, λυουσα, λυον	3rd decl. stem – λυοντ-
λυσας	nom. sing. – λυσας, λυσασα, λυσαν	3rd decl. stem – λυσαντ-

	Present (Active) participle – λυων			Aorist (Active) participle – λυσας
	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter	Masculine	Feminine	Neuter
Sing.
Nom.	λυων	λυουσα	λυον	λυσας	λυσασα	λυσαν
Acc.	λυοντα	λυουσαν	λυον	λυσαντα	λυσασαν	λυσαν
Gen.	λυοντος	λυουσης	λυοντος	λυσαντος	λυσασης	λυσαντος
Dat.	λυοντι	λυουση	λυοντι	λυσαντι	λυσαση	λυσαντι
Pl.
Nom.	λυοντες	λυουσαι	λυοντα	λυσαντες	λυσασαι	λυσαντα
Acc.	λυοντας	λυουσας	λυοντα	λυσαντας	λυσασας	λυσαντα
Gen.	λυοντων	λυουσων	λυοντων	λυσαντων	λυσασων	λυσαντων
Dat. ¹	λυουσιν	λυουσαις	λυουσιν	λυσασιν	λυσασαις	λυσασιν

Thus:

λυσαν – Nom./acc. neuter singular of the Aorist participle of λυω γραφοντι – Dative masc./neuter singular of the Present participle of γραφω ἐλθοντες – Nom. masculine plural of the (2nd) Aorist participle of ἐρχομαι οὖσιν – Dative masc./neuter plural of the Present participle of εἶμι.

Hint

There are two steps in forming a participle. The chart opposite may help you understand the sequence:

Participle → basic forms (essentially a verbal matter – about tense)

→ particular instance of that form (essentially an adjectival matter – about gender, case and number).

When faced with a Greek participle, think about this sequence:

1. Which of the basic forms is it from?
2. Which particular instance of that form is it?

PRACTICE 14.2

Parse

- | | | |
|---------------|------------|---------------|
| 1. βαλλοντες | 4. πεμψαν | 7. ἐλπίζουσιν |
| 2. φωνησας | 5. ὀρξαντι | 8. ἐγειραντας |
| 3. ἐρχομεναις | 6. ἰδοντων | 9. δεχομενοι |

Put in the form indicated

- | | |
|------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 10. ἀνοιγω, Present Fem. Acc. Pl. | 13. ἄπτομαι, Present Masc. Dat. Sing. |

¹ Remember, the σιν ending affects the final consonants of the stem (Chapter 12, section 12.2.1).

14.3 MEANING

We have already learnt the meaning of the participles (Chapter 7, section 7.4.2).

Wooden translations	Present participle	untying
	Aorist participle	having untied

Idea The heart of understanding participles is that the participle is dependent on a main verb (Indicative, or possibly Imperative) in the sentence. It expresses meaning in relation to that main verb, not absolutely.²

Present participle	Simultaneous process – the action in the participle is a process going on at the same time as the action in the main verb.
Aorist participle	Sequence – the action in the participle occurred before the action in the main verb. ³

We just need to become familiar with using these meanings when the participle is not in the nominative. In the sentences marked 1 below, the participle is in the nominative (qualifying the subject). In those marked 2, the participle is in the accusative (qualifying the object), producing a very different meaning. In these examples, the word order will also help, but you can't always rely on that.

KEY GRAMMAR
Present participle	Simultaneous
Aorist participle	Sequence

1. λεγων βλέπει το δένδρον. – While he was talking, he saw the tree.
2. βλέπει το δένδρον λεγων. – He saw the talking tree.
1. ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἰσελθὼν ἔθεραπευσεν τὴν γυναῖκα. – When he came in, Jesus healed the woman (lit: Jesus having come in healed the woman).
2. ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἔθεραπευσεν τὴν εἰσελθούσαν γυναῖκα. – Jesus healed the woman who had come in (lit: Jesus healed the having-come-in woman).

Of course, the participle could qualify something other than an object:

E.g. ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν τῇ εἰσελθούσῃ γυναίκῃ. – Jesus spoke to the women who had come in (lit: Jesus spoke to the having-come-in woman).

² E.g. Matt. 8:7: ἐγὼ ἔλθω θεραπεύσω αὐτόν. The participle 'having come' gives time (sequence) in relation to the main verb – first he will come, then he will heal. However, the absolute time is revealed by the main verb. Here the main verb is future, therefore the whole action (including the 'coming') is happening in the future, but the 'coming' occurs before the healing. Thus we might translate it, 'I will come and heal'.

³ Occasionally the Aorist participle does not imply sequence, but rather is used as a default, or undefined participle – used more to avoid implying process (Present participle) than to imply sequence.

Hint

Successive Aorist participles are often best translated by a number of main verbs in English e.g. Mark 5.27 – ἀκουσασα περι του Ἰησου, ἐλθουσα ἐν τῷ ὄχλῳ ὀπισθεν ἤψατο του ἱματιου αὐτου. – When she heard about Jesus, she came up behind in the crowd and touched his cloak.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

Translate

1. ἐλθων ἐθεραπευσεν αὐτον.
2. ἀναβαινων εἶδεν το πνευμα.
3. φυγοντες ἦλθον εἰς ἱερον.
4. ἐβαπτιζεν τους πονηρους μετανοησαντας.
5. εἶπομεν τοις ἐρχομενοις τεκνοις.
6. ἐβλεψατε τους γραμματεις εἰσελθοντας εἰς το ἱερον;
7. ζητω την μελλουσαν βασιλειαν.
8. ὑπαγαγουσα εἶδεν τον πατερα αὐτης λαλουντα.
9. Jesus greeted the approaching crowd.
10. When she saw she believed.
11. The Pharisee taught the Jews who were listening.
12. When the king heard this he sent his soldiers to find the child.

14.4 OTHER USES OF PARTICIPLES

14.4.1 As nouns⁴

This was discussed in Chapter 7, section 7.5.

- e.g. John 15.23: ὁ ἐμε μισῶν και τον πατερα μου μισει.
 – The one who hates me (or whoever hates me) also hates my father.⁵

Now we can simply use this construction with a participle in other cases.

- e.g. John 12.45: και ὁ θεωρων ἐμε θεωρει τον πεμψαντα με.
 – The one who sees me is seeing the one who sent me.

⁴ Grammatically this is called an adjectival participle, because in being used to form a noun, the participle is behaving as the adjectives do.

Acts 10.44: ἐπεπεσεν το πνευμα το ἅγιον ἐπι παντας τους ἀκουοντας τον λογον. – The holy spirit fell on all those who were listening to the word.

14.4.2 Causal, concessive and instrumental uses

Participles can be used to imply a causal, concessive or instrumental sense, although these are relatively rare and still flow out of the ‘wooden translations’.

Causal: Matt. 1.19: Ἰωσηφ δε ὁ ἄνηρ αὐτης, δικαιος ὦν . . .
But Joseph her husband, because he was (lit: being) righteous . . .

Concessive: Rom. 1.21: γινοντες τον θεον οὐχ ὡς θεον ἐδοξασαν.
Although they knew (lit: knowing) God, they did not glorify him as God.

Instrumental: 1 Tim. 4.16: τουτο γαρ ποιων και σεαυτον σωσεις και τους ἀκουοντας σου. – For by doing this (lit: doing this) you will save both yourself and your hearers.

14.4.3 With Imperatives and Infinitives

Just as Greek will tend to avoid having one main verb immediately followed by a second, replacing one by a participle (‘having entered he spoke’, rather than ‘he entered and he spoke’), Greek also often avoids a sequence of two Imperatives or Infinitives, again replacing the first with a participle.

E.g. οὐκ εἰμι ἱκανος κυψας λυσαι τον ἱμαντα των ὑποδηματων αὐτου.
(Mark 1.7) – I am not worthy to stoop down and untie the strap of his sandals (lit: having stooped down, to untie).

 4. ἐλεγον ἀλληλοις περι των γενομενων.
 5. I saw the ones carrying the sick man.
 6. Depart and preach the gospel.

Mark 1.7-10 καὶ ἐκήρυσεν λέγων, Ἔρχεται ὁ ἰσχυρότερός [more powerful than] μου ὀπίσω μου, οὗ οὐκ εἰμὶ ἰκανός [worthy] κύψας [κυπτω = bend down] λῦσαι τὸν ἱμάντα [strap] τῶν ὑποδημάτων [sandals] αὐτοῦ. ⁸ ἐγὼ ἐβάπτισα ὑμᾶς ὕδατι, αὐτὸς δὲ βαπτίσει ὑμᾶς ἐν πνεύματι ἁγίῳ. ⁹ Καὶ ἐγένετο ἐν ἐκείναις ταῖς ἡμέραις ἦλθεν Ἰησοῦς ἀπὸ Ναζαρέτ [Nazareth] τῆς Γαλιλαίας καὶ ἐβαπτίσθη [he was baptized] εἰς τὸν Ἰορδάνην [Jordan] ὑπὸ Ἰωάννου. ¹⁰ καὶ εὐθὺς ἀναβαίνων ἐκ τοῦ ὕδατος εἶδεν σχιζομένους [being split] τοὺς οὐρανοὺς καὶ τὸ πνεῦμα ὡς περιστερὰν [dove] καταβαῖνον εἰς αὐτόν.

⁸ For 'with' here use ἀπό (as in 1 Peter 4.17).

The Passive and Voices

Rom. 11.26: και οὕτως πᾶς Ἰσραὴλ σωθησεται.

– and thus all Israel will be saved.

Luke 2.4: ἀνέβη δε και Ἰωσηφ ἀπο της Γαλιλαιας ... εἰς πολιν Δαυιδ ἣτις καλεῖται Βηθλεεμ. – Joseph also went up from Galilee to
(the) city of David which is called Bethlehem.

Matt. 3.10: παν οὖν δενδρον μη ποιουν καρπον καλον ἐκκοπτεται και εἰς πυρ βαλλεται. – Therefore every tree not producing good fruit is cut down and is thrown into a fire.

Rom. 5.1: δικαιωθεντες οὖν ἐκ πιστεως εἰρηνην ἔχομεν προς τον θεον ... – Therefore having been justified through faith we have peace towards God ...

In these sentences the verbs underlined are in the Passive (as opposed to the Active).

15.1 THE IDEA OF THE PASSIVE

Until now, all our sentences have been active in meaning – that is, the subject of the sentence is the one acting. However, in both English and Greek you can have passive sentences, in which the subject of the sentence is acted upon.

Active: Jesus heals the leper.

Passive: The leper is healed.

A passive sentence does not indicate who did the action. However, this can be achieved by specifying an agent – ‘the leper is healed by Jesus’. Greek expresses the agent by using the preposition ὑπο + gen (= ‘by’). (See Chapter 4, section 4.3 for the distinction between animate agents and inanimate instruments.)

Mark 1.9: ἐβαπτισθη εἰς τον Ἰορδανην ὑπο Ἰωαννου.

– He was baptised in the Jordan by John.

15.2 VOICES

There are three Voices in Greek – Active, Middle and Passive. As we learnt in Chapter 8, section 8.1.4, the deponent verbs (like ῥυομαι) use the Middle Voice to give an Active meaning. The Middle Voice will be discussed further later. For now, it is important to see that in both the Passive and Middle there is the whole range of moods and tenses that there is in the Active.

15.3 DISTINGUISHING THE TENSES

When we first met the tenses in Chapter 6 we saw that they could be distinguished by a pattern of ε prefixes and σ suffixes. The same pattern held when we met the Middle (deponent) verses in Chapter 8. In the Passive we can also be greatly helped by noticing a similar, though slightly different, pattern.

	Indicative			Other Moods
	Active	Middle	Passive	Active	Middle	Passive
Present	λυ	ρϋ	λυ	λυ	ρϋ	λυ
Future	λυ σ	ρϋ σ	λυ θησ
Imperfect	ἐ λυ	ἐ ρϋ	ἐ λυ
Aorist	ἐ λυ σ	ἐ ρϋ σ	ἐ λυ θ	λυ σ	ρϋ σ	λυ θ

Notes

- The pattern in the Active and in the Middle is the same.
- ῥυομαι is used as the exemplar in the Middle rather than λυω because the Middle is normally used only for the deponent verbs.
- In the Passive, the pattern of ἐ augments is the same as in the Active – the Imperfect and Aorist Indicative has an augment.

- The Aorist Passive is marked out by a θ suffix.
- The Future Passive is marked out by a $\theta\eta\sigma$ suffix.
- The Future Indicative is easily confused with the Aorist in the other moods in the Active and Middle (both have σ suffixes but no augment).

PRACTICE 15.3

Give the possible tenses and voices of the following, and say whether they are indicative or other moods.

- | | | | |
|--------------|--------------|------------------|-------------|
| 1. ἐπιστευθη | 3. ἐλαμβάνεν | 5. ἀπολυθησονται | 7. ποιηθητε |
| 2. πεμψατε | 4. ἀρξεται | 6. λογισασθαι | 8. ἐμισεσαν |

15.4 THE MEANING OF THE PASSIVE

There is nothing unusual to learn about the meaning of the Passive. However, it can be helpful to see the basic English equivalents (compare Chapter 6, section 6.3 for the Active).

Indicative	Present	I am being untied, you are being untied, . . .
	Future	I will be untied, you will be untied, . . .
	Imperfect	I was being untied, you were being untied, . . .
	Aorist	I was untied, you were untied, . . .
Imperative	Present – process	Be untied! (continuously/repeatedly)
	Aorist – undefined	Be untied!
Infinitive	Present – process	To be untied (continuously/repeatedly)
	Aorist – undefined	To be untied
Participle	Present	Being untied (simultaneous)
	Aorist	Having been untied (sequence)

15.5 THE PASSIVE ENDINGS

Indicative Passive of λυω

	Present	Future	Imperfect	Aorist
I	λυομαι	λυθησομαι	ἐλυομην	ἐλυθην
You (sing.)	λυη	λυθηση	ἐλυσου	ἐλυθης
He, she, it	λυεται	λυθησεται	ἐλυετο	ἐλυθη
We	λυομεθα	λυθησομεθα	ἐλυομεθα	ἐλυθημεν
You (pl.)	λυεσθε	λυθησεσθε	ἐλυεσθε	ἐλυθητε
They	λυνονται	λυθησονται	ἐλυνοντο	ἐλυθησαν

Other moods Passive of λυω

		Present	Aorist
Imperative	2 nd Sing.	λυσου	λυθητι
	2 nd Pl.	λυεσθε	λυθητε
Infinitive		λυεσθαι	λυθηναι
Participle		λυομενος	λυθεις ¹

15.5.1 The Passive in the Present and Imperfect

If you look at the Present and Imperfect in the charts above, you will see that the endings are exactly the same as in the Present and Imperfect (Middle) of the deponent verbs. For example, ῥυεται – 3rd Singular Present Indicative Middle of ῥυομαι

λυεται – 3rd Singular Present Indicative Passive of λυω

¹ λυθεις has a feminine nominative λυθαισα, a neuter nominative λυθεν, and a masculine and neuter stem λυθεντ-. It declines like λυων and λυσας (page 157). Thus, its declension in full is:

		Masc.	Fem.	Neuter
Singular	Nom.	λυθεις	λυθαισα	λυθεν
	Acc.	λυθεντα	λυθαισαν	λυθεν
	Gen.	λυθεντος	λυθαισης	λυθεντος
	Dat.	λυθεντι	λυθαιση	λυθεντι
Plural	Nom.	λυθεντες	λυθισαι	λυθεντα
	Acc.	λυθεντας	λυθισας	λυθεντα
	Gen.	λυθεντων	λυθισων	λυθεντων
	Dat.	λυθειςιν	λυθισαις	λυθειςιν

This obviously raises a question of how you tell the Middle and the Passive apart – we will deal with this later. For now, however, this is good news, since it means that there are no more endings to learn.

15.5.2 The Passive in the Future and the Aorist

If you look at the Future Passive in the chart on page 260, you will see that it has the same endings as the Future Middle (and hence the same as the Present Middle, and Present Passive). The distinguishing feature is the $\theta\eta\sigma$ suffix.

Looking at the Aorist, it is worth noting the surprising fact that its endings are far more similar to Active endings (in particular the $-\eta\mu\epsilon\nu$ and $-\eta\tau\epsilon$ and the participle not ending in $-\mu\epsilon\nu\varsigma$) than the other Passive/Middle endings.

Both the Future and the Aorist Passive involve the addition of a θ to the end of the stem. Unsurprisingly, this can cause complications, just as adding a σ suffix can do (Chapter 6, section 6.6). The combinations that occur are given in the table on the right.

KEY GRAMMAR
π, β, ϕ	+	θ	→	$\phi\theta$
$\tau, \delta, \theta, \nu$	+	θ	→	$\sigma\theta$

Plus, as you would expect, in $-\epsilon\omega$ verbs the ϵ is lengthened into an η before the θ (just as it is before the σ in the Future/Aorist Active/ Middle).

Examples

$\acute{\alpha}\chi\theta\eta\sigma\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$ – Future Passive Indicative of $\acute{\alpha}\gamma\omega$ – I will be led

$\acute{\eta}\chi\theta\eta\nu$ – Aorist Passive Indicative of $\acute{\alpha}\gamma\omega$ – I was led

$\lambda\alpha\lambda\eta\theta\epsilon\iota\varsigma$ – Aorist Passive participle of $\lambda\alpha\lambda\epsilon\omega$ – Having been spoken

$\beta\alpha\pi\tau\iota\sigma\theta\eta\nu\alpha\iota$ – Aorist Passive Infinitive of $\beta\alpha\pi\tau\iota\varsigma\omega$ – To be baptised

PRACTICE 15.5.1 AND 15.5.2

Parse

- | | | |
|--|--|---|
| 1. $\acute{\eta}\nu\omicron\iota\gamma\epsilon\tau\omicron$ | 3. $\beta\alpha\pi\tau\iota\sigma\theta\epsilon\iota\varsigma$ | 5. $\acute{\epsilon}\rho\chi\omicron\nu\tau\alpha\iota$ |
| 2. $\theta\epsilon\rho\alpha\pi\epsilon\upsilon\theta\eta\sigma\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$ | 4. $\delta\iota\omega\kappa\omicron\nu\tau\alpha\iota$ | 6. $\acute{\epsilon}\pi\omicron\iota\eta\theta\eta$ |

15.5.3 Irregular Future and Aorist Passives

All verbs use the standard endings for the Future and Aorist Passive, but there are a number of verbs that have irregular stems. However, at least they use the same stem for both the Future and the Aorist. In the table below the Aorist Passive Indicative is quoted, but the Future Passive can be reliably formed from this.² These five only have slight changes in the stem:

	Present	Aorist Passive
I hear	ἀκουω	ἤκουσθην
I throw	βαλλω	έβληθην
I lift	ἐγειρω	ἤγερθην
I call	καλεω	ἐκλήθην
I save	σωζω	έσωθην

This one is quite difficult to recognise:

I take	λαμβάνω	έλημφθην
--------	---------	----------

These five form a very awkward group, since they don't display the θ, which you normally rely on to indicate that the verb is Aorist or Future Passive.³

I send	ἀποστελλω	άπεσταλην
I write	γραφω	έγραφην
I sow	σπειρω	έσπαρην
I turn ⁴	στρεφω	έστραφην
I shine ⁵	φαινω	έφανην

There are three whose Aorist Passive stems are formed from different verbs:

I say	λεγω	έρρεθην (or έρρηθην)
I see	όρω	ώφθην
I carry	φερω	ήνεχθην

PRACTICE 15.5.3

Parse

- | | | |
|-------------|---------------|---------------|
| 1. έσωθημεν | 3. κληθισεται | 5. έρρεθη |
| 2. έγραφη | 4. βληθεις | 6. έλημφθησαν |

² For example, βαλλω has the irregular Aorist Passive έβληθην. Its Future Passive is therefore βληθησομαι (remove augment, replace θ suffix with θησ and use Future Passive endings).

³ These also have -ηθι in the 2nd singular Aorist Passive Imperative, rather than -ητι.

⁴ Found most commonly in the compounds έπιστρεφω – I turn (back) and ύποστρεφω – I return.

⁵ φαινω frequently occurs in the Passive, where it means 'I appear'.

15.6 UNDERSTANDING THE MIDDLE

The Middle Voice often ends up as a weak point for students – they understand the Active and the Passive (because they occur in English) but are then confused by what the Middle can mean. Soon we will learn a special meaning for the Middle, but this is very unusual. Normally, the Middle is used simply because the verb is a deponent verb, and deponent verbs use the Middle Voice when they want the Active meaning.

The following chart may help:

		Verb is
		Normal	Deponent
Meaning wanted	Active	Use Active	Use Middle
	Passive	Use Passive	Use Passive

This chart illustrates that grammatically deponent verbs can be put into the Passive – when they want the Active meaning they use the Middle forms, when they want the Passive meaning they use the Passive forms. However, many deponent verbs are intransitive (i.e. they cannot have an object, for example ‘I go’) and so cannot occur in the Passive ('it was goed?'). Even those others which can occur in the Passive (ἀρχομαι – I begin) rarely do so. This is useful, because in the Present and Imperfect tenses the Middle and the Passive forms are identical, and so all you can say grammatically about, for example, ἀρχεται is that it is 3rd sing. Present Middle or Passive Indicative. In practice, however, it is far more likely to be Middle (with the Active meaning) than Passive (with the Passive meaning).

⁶ This is a concessive participle (see Chapter 14, section 14.4.2).

⁷ Use a causal participle (see Chapter 14, section 14.4.2).

This can be summarised in the following chart:

		Verb is
		Normal	Deponent
Form on the page is	Active	Active → Active meaning
	Middle or Passive	Passive → Passive meaning (or very unusually the special meaning of the Middle – see below)	Middle → Active meaning (or quite unusually it is actually in the Passive with Passive meaning)

- Both of these charts only work if you know which verbs are deponent!

Hint

It often helps to be clear about why you find something confusing! For many students it is because the Middle seems to be Active in meaning, but very close to the Passive in endings. It is confusingly in the middle!

15.6.1 Special uses of the Middle

In Classical Greek (from which New Testament – Koine – Greek developed) the Middle was used much more widely to express actions that affected the subject (e.g. φέρω – I carry, φερομαι – I carry off for myself = I win). There are remnants of this in Koine Greek.

- A small number of verbs still use the three Voices with different meanings.
 ἐνδύει (Active) – He puts (clothes) on (someone else) ἐνδύεται (Middle) – He puts (clothes) on himself ἐνδύεται (Passive) – It is put on.
- Some writers (particularly the author of Luke and Acts) use the Middle as a stylistic device, imitating Classical Greek, which was thought at the time to be of greater literary quality (this is called 'archaizing').

Example

(φυλασσω in the Active – I guard; in the Middle – I am on my guard)

Luke 2.8: Και ποιμενες ἦσαν ἐν τη χωρᾷ τη αὐτῇ ... φυλασσοντες (Active) φυλακας της νυκτος ἐπι την ποιμνην αὐτων. – And in that region there were shepherds . . . keeping watch over their flock by night.

Luke 12.15: εἶπεν δε προς αὐτους· Ὁρατε και φυλασσεσθε (Middle) ἀπο πασης πλεονεξιας. – And he said to them, ‘Look out and be on your guard against all kinds of greed.’

Acts 1.1: Τον μεν πρωτον λογον ἐποιησαμην περι παντων . . .

– I made a first account concerning all the things . . .

(There is no particular reason for the use of the Middle ποιεομαι here rather than the Active ποιεω, it is really just a matter of style.)

Hint

Be aware of these special uses; but remember, the vast majority of the time when you see a middle, it is a deponent verb conveying an active meaning.

15.7 PASSIVE DEONENTS

The last straw for many students is to hear that there are Passive deponents – words that are Passive in form (not Middle) but Active in meaning! However, there are only four words in this category – and even some of those only when in the Aorist – so they can be thought of simply as an endearing idiosyncrasy. Since Middle and Passive only differ in form in the Future and the Aorist, it is only here that the difference between Middle and Passive deponents matters.

Present		Future		Aorist
I wish	βουλομαι	Passive	βουλησομαι	Passive	ἐβουληθην
I fear	φοβεομαι	Passive	φοβηθησομαι	Passive	ἐφοβηθην
I answer	ἀποκρινομαι	Middle	ἀποκρινουμεαι	Passive	ἀπεκριθην
I go	πορευομαι	Either	πορευσομαι	Passive	ἐπορευθην
		or	πορευθησομαι

2. Ἰδὼν δὲ ὁ Ἰησοῦς ὄχλον περὶ αὐτὸν ἐκέλευσεν τοὺς μαθητὰς ἀπελθεῖν εἰς τὸ περᾶν.
3. ὁ δὲ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν· Μη κωλύετε αὐτόν. οὐδεὶς γὰρ ἐστὶν ὃς ποιήσει δύναμιν ἐπὶ τῷ ὀνόματι μου καὶ λαλήσει κακῶς περὶ ἐμοῦ.
4. ἀπεκριθὴ αὐτῷ ὁ ἀσθενὼν· Κυριε, ὑπηρετήν σου ἔχω βαλεῖν με εἰς τὸ ὕδωρ· ὅτε εἰς αὐτὸ ἐρχομαι ἐγώ, ἄλλος πρὸ ἐμοῦ καταβαίνει.
- *5. βουλομεθα οὖν γινῶναι τίνα ταῦτα ἐστὶν.
6. Αὐτὸς γὰρ ὁ Ἡρώδης ἀποστείλας ἐκρατήσεν τὸν Ἰωάννην καὶ ἐδήσεν αὐτόν ἐν φυλακῇ [prison] διὰ τὴν γυναῖκα τοῦ ἀδελφοῦ αὐτοῦ, ὅτι αὐτὴν ἐγάμησεν.
- *7. καὶ ἐφαγον τὸν καρπὸν πάντες, καὶ ἦρθεν τὸ περισσεύσαν.

⁸ Greek often uses the participle ἀποκριθεὶς alongside another verb of speaking (here λέγει). In many ways the ἀποκριθεὶς is redundant, although it helps to point out that the speaker has changed. The closest translations in English might be 'in reply' or 'answering' ('answering' seems wrong for an Aorist participle – but think of the sequence as being between the question in the previous sentence and the answer in this one).

8. ἡ γὰρ ἀγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ ἐκχέεται ἐν ταῖς καρδίαις ἡμῶν δια πνεύματος ἁγίου τοῦ λαμβανομένου ὑφ' ἡμῶν.
9. When the time of harvest [lit. 'time of the fruits'] came, he sent his slaves to receive the produce [the fruits] which was his.
10. Philip said, 'We were hindered by the devil but after a long time⁹ we finished the sanctuary.
- *11. So he sent one of his disciples, saying to him, 'Go into the city, and a man carrying a cup of water will serve you.'
12. For I make known to you, brothers and sisters, that the good news which was proclaimed by me is not according to a human being.

Section C

Matthew 11.2-5 ὁ δὲ Ἰωάννης ἀκούσας ἐν τῷ δεσμοτηρίῳ [prison] τὰ ἔργα τοῦ Χριστοῦ πέμψας διὰ τῶν μαθητῶν αὐτοῦ ³ εἶπεν αὐτῷ, Σὺ εἶ ὁ ἐρχόμενος ἢ ἕτερον προσδοκῶμεν [we should wait for]; ⁴ καὶ ἀποκριθεὶς ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν αὐτοῖς· Πορευθέντες ἀπαγγείλατε Ἰωάννῃ ὃ ἀκούετε καὶ βλέπετε· ⁵ τυφλοὶ ἀναβλέπουσιν καὶ χωλοὶ [lame] περιπατοῦσιν, λεπροὶ [lepers] καθαρίζονται [καθαρίζω = cleanse] καὶ κωφοὶ [deaf] ἀκούουσιν, καὶ νεκροὶ ἐγείρονται καὶ πτωχοὶ [poor] εὐαγγελίζονται.

⁹ For 'after a long time' use μετὰ πολλὸν χρόνον (as in Matt. 25.19).

The Perfect

Mark 1.2: καθως γεγραπται ἐν τῷ Ἡσαΐα τῷ προφητῇ Ἰδοὺ ἀποστελλῶ ...

– Just as it is written in Isaiah the prophet, ‘Look!, I am sending . . .’

John 19.30: ὁ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν· Τετέλεσται – Jesus said, ‘It is finished’.

1 John 5.10: ὁ μὴ πιστευὼν τῷ θεῷ ψευστὴν πεποιηκεν αὐτόν, ὅτι οὐ πεπιστευκεν εἰς τὴν μαρτυρίαν ἣν μεμαρτυρηκεν ὁ θεὸς περὶ τοῦ υἱοῦ αὐτοῦ.

– The one who does not believe in God has made him a liar, because he has not believed in the testimony which God has testified concerning his son.

The underlined verbs are in the Perfect tense; the first two are Perfect Passive, those in 1 John 5.10 Perfect Active.

The Perfect tense communicates a past action with a present effect. The past action is seen as completed (the action itself is not continuing in the present), but it is not simply past history: it continues to have an effect in the present.

Thus Mark 1.2 could be translated as either ‘it has been written’ (stressing that it was written in the past) or ‘it is written’ (stressing that it bears witness in the present); either way, the writing of the text is a completed action that effects the present.

In John 19.30 the ‘is . . .’ wording seemed to fit best in English, in 1 John 5.10 the ‘has . . .’ wording, but however the Perfect is put into English, its meaning remains the same – a past completed action that has a present effect.

16.1 THE IDEA OF THE PERFECT

The Perfect tense is the fifth and final tense that we need to learn.¹ Since it is a tense, we will need to consider its form and meaning in the different voices and moods.

The essence of the Perfect is the idea of completion. This is an aspect – it conveys the nature of the action. If the Perfect is used, it conveys not a process, nor is it undefined, but rather that the action is now completed. Time is less important in the Perfect – the fact that the action is completed says something about the past (it was done in the past) but also something about the present (it is completed). ‘Past event with present effect’ is a useful slogan for the Perfect.

We can now complete the chart in Chapter 6, section 6.3 giving the meaning of the tenses:

Greek tense	Time	Aspect	English equivalent
Present	Present	Process or Undefined	I am untying or I untie
Future	Future	Undefined	I will untie
Imperfect	Past	Process	I was untying
Aorist	Past	Undefined	I untied
Perfect	Present and Past	Completed	I have untied

16.2 THE FORM OF THE PERFECT

	Active	Middle ²	Passive
I	λελυκα	ῥερυμαι	λελυμαι
You (sing.)	λελυκας	ῥερυσαι	λελυσαι
He, she, it	λελυκεν	ῥερυται	λελυται
We	λελυκαμεν	ῥερυμεθα	λελυμεθα
You (pl.)	λελυκατε	ῥερυσθε	λελυσθε
They	λελυकाσιν	ῥερυνται	λελυνται
Participle	λελυκως	ῥερυμενος	λελυμενος

¹ There is a variant on the Perfect called the Pluperfect, but this is very rare in the New Testament. It is mentioned briefly in section 16.4.

² As it happens, ῥυομαι never occurs in the Perfect, but it seems sensible to keep using the same ‘pattern word’.

Notes

- The distinguishing mark of the Perfect, in all forms, is reduplication (see below).
- The Perfect Active also has a characteristic κ .
- The Perfect Indicative Active endings are similar to those in the Aorist.
- The Middle and the Passive share the same forms in the Perfect (as they also do in the Present and Imperfect).
- The Perfect Middle and Passive endings are similar to the Present Middle and Passive endings, but they lack any initial vowel (e.g. -ται not -εται, -μενος not -ομενος).
- λελυκως declines like πας with nominative singulars λελυκως, λελυκυια, λελυκος and 3rd declension stem λελυκοτ- (written in full on page 258).
- You can get Perfects in all of the other moods, where they convey a sense of completion (e.g. Perfect Infinitive Active λελυκεναι, Passive λελυσθαι). However, these are very rare.

16.2.1 Reduplication

Reduplication is the repeating of the first letter of the stem. This occurs in every form of the Perfect tense (and hence marks out Perfects very clearly). As you might expect, although all verbs have reduplication in the Perfect, the exact form it takes is dependent on what the first letter of the verb is.

Starting with a consonant

Normally the consonant is repeated, followed by an ϵ .

E.g. λελυκα, πεπιστευκα.

χ , ϕ , θ (i.e. has an 'h' sound): The consonant is repeated without the 'h' sound, followed by an ϵ (κεχ-, πεφ- or τεθ-). E.g. τεθεραπευκα.

σ , ζ or ξ (i.e. has an 's' sound): The normal rule applies (thus σεσ-, ζεζ- or ξεξ) but normally the initial consonant is then dropped leaving, effectively, just the addition of an ϵ . E.g. εζητηκα, but also σεσωκα.

Starting with a vowel

The doubling of the vowel is represented by its lengthening.

$\alpha \rightarrow \eta$ $\epsilon \rightarrow \eta$ $\omicron \rightarrow \omega$ E.g. ηκολουθηκα

Notes

- Reduplication affects the stem – thus, in a compound verb the preposition will need to be removed, the stem reduplicated, and then the preposition rejoined (cf. augments). Thus the Perfect of ἀπολυω is ἀπολελυκα.

- When the effect of reduplication is only to add an ε or to lengthen a vowel it looks the same as adding an augment, but there is a crucial difference:

KEY GRAMMAR

Reduplication – Perfect – in all moods
Augmentation – Imperfect and Aorist – only in the Indicative

16.2.2 Stem changes

All forms of the Perfect result in a consonant being placed next to the end of the verb – either the κ for the Perfect Active, or the ending itself in the Middle or Passive. This can cause some complications, just as adding a σ or a θ for the Future or Aorist does.

-εω verbs are predictable – the ε is lengthened into an η before the consonant.

E.g. πεποιηκα is the 1st sing. Perfect Indicative Active of ποιεω τετηρηται is the 3rd sing. Perfect Indicative Passive of τηρεω.

The stem changes in other verbs (i.e. those whose stems end in a consonant) are not worth learning because: (i) they are quite complicated, (ii) the Perfect is rare in the first place, and (iii) the words are normally still quite recognisable.

Basically what happens is that the consonant at the end of the stem changes to whichever consonant within its group sounds better next to the ending. The groups are the same as we have met before when considering additions of σ and θ:

16.3 MORE ON THE MEANING OF THE PERFECT

The essence of the Perfect was given at the beginning of the chapter – completion – and the basic English equivalent of ‘I have untied’. However, there are two further points worthy of note.

16.3.1 Participles

The meaning of the Perfect participles is as you would expect – they refer neither to sequence nor to simultaneous action but to a present state of affairs (resulting from completed action in the past).

E.g. Acts 16.34: ἡγαλλιασατο ... πεπιστευκως τῷ θεῷ.

– he rejoiced . . . because he had become a believer in God.
(i.e. he had believed and still believed in God.)

What is a little awkward is that there is no ‘wooden translation’ which can be used other than ‘having believed’, which is identical to the Aorist. Thus, you need to take care that you do express the true meaning of Perfect participles when you rephrase your ‘wooden translation’ into good English.

In practice, Perfect Active participles are very rare. Perfect Passive participles are more common and are often effectively equivalent to an adjective or a Present participle since they describe a present state.

E.g. Matt. 5.10: μακαριοι οἱ δεδιωγμενοι.

– Blessed are those who have been persecuted (i.e. the persecuted).

16.3.2 Difference between the Perfect and Aorist

The basic English equivalents ‘I have untied’ for the Perfect and ‘I untied’ for the Aorist are not always dependable. This is why you should try not to rely on these equivalents but rather think of the meaning of these tenses – Aorist is past undefined, Perfect is completed.

The difficulties are best highlighted by three examples:

- 1) ἡ πιστις σου σεσωκεν σε. (Mark 5.34)
- 2) οὐκ ἀνεγνωτε; (Mark 12.26)
- 3) ἐκαλεσεν αὐτους. (Mark 1.20)

1) is in the Perfect – the saving is complete – it happened in the past and is now being viewed as completed, giving rise to a state of salvation in the present.

2) and 3) are both in the Aorist – the actions are past, but without anything more being said about the nature of the action (process, completed etc.).

In English, though, we would probably translate these sentences as:

1. Your faith has saved you.
2. Have you not read?
3. He called them.

Thus, in English, we will probably use the word ‘have’ in sentence 2 (as an alternative to ‘did you not read?’) despite the fact that the Greek verb is Aorist and we associate the translation ‘I have read’ with the Perfect.

This displays the limitations of thinking of ‘English equivalents’. ‘Have you not read?’ is a good translation of οὐκ ἀνεγνώτε; because translation is about conveying meaning, and both the Greek phrase and this translation convey a question about an action in the past the nature of which (process, completed etc.) is left undefined. The fact that order to convey this meaning English uses the word ‘have’ which you normally associate with the Perfect is merely unfortunate.³

Focus on the meaning of the tenses, not their basic English equivalents

Conversely, sometimes it is impossible to convey in a reasonably fluent English translation the fact that the verb is Perfect, despite its importance for the meaning of the sentence. For example, take 1 Cor. 15.3-4: Χριστός ἀπέθανεν (Aorist) καὶ ἐγήγερται (Perfect, irregular form) τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῇ τρίτῃ. It is almost impossible to avoid translating this as ‘Christ died and was raised on the third day’, which would convey to an English reader that the two verbs ‘died’ and ‘raised’ are both in the same tense, pointing to actions in the past. However, this is not the meaning of the Greek, since ἀπέθανεν is Aorist while ἐγήγερται is Perfect, thus a difference is being drawn between the two verbs – the death was a past action but the resurrection has continuing effect today (‘was raised, and is still in the state of being raised today’).

³ Technically, the problem is that in Greek action in indefinite past time uses the Aorist (past undefined), whereas English uses the Perfect. This can be represented thus:

	Present state resulting from past action	Greek Perfect
English Perfect	He has eaten it

	Action in indefinite past
	He has eaten many apples over the last year

English Past Simple	Action in definite past	Greek Aorist
	He ate it

PRACTICE 16.3

Which tense is appropriate for the underlined verb?

1. I have learnt Greek.
2. I have learnt my vocab every day.
3. She has been helped by the teacher.
4. They have the books.
5. They spoke to those who had seen it all.

16.4 THE PLUPERFECT

The Pluperfect is very rare and is mentioned here more for the sake of completeness than for its importance. It is a variant on the Perfect which in effect moves the time of the events one stage further into the past.

Perfect	Present state arising from event in the past 'I have broken the window' – past event, but it is still broken
Pluperfect	Past state arising from event in the remote past 'I had broken the window' – past event, created a state, but the state is now past (it was broken for a time, but now is fixed)

However, it is misleading to think of 'I had untied' as an English equivalent of the Greek Pluperfect, because normally when there is a 'had' in English it would not be translated as a Pluperfect in Greek.

This is because the two most common occurrences of 'had' in English are in indirect statements and in temporal clauses, both of which are handled without the use of the Pluperfect in Greek.

Indirect statements (see Chapter 10, section 10.3)

E.g. 'But he said that he had not destroyed the law.'

Greek uses the tense of the original words of the thought/speech, here 'I have not destroyed the law' and hence Perfect, not Pluperfect.

ὁ δὲ εἶπεν ὅτι οὐ καταλέλυκεν τὸν νόμον.

Temporal clauses

E.g. 'When he had come, he spoke to the people.'

Greek would normally translate this with a participle, 'having come, he spoke to the people'. Alternatively, the word ὅτε ('when') followed by an Aorist could be used. Despite the ‘had’ in English, the Pluperfect would not be used in Greek, because the meaning wanted is not the meaning of the Pluperfect:

ἐλθων εἶπεν τῷ λαῷ ὅτε ἦλθεν, εἶπεν τῷ λαῷ.

Form of the Pluperfect

The Pluperfect only occurs in the Indicative. It has reduplication as in the Perfect and should have an augment (since it does refer to past time), although this is often omitted. The Active endings are similar to the Perfect Active, with the α of the ending replaced by $\epsilon\iota$. The Middle and Passive endings are very similar to the Aorist and Imperfect Middle endings, without the first vowel, and in fact are only marginally different from the Perfect endings.

	Active	Middle and Passive
I	(ἐ)λελυκειν	(ἐ)λελυμην
You (sing.)	(ἐ)λελυκεις	(ἐ)λελυσο
He, she, it	(ἐ)λελυκει	(ἐ)λελυτο
We	(ἐ)λελυκειμεν	(ἐ)λελυμεθα
You (pl.)	(ἐ)λελυκειτε	(ἐ)λελυσθε
They	(ἐ)λελυκεισαν	(ἐ)λελυντο

PRACTICE 16.4

In which of the following would a Pluperfect be used?

1. When he had arrived, they began to eat.
2. The scribes said that the law had been broken.
3. I had believed but I do not any longer.
4. After I believed I was happy.
5. They thought that the temple had been destroyed.

- Rev. 18.21: βληθησεται Βαβυλων η μεγαλη πολις και ου μη ευρεθι ετι.
 – Babylon the great city will be thrown down and will never be found again.

All of the verbs underlined in these verses are in the Subjunctive mood. As you can see the Subjunctive does not have a single meaning but it is used in a range of different situations, often preceded by a particular word, such as ινα or οταν.

17.1 THE IDEA OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE

The Subjunctive is the fifth and final mood to learn – by the end of this chapter you will know the whole of the verb (as well as all the nouns and adjectives).

The Subjunctive is only used in set constructions, never just because the writer thought it would be fun. Thus there is no ‘meaning’ of the Subjunctive to learn – it only occurs as one part of a broader construction, and it is that construction which has a meaning (such as expressing purpose).¹ However, it can be hard to learn something if you can’t summarise the ‘meaning’ of what you are learning. Therefore, it may help to think of the Subjunctive as the ‘mood of doubtful assertion’. A rough parallel in English would be the use of ‘may’ or ‘might’.

Subjunctives occur in all three of the Voices (Active, Middle or Passive), but only in the Present or the Aorist tense. Thus it is similar to the Imperative and Infinitive – indeed the difference between the Present and the Aorist in the Subjunctive is the same as in the Infinitive and Imperative (process or default). Like the Indicative it occurs in the first, second and third person, singular and plural.

17.2 THE FORMATION OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE

The Subjunctive is easy to form. It differs from the Indicative only in the lack of augment and in having different endings. But those endings are in fact only a simple permutation on the Indicative ones, and only come in two patterns.

KEY GRAMMAR

1. Remove any augment
2. Replace the Indicative endings with the Subjunctive ones

17.2.1 Present Active, Aorist Active, Aorist Passive

The Subjunctive endings are the same as the Present Indicative Active of λυω with the initial vowels lengthened.

-ω, -ης, -η, -ωμεν, -ητε, -ωσιν

Thus:

Present Active	λυω, λυης, λυη, λυωμεν, λυητε, λυωσιν
1 st Aorist Active	λυσω, λυσης, λυση, λυσωμεν, λυσητε, λυσωσιν

¹ Although it is not an exact parallel, what does the English word ‘be’ mean? You can’t answer the question, because ‘be’ is used as an essential part of many different grammatical forms such as, ‘I may be’, ‘You will be taught’, ‘To be taught’, ‘Be helpful!’

2 nd Aorist Active	βάλω, βάλης, βάλῃ, βάλωμεν, βάλητε, βάλωσιν
Aorist Passive	λυθω, λυθῇς, λυθῇ, λυθωμεν, λυθητε, λυθωσιν

17.2.2 Present Middle, Present Passive, Aorist Middle

The Subjunctive endings are the same as the Present Indicative Middle of ῥυομαι / Passive of λυω with the initial vowels lengthened.

-ωμαι, -ῃ, -ῇται, -ωμεθα, -ῃσθε, -ωνται

Thus:

Present Middle	ῥύωμαι, ῥύῃ, ῥύηται, ῥύωμεθα, ῥύῃσθε, ῥύωνται
Present Passive	λυώμαι, λυῃ, λυηται, λυώμεθα, λυῃσθε, λυωνται
1 st Aorist Middle	ῥύσωμαι, ῥύσῃ, ῥύσηται, ῥύσωμεθα, ῥύσῃσθε, ῥύσωνται
2 nd Aorist Middle	γενώμαι, γενῃ, γενηται, γενώμεθα, γενῃσθε, γενωνται

Notes

- The -εω verbs are easy in the Subjunctive – the endings always begin with a long vowel, so the ε will always be absorbed and the endings left identical to those of λυω. Thus, the Present Active Subjunctive of φιλεω is φίλω, φίλῃς, φίλῃ, φίλωμεν, φίλῃτε, φίλωσιν.
- εἶμι uses the same endings without any stem – its Present Subjunctive is ᾠ, ᾡς, ᾡ, ᾠμεν, ᾡτε, ᾠσιν.

PRACTICE 17.2

Parse

1. ἄγωμεν	4. ἐρχονται	7. ἀρξωμαι	10. ἀκουσητε
2. πεμψωσιν	5. λυθης	8. βαλληται	11. ἰδωμεν
3. τελῃ	6. εἰπωσιν	9. διδασκη	12. φιλουμεν

17.3 THE USES OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE

There are seven different constructions in which the Subjunctive is used. The Subjunctive has to occur in these constructions, and will not occur elsewhere. The first two of the constructions are far more common than the others. Whichever construction is being used, the difference between the tenses is the same – the Present if the action is being viewed as part of a process (continuous or repeated), otherwise the Aorist, just as in the Infinitive and Imperative.

KEY GRAMMAR

Present Subjunctive – Process
Aorist Subjunctive – Default

17.3.1 Indefinite clauses

Clauses that refer to a person, place or time that is not definite use the word (technically a ‘particle’) ἄν plus the Subjunctive, to express this indefiniteness.

KEY GRAMMAR

ἄν + Subjunctive = indefinite

Often, this indefiniteness is expressed in English by the word ‘ever’.

ὅς – who	ὅς ἄν + Subjunctive – whoever ὅπου – where	ὅπου ἄν + Subjunctive – wherever ὅτε – when	ὅταν + Subjunctive – whenever

Examples

Mark 3.35: ὅς ἄν ποιῇ τὸ θελημα τοῦ θεοῦ ...

– whoever does the will of God ...

Matt. 6.6: σὺ δὲ ὅταν προσευχῇ ... – But whenever you pray ...

Rev. 14.4: οὗτοι οἱ ἀκολουθοῦντες τῷ ἀρνίῳ ὅπου ἄν ὑπάγῃ.

– These ones follow the lamb wherever he goes.

Notes

- Sometimes ἕαν is used in place of ἄν.
Col. 3.23: ὃ ἕαν ποιῇτε, ἐκ ψυχῆς ἐργαζέσθε ὡς τῷ κυρίῳ καὶ οὐκ ἀνθρώποις. – whatever you do, work at it wholeheartedly as (a task for) the Lord and not for humans.
- Often the meaning of a sentence is indefinite, and hence Greek will use an indefinite construction, when the use of ‘ever’ seems inappropriate in English. For example, Matt. 6.6 ὅταν προσευχῇ means ‘whenever you pray’ – what follows is a general rule, not an instruction for a particular occasion. However, in English this might be translated as ‘when you pray’. Similarly Mark 6.10 μένετε ἕως ἄν ἐξελθῇτε means ‘remain until ever you leave’ – i.e. remain until whenever it happens to be that you leave – but would normally be translated in English simply as ‘remain until you leave’.

17.3.2 Purpose clauses

We have already seen that purpose can be expressed simply by the use of an Infinitive. For example, ἦλθεν γραψαι βιβλιον. – She came to write a book.

An alternative to this is to use ἵνα plus the Subjunctive. The negative of this is ἵνα μη although sometimes μη is used on its own.

KEY GRAMMAR

ἵνα + Subjunctive = purpose

Examples

John 8.59: ἦραν οὖν λιθοὺς ἵνα βαλῶσιν ἐπ' αὐτόν.

– Therefore they took stones in order that they might throw (them) at him.

Matt. 7.1: μη κρίνετε, ἵνα μη κριθήτε.

– Do not judge, in order that you might not be judged.

Phil. 1.9: καὶ τοῦτο προσευχομαι, ἵνα ἡ ἀγάπη ὑμῶν ... περισσεύῃ ...

– And I pray this that your love may overflow ...

It is important to understand that any of the Greek ways of expressing purpose can be translated by any of the English ways.²

Thus, either of these:	ἦραν οὖν λιθοὺς		ἵνα βαλῶσιν		ἐπ' αὐτόν
			βαλεῖν

could be translated by any of the following:

Therefore they		in order that they might throw		(them) at him.
took stones		to throw in order to throw
		so that they might throw

Note: ὅπως + Subjunctive is a more unusual alternative for ἵνα + Subjunctive.³

² Many students find it easier to think of the Greek purpose with the Infinitive matching the English purpose with an Infinitive, and the Greek purpose with ἵνα + Subjunctive matching English, 'in order that ... may/might'. This is fine as an aid to memory, as long as it is understood that Greek and English purpose clauses do not need to match in this way.

³ ἵνα + Subjunctive sometimes introduces clauses that might be better categorised as 'noun clauses' rather than 'purpose clauses'. However, if you approach them as purpose clauses, their meaning soon becomes clear. E.g. John 4.34: ἐμὸν βρῶμα ἐστὶν ἵνα ποιῶ τὸ θέλημα τοῦ πέμψαντός με – My food is to do the will of the one who sent me.

Hint

We have looked at the two most common uses of the Subjunctive. Notice that each has a ‘flag word’ – ἄν (ἐάν) or ἵνα (ὅπως) – which alerts you to the fact that a Subjunctive is on the way.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

1. ἦλθες ἵνα ἀκουῃς;
2. οἱ προφηταὶ ἀπεσταλῆσαν ἵνα λεγῶσιν ὑπὲρ τοῦ θεοῦ.
3. ὅς ἂν βλέπῃ με, βλέπει τὸν πατέρα.
4. ἐκρατήσαν τὸν Παῦλον ἵνα μὴ φυγῇ.
5. ὅταν πορευῆσθε, φοβουμῶμαι.
6. ὅπου πορεύονται;
7. ὁ ἀποστολὸς ἐγράψεν ὑμῖν ἵνα πιστευσῆτε.
8. ὅπου ἂν ἐλθῇ ὁ Ἰησοῦς, μέγας ὄχλος συνηχθῇ.
9. Jesus cast out the demons in order that he might be saved.
10. Whoever entered the city died.
11. I called to her so she would hear.
12. Whenever I look I see the mountains.

17.3.3 Exhortations (Hortatory Subjunctive)

The Subjunctive can be used on its own in the 1st person plural form to express an exhortation, when the speaker is exhorting others to join him or her in an action.

KEY GRAMMAR

1st plural Subjunctive =
‘let us’

Examples

Mark 4.35: διελθόμεν εἰς τὸ πέραν. – Let us go to the other side.

Rom. 14.19 ἄρα οὖν τὰ τῆς εἰρήνης διωκόμεν.

– So therefore let us pursue the things of peace.

Heb. 10.22 προσερχομεθα μετὰ ἀληθινῆς καρδίας ἐν πληροφορίᾳ πιστεως.

– Let us approach with a true heart in full assurance of faith.

17.3.4 Deliberation (Deliberative Subjunctive)

The Subjunctive is used when the speaker is deliberating – ‘What should I do?’, ‘Where should we go?’

KEY GRAMMAR

1st person Subjunctive = deliberation

Examples

Luke 3.10: τί οὖν ποιησόμεν; – What then should we do?

Heb. 11.32: και τί ἐτι λεγω; – And what more should I say?

Rom. 6.15: τί οὖν; ἁμαρτησόμεν, ὅτι οὐκ ἐσμεν ὑπο νομον ἀλλὰ ὑπο χάριν;
– What then? Should we sin, because we are not under law but under grace?

17.3.5 Prohibitions

We have already learnt that a command uses the Imperative mood, and that the negative for the other moods is μη. Thus, you might imagine that prohibitions (negative commands) are straightforward. Unfortunately, this is not the case.

KEY GRAMMAR

Aorist Subjunctive replaces Aorist Imperative in prohibitions

Process	Positive Negative	Present Imperative μη + Present Imperative
Default	Positive Negative	Aorist Imperative μη + Aorist Subjunctive

As we have learnt, the difference between the Present and the Aorist in Imperatives and Subjunctives is that between process and default. In Imperatives and prohibitions this often means the difference between attitudes and conduct (Present) and specific actions (Aorist).⁴

Examples⁵

Luke 11.4: μη εἰσενεγκῆς ἡμᾶς εἰς πειρασμον. – Do not bring us to testing.

Rom. 10.6: μη εἰπῆς ἐν τῇ καρδίᾳ σου· τίς ἀναβησεται εἰς τον οὐρανον;
– Do not say in your heart, ‘Who will go up to heaven?’

Matt. 10.5: τουτους τους δωδεκα ἀπεστειλεν ὁ Ἰησους ... λεγων· Εἰς ὁδον ἐθνων μη ἀπελθῆτε και εἰς πολιν Σαμαριτων μη εἰσελθῆτε.
– Jesus sent out these twelve . . . saying ‘Do not go out into the road of the Gentiles, and do not enter a city of the Samaritans.’

⁴ You should be aware that the difference between prohibitions with the Present Imperative and the Aorist Subjunctive is still a matter of some debate among scholars.

⁵ In addition, one sometimes finds οὐ + Future Indicative for a prohibition. This is not really Greek, but is the literal translation into Greek of a Hebrew idiom for an emphatic prohibition. E.g. Matt. 5.27: ἠκουσατε ὅτι ἐρρεθη· Οὐ μοιχευσεis – You heard that it was said, ‘Do not commit adultery’ (lit: you shall not commit adultery).

17.3.6 Emphatic negative future

The standard way to make negative statements about the future is simply to use the Future Indicative with οὐ. However, it is more emphatic to use the double negative οὐ μὴ plus the Aorist Subjunctive.

KEY GRAMMAR

οὐ μὴ + Aorist Subjunctive =
emphatic negative future

Examples

Mark 13.30: ἀμὲν λέγω ὑμῖν ὅτι οὐ μὴ παρελθῇ ἡ γενεα αὕτη ...

– Truly I tell you that this generation will (definitely) not pass away . . .

John 6.37: τὸν ἐρχομένον πρὸς ἐμέ οὐ μὴ ἐκβάλω ἔξω.

– The one who comes to me I will (definitely) not drive away outside.

- Sometimes, we find οὐ μὴ + Future Indicative with a similar meaning:

Matt. 26.35: λέγει αὐτῷ ὁ Πέτρος: ... οὐ μὴ σε ἀπαρνησομαι.

– Peter said to him, ‘ . . . I will never deny you.’

17.3.7 Conditions

Certain conditions use the Subjunctive (those after εἰαν). These will be discussed in Chapter 20.

Using verbs

We have now learnt all of the basic forms and uses of verbs in Greek. However, there are a number of more unusual or particular uses that are worth looking at.

18.1 δύναμαι, καθημαι, κειμαι AND οἶδα

These four verbs all describe states that can be thought of as arising from past situations. For example, if you are sitting now it is because you have sat down in the past. Similarly you know something now because you have learnt it in the past.

δύναμαι – I am able (to) καθημαι – I sit

κειμαι – I lie

οἶδα – I know

Therefore these verbs use the endings of the Perfect and Pluperfect tense for the Present and Past (Imperfect).

KEY GRAMMAR

Present: Current state arising from past action
– use Perfect endings

Past: Past state arising from action in further past
– use Pluperfect endings

Note: the Past tense of these verbs is called their Imperfect (when, for example, you are parsing) because it describes an ongoing situation in the past (as opposed to the Aorist, which would more describe an action in the past).

- δυνάμην, καθήμην, κειμήμην

These are deponent, and hence have the Middle endings.

Present			Imperfect
δυνα-μαι	καθη-μαι	κει-μαι	ἐδυνα-μην	ἐκαθη-μην	ἐκει-μην
δυνα-σαι	καθη-σαι	κει-σαι	ἐδυνα-σο	ἐκαθη-σο	ἐκει-σο
δυνα-ται	καθη-ται	κει-ται	ἐδυνα-το	ἐκαθη-το	ἐκει-το
δυνα-μεθα	καθη-μεθα	κει-μεθα	ἐδυνα-μεθα	ἐκαθη-μεθα	ἐκει-μεθα
δυνα-σθε	καθη-σθε	κει-σθε	ἐδυνα-σθε	ἐκαθη-σθε	ἐκει-σθε
δυνα-νται	καθη-νται	κει-νται	ἐδυνα-ντο	ἐκαθη-ντο	ἐκει-ντο
Infinitives		δυνασθαι, καθησθαι, κεισθαι
Participles		δυναμενος, καθημενος, κειμενος

- οἶδα

This uses the Active endings.

Present	Imperfect
οἶδ-α	ἤδ-ειν
οἶδ-ας	ἤδ-εις
οἶδ-εν	ἤδ-ει
οἶδ-αμεν	ἤδ-ειμεν
οἶδ-ατε	ἤδ-ειτε
οἶδ-ασιν	ἤδ-εισαν

Infinitive	εἶδεναι
Participle	εἰδώς ¹

Hint

Some of the forms of οἶδα are easily confused with εἶδον the 2nd Aorist of ὁράω (I see).² Remember that there are no augments in the other moods.

	Indicative	Infinitive	Participle
I see – 2 nd Aorist ³	εἶδον	ἰδεῖν	ἰδων
I know	ἤδειν (Imperfect)	εἶδεναι	εἰδώς

² This because they are both in fact using parts of the same basic verb.

³ Note also ἰδου meaning look!/behold! which is related to but not directly part of εἶδον (the actual Imperatives from εἶδον being ἰδε and ἰδετε).

Examples

Jas. 2.14: μη δυναται ἡ πιστις σωσαι αὐτον; – Faith is not able to save him, is it?

Acts 2.34: εἶπεν ὁ κυριος τῷ κυρίῳ μου· Καθου ἐκ δεξιῶν μου.

– The lord said to my lord, ‘Sit at my right.’

Matt. 28.6: οὐκ ἐστιν ὧδε, ἡγερθη γαρ καθως εἶπεν· δευτε ἰδετε τον τοπον ὁπου ἐκειτο. – He is not here, for he has been raised just as he said; come see the place where he lay.

Rev. 4.2: εὐθως ἐγενομην ἐν πνευματι, και ἰδου θρονος ἐκειτο ἐν τῷ οὐρανῳ, και ἐπὶ τον θρονον καθημενος. – Immediately I was in the spirit, and behold a throne lying in heaven, and one sitting on the throne.

3 John 12: και ἡμεις δε μαρτυρουμεν, και οιδας ὅτι ἡ μαρτυρια ἡμων ἀληθης ἐστιν. – We also testify, and you know that our testimony is true.

2 Cor. 4.14: ειδοτες ὅτι ὁ ἐγειρας τον κυριον Ἰησουν και ἡμας συν Ἰησου ἐγερεῖ. – Knowing that the one who raised the Lord Jesus will raise you also with Jesus.

PRACTICE 18.1

1. δυνανται	4. ἐκειτο	7. ἰδειν
2. καθημενοις	5. οἰδατε	8. ἰδων
3. δυνασθαι	6. ἦδειν	9. εἰδως

18.2 USE OF INFINITIVES

We have already learnt the forms of the Infinitive, and the distinction between the Present and Aorist Infinitives. However, we have not yet studied carefully the different uses of the Infinitive in Greek – only noting that it is used as in English after certain verbs (e.g. θελω – I wish) and for purpose.

18.2.1 After certain verbs

An Infinitive often comes after the following verbs.⁴

δει ⁵	It is (was) necessary	ἐξεστιν	It is lawful δυναμαι	I am able	θελω	I wish ἐστιν	It is	μελλω	I intend / am about (to)

⁴ Plus, in fact, all verbs of ‘commanding’, telling someone to do something.

⁵ The imperfect of δει is ἔδει (‘it was necessary’).

Examples

Rev. 1.19: γραψον οὖν ἃ εἶδες καὶ ἃ εἰσιν καὶ ἃ μελλει γενεσθαι μετὰ ταυτα. – Therefore write what you see and what is and what is about to happen after these things.

Gal. 4.21: λεγετε μοι, οἱ ὑπο νομον θελοντες ειναι, τον νομον οὐκ ἀκουετε;
– Tell me, you who wish to be under the law, don't you listen to the law?

1 Cor. 10.23: παντα ἐξεστιν ἀλλ' οὐ παντα οἰκοδομει.

– Everything is permitted but not everything builds up.

The 'subject' of an Infinitive

Often when these verbs are used with an Infinitive there is a 'second subject'.

For example, in the sentence 'I want the messenger to depart' the subject of the sentence is 'I'. But what is 'messenger'? From one point of view it is the object of 'I want', from another it is the subject of 'to depart'. There is a simple rule in Greek that any such 'subject of an Infinitive' goes in the accusative.⁶

- I want the messenger to depart – θελω τον ἀγγελον ἀπελθειν

KEY GRAMMAR

The 'subject of an Infinitive' goes in the accusative

Examples

Mark 8.31: δει τον υιον του ανθρωπου πολλα παθειν. – The son of man must suffer greatly (lit: it is necessary the son of man to suffer greatly).

Rom. 16.19: θελω δε ὑμας σοφους ειναι εἰς το ἀγαθον . . .

– I want you to be wise towards the good . . .

Notes

- ἐξεστιν is irregular, in that when combined with an Infinitive the 'subject' of the Infinitive is normally in the dative, not the accusative. For example: Matt. 14.4: Οὐκ ἐξεστιν σοι ἔχειν αὐτην. – 'It is not lawful for you to have her.'
- When translating δει it is often sensible to rephrase 'it is necessary' (which you hardly ever say in English) to some form of 'must'. (N.B. there is no word in Greek for 'must' – δει is used instead).

⁶ This may seem annoying ('If it is a type of subject, why not put it in the nominative?'), but it has the advantage of strictly reserving the nominative for the subject of the main verb in the sentence, which helps when trying to analyse a complicated sentence.

18.2.2 Result clauses

Greek expresses result very easily, simply by the word ὥστε and the Infinitive.

KEY GRAMMAR

ὥστε + Infinitive = result

- This is a little different from English, which uses an Indicative.
- Often there is a second subject, in which case it goes in the accusative.
- To get the meaning right you should first translate ὥστε as ‘with the result that’, but this sounds clumsy in English, so then you need to rephrase it, often using the English word ‘so’ or even just ‘and’.

Examples

Matt. 15.30-1: καὶ ἐθεραπευσεν αὐτοὺς ὥστε τον ὄχλον θαυμάσαι.

– And he healed them, with the result that the crowd was amazed.
(or ‘so the crowd was amazed’ or ‘and the crowd was amazed’).

Mark 15.5: ὁ δὲ Ἰησοῦς οὐκετι οὐδὲν ἀπεκριθὴ, ὥστε θαυμάζειν τον Πιλάτον.

– But Jesus answered nothing further, with the result that Pilate was amazed. (or ‘so Pilate was amazed’ or ‘and Pilate was amazed’).

PRACTICE 18.2.1 AND 18.2.2

Translate

1. θελῶ αὐτὸν γαμῖν με.
2. δεῖ διδασκαλὸν διδάσκειν.
3. προσηλθεν ὥστε αὐτοὺς ὑπαγαγεῖν.
4. δυνασθε ἐσθιεῖν ἄρτον ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ;
5. φιλῶ τὴν σοφίαν ὥστε ἀκούειν τοῦ διδασκαλοῦ μου.

18.2.3 Purpose

As we have already learnt, purpose is expressed in Greek either by just using the Infinitive or by ἵνα plus the Subjunctive.

Examples

Jude 14: ἰδὺς ἦλθεν κύριος ... ποιῆσαι κρισὶν κατὰ παντῶν.

– Behold, the Lord is coming . . . to execute (lit: do) judgement against all.

Mark 3.14-15: ἐποίησεν δώδεκα ἵνα ὦσιν μετ’ αὐτοῦ καὶ ἵνα ἀποστελλῇ αὐτοὺς κηρυσσεῖν καὶ ἔχειν ἐξουσίαν ἐκβαλλεῖν τὰ δαιμόνια.

– He made (the) twelve in order (for them) to be with him and so that he might send them to preach and to have authority to cast out the demons.

18.2.4 Articular Infinitive

The neuter singular of the article (το, το, του, τῷ) can be put in front of an Infinitive to make a noun denoting the activity of the verb, or the fact of that activity happening (this is called the articular Infinitive).

κρινεῖν – to judge → το κρινεῖν – (the activity of/the fact of) judging ἐσθιεῖν – to eat → το ἐσθιεῖν – (the activity of/the fact of) eating

The articular Infinitive is mainly used with a preposition. The Infinitive itself does not decline, but the article does. The most common prepositions used with the articular Infinitive are:

δια + acc.	because of μετα + acc.	after
εἰς + acc. or προς + acc.	with a view to / aiming at / leading to ⁷
προ + gen.	before
ἐν + dat.	during / while

Examples

Jas. 4.2: οὐκ ἔχετε δια το μη αἰτεῖσθαι ὑμᾶς.

– you do not have because you do not ask.

(lit: on account of the fact of you not asking)

Matt. 26.32: μετα δε το ἐγερθῆναι με προαξω ὑμᾶς εἰς την Γαλιλαιαν.

– after I have been raised I will go head of you into Galilee.

(lit: after the activity of me being raised)

2 Cor. 1.4: ὁ παρακαλῶν ἡμᾶς ἐπι παση τη θλιψει ἡμῶν εἰς το δυνασθαι ἡμᾶς παρακαλεῖν τοὺς ἐν παση θλιψει. – the one encouraging us in all our suffering so that we might be able to encourage those who are in any suffering. (lit: with a view to the activity of us being able)

Gal. 2.12: προ του γαρ ἐλθεῖν τινας ἀπο Ἰακώβου μετα των ἐθνων συνησθιεν.

– for before some people came from James, he used to eat with the Gentiles. (lit: before the fact of some people coming)

Mark 4.4: και ἐγενετο ἐν τῷ σπειρειν ὃ μεν ἐπεσεν παρα την ὁδον.

– And as he sowed some fell alongside the path.

(lit: in the activity of sowing . . .)

⁷ Alternatively, εἰς το + Infinitive and προς το + Infinitive can be thought of as a form of purpose clause. Indeed, there is another similar form – sometimes rather than just the Infinitive for purpose, του + Infinitive is used. Thus one can summarise the different ways of expressing purpose as follows.

Either 1. Infinitive: (i) alone, (ii) preceded by του, (iii) preceded by εἰς το / προς το or 2. ἵνα + Subjunctive

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

1. ἐδύναμεθα λεγειν αὐτῷ.
2. θελω εἶδεναι τον θεον.
3. μετα το προσευχεσθαι ἐξηλθον ἐκ της συναγωγης.
4. ἡ χηρα ἦν πτωχη ὥστε μη ἔχειν πολλα.
5. εἶδον ὅτι δει αὐτην ἀποθανειν.
6. οἶδατε τας ἐπαγγελιας τας αἰωνιους;
7. ἡλθες προς το προσκυνησαι τῷ θεῷ;
8. οἱ μαθηται ἐφυγον ὥστε τους στρατιωτας μη εὔρειν μηδενα.
9. Did you know him?
10. Before sitting down they gave thanks.
11. They were so amazed that they worshipped him.
12. You must be a slave.

18.3 THIRD PERSON IMPERATIVES

We have already learnt the normal Imperatives – commands to ‘you’ (singular or plural). These are called 2nd person Imperatives. Now we need to learn the 3rd person Imperatives. These are quite rare. They mean ‘let him/her/it/them [untie]’ in the sense of ‘he/she/it/they should’ (not ‘allow them to’).

KEY GRAMMAR

3rd person Imperatives =
‘Let . . .’

The forms are as follows.

	Present Active	1 st Aorist Active	Present Middle or Passive	1 st Aorist Middle	Aorist Passive
Sing.	λυετω	λυσατω	ῥυεσθω	ῥυσασθω	λυθητω
Pl.	λυετωσαν	λυσατωσαν	ῥυεσθωσαν	ῥυσασθωσαν	λυθητωσαν

Notes

- The endings are distinctive: -τω/θω for 3rd sing., -τωσαν/-θωσαν for 3rd pl.
- The standard distinguishing marks are visible: -σα in the 1st Aorist Active and Middle, θ in the Aorist Passive.

Examples

Mark 4.23: εἰ τις ἔχει ὦτα ἀκούειν ἀκουετω.

– If someone has ears to hear, he should hear!

Rom. 6.12: μη οὖν βασιλευετω ἡ ἁμαρτία ἐν τῷ θνητῷ ὑμῶν σωματι.

– Therefore sin should not reign in your mortal body.

18.4 PRINCIPAL PARTS

In the previous chapters we have learnt all the different parts of the verb. In the process we have seen that endings are perfectly regular, but various verbs have irregularities in their stems (beyond those which are just the result of the standard combinations of letters such as $\pi + \sigma \rightarrow \psi$).

There is a standard format for presenting this information about stems called the ‘principal parts’ of the verb. This consists of six parts of the verb, from which all of the tenses and Voices can be constructed. In the reference section (pages 253–4), the principal parts of the common verbs that have irregularities in their stems are listed.

Look at page 253. There we see the following information about βαλλω.

Present	Future	Aorist Active	Perfect Active	Perfect Passive	Aorist Passive
βαλλω	βαλεω	έβαλον	βεβληκα	βεβλημαι	έβληθην

This tells us all that we need to know to work out all the forms of βαλλω, given that we know the standard endings (for λυω) in the different tenses. For while you wouldn’t be able to work out that the Perfect Active of βαλλω is βεβληκα, once you know this you can just add the standard endings of λυω in the Perfect to βεβληκα to form the Perfect of βαλλω.

Teachers differ as to how much they stress the importance of learning the principal parts of these common verbs – it is certainly very useful, but it is quite a chore. However, what is undoubtedly essential is being able to form the different parts of the verb once you have been given the principal parts (whether from this list, or from a dictionary).

The way in which each one of the principal parts relates to a number of different parts of the verbs (and vice versa) is set out below.

Principal parts			All the parts of the verb
Present Active	λυω	→	Present Active	λυω
			Imperfect Active	ἐλυνον

Example

- βαλλω is given as:

Present	Future	Aorist Active	Perfect Active	Perfect Passive	Aorist Passive
βαλλω	βαλεω	ἐβαλον	βεβληκα	βεβλημαι	ἐβληθην

βαλλω		the 1 st sing. Imperfect Passive is	ἐβαλλομην
βαλεω ⁸	tells you	the 2 nd plural Future Active is	βαλειτε
έβαλον	that, for example,	the 3 rd sing. Aorist Active is	έβαλεν
		(and -ov ending points out that it has a 2 nd Aorist)
βεβληκα		the Perfect participle is	βεβληκως
βεβλημαι		the 3 rd plural Perfect Passive is	βεβληνται
έβληθην		the 1 st plural Future Passive is	βληθησομεθα

- Imagine you need to translate οἱ ἐπι την γην την καλην σπαρεντες. (Mark 4.20)

You guess from the context that the final word is something to do with σπειρω (I sow). You look up the principal parts of σπειρω and find the sixth form is ἐσπαρην. This tells you that the Aorist Passive participle will be σπαρεις (declined like λυθεις; no augment for the participle, and the principal part has told you that it, unusually, does not have a θ). Given this, you can see that σπαρεντες is the masc. nom. plural of the Aorist Passive participle of σπειρω. Hence the phrase means, ‘the ones having been sown on the good soil’.

18.5 ASPECT AND TIME IN TENSES

As we have learnt the different moods and tenses we have encountered the ideas of time and aspect. Now it is time to look again at what is meant by the tenses. The student should be aware that the degree to which Greek tense is primarily about aspect or primarily about time is a matter of some dispute among scholars. It is perhaps fair to say that traditionally tense as been seen as being mainly about time, but more recently there has been a reassessment of this, stressing aspect. The learner is best to follow the famous Greek proverb ‘moderation in all things’ (μηδεν άγαν) and to understand both the time and the aspect side of the tenses, and to be suspicious of those saying it is all of one or all of the other.

⁸ Thus the future of βαλλω is βαλεω using the -εω endings, which is what one would expect in the Future of a liquid verbs (Chapter 11, section 11.2). Thus ‘I will throw’ will be βαλω.

The building blocks of an understanding of tenses can be summarised as follows.

- Three time distinctions: future, present, past
- Three ‘aspects’: process – the action is in progress
 - undefined – the action is considered in itself, without reference to continuation or completion
 - completed – the action is completed
- The tenses function differently in the different moods
 - Indicatives – time and aspect
 - Participles – relative time (relative to the main verb)
 - Other moods – aspect only

	Indicative			Participles	Imperative Infinitive Subjunctive
Present	Present	+	Process (or Undefined)	Simultaneous	Process
Future	Future	+	Undefined	–	–
Imperfect	Past	+	Process	–	–
Aorist	Past	+	Undefined	Sequence	Undefined
Perfect	(Present)	+	Completed	–	–

Notes

- The meaning of the participles is closely related to that of the other moods – action is normally simultaneous with the main verb because it is seen as an ongoing process, and action is prior to the main verb in sequence because it is seen as an action with an undefined relationship to the main verb. However, thinking in terms of being simultaneous or in sequence tends to make it easier for beginners to make a start on reading the New Testament.
- There are occasions when the time element of the Indicative seems to be absent and aspect dominates (e.g. Rom. 3.23: πάντες γὰρ ἥμαρτον. – ἥμαρτον is Aorist here, but clearly this does not mean ‘for all sinned on one particular occasion in the past’ but rather ‘for all sin’ – a general, ‘undefined’ statement). However, normally time (alongside aspect) is very important to tense in the Indicative.
- The augment marks out past time – hence it occurs in the Imperfect and Aorist in the Indicative only.

Section C

Matthew 6.9-13 Οὕτως οὖν προσεύχεσθε ὑμεῖς· Πάτερ ἡμῶν ὁ ἐν τοῖς οὐρανοῖς, ἁγιασθήτω τὸ ὄνομά σου· ¹⁰ ἐλθέτω ἡ βασιλεία σου· γεννηθήτω τὸ θέλημά σου, ὡς ἐν οὐρανῷ καὶ ἐπὶ γῆς· ¹¹ Τὸν ἄρτον ἡμῶν τὸν ἐπιούσιον [for today, for the coming day] δὸς [give!] ἡμῖν σήμερον· ¹² καὶ ἄφες [forgive, ἀφίημι] ἡμῖν τὰ ὀφειλήματα [debts, from ὀφείλω] ἡμῶν, ὡς καὶ ἡμεῖς ἀφήκαμεν [ἀφίημι] τοῖς ὀφειλέταις [debtors] ἡμῶν· ¹³ καὶ μὴ εἰσενέγκῃς [εἰσφέρω = εἰς+φέρω] ἡμᾶς εἰς πειρασμόν [time of testing], ἀλλὰ ρύσαι ἡμᾶς ἀπὸ τοῦ πονηροῦ.

¹¹ You would expect ἀπεκριθῇ since ἀποκρίνομαι is a Passive deponent in the Aorist (see Chapter 15, section 15.7). However, seven times in the New Testament it does occur in the Aorist Middle (as opposed to 195 times in the Aorist Passive).

Extra verbs

19.1 -μι VERBS

The -μι verbs (so called because they end in -μι in their 1st singular Present Indicative Active) are a separate class of verbs from the normal -ω verbs (e.g. λυω). The bad news is that their full pattern is awkward to learn. The good news, however, is that only three of them are common, and you don't need to be able to form them yourself, only to recognise and translate them.

Matt. 27.60: και ἐθηκεν αὐτο ἐν τῷ καινῷ αὐτοῦ μνημειῷ.

– and he placed it in his new tomb.

Acts 20.35: μακαριον ἐστιν μαλλον διδοναι ἢ λαμβανειν.

– It is more blessed to give than to receive.

Rev. 3.20: ἰδου ἐστηκα ἐπὶ την θυραν και κρουω.

– Behold, I stand at the door and knock.

19.1.1 Characteristics of -μι verbs

The essential feature of -μι verbs is that they use a different, longer stem in the Present (and thus also for the Imperfect) than for the rest of the verb (compare λυω, where the one stem λυ- is used throughout). It is crucial to recognise which of the two stems a particular occurrence of a -μι verb is using.

The Three -μι Verbs		Verbal Stem	Present Stem (for Present and Imperfect)
τιθημι	I place	θε	τιθε
διδωμι	I give	δο	διδο
ἵστημι	I cause to stand	στα	ἵστα

Note

The Present stem is formed from the verbal stem by a form of reduplication – the first consonant is repeated (or an ‘h’ sound for those beginning with vowels or σ) together with an ι. Note the difference between this and proper reduplication (for the Perfect) which uses an ε vowel.

KEY GRAMMAR

In -μι verbs the Present stem is longer than the verbal stem

19.1.2 Parsing -μι verbs – the survival guide

The endings of the -μι verbs are slightly different from those of λυω. They are discussed more in the next section. However, they are similar enough to those of λυω that their person and number are normally recognisable, as is their voice (the context will often supply this as well). Hence the key issue in parsing is identifying tense. Fortunately, once you grasp the pattern that the changing stems form, the tense can easily be deduced without attention to the endings.

Present stem	Present
Present stem + augment	Imperfect
Verbal stem + σ suffix	Future Indicative (or 1 st Aorist other mood)
Verbal stem + augment + σ suffix	1 st Aorist Active Indicative
Verbal stem + augment	2 nd Aorist Active Indicative
Verbal stem	2 nd Aorist Active other mood
Verbal stem + θ ¹	Aorist Passive
Verbal stem + θησ ¹	Future Passive
Reduplicated verbal stem	Perfect

Notes

- διδωμι and τιθημι both use a 1st Aorist in the Indicative, and a 2nd Aorist in the other moods. Thus, verbal stem plus σ must be the Future Indicative (since there are no 1st Aorist other moods). For ιστημι, where there is a 1st Aorist in the other moods, the Future Indicative has to be distinguished by its endings, which are always the same as the Future Indicative of λυω.

¹ The Aorist Passive of τιθημι should be ἐθεθην, the θ for the Aorist Passive added to the verbal stem θε. However, to avoid two θ on the run, this was written as ἐτεθην etc. Similarly the Future Passive is τεθησομαι.

- The reduplication in the Perfect is proper reduplication with an ε: δεδο-, τεθε-, ἑστα-.

Examples

τιθετε	– Present stem	– Present	– you place
ἐθηκεν	– Verbal stem + ε	– 2 nd Aorist Indicative	– she placed τιθεναι	– Present stem	– Present	– to place (Infinitive)
θειναι	– Verbal stem	– 2 nd Aorist other mood	– to place (Infinitive)
δεδοται	– reduplication	– Perfect	– it has been given ἵστας	– Present stem	– Present	– standing (participle)
στας	– Verbal stem	– 2 nd Aorist other mood	– having stood (participle)
δωσετε	– Verbal stem + σ	– Future Indicative	– you will give ἐστησεν	– Verbal stem + ε + σ	– 1 st Aorist Indicative	– he stood

PRACTICE 19.1.2

Which tense are the following?

(Have an intelligent guess at the rest of the parsing as well.)

- | | | |

| 1. ἔδωκεν | 5. τεθησεται | 9. ἵστησιν |
| 2. ἐδιδου | 6. διδωσιν | 10. σταθισονται |
| 3. δεδοται | 7. θωμεν | 11. στησατε |
| 4. τιθεμεν | 8. δοντας | 12. ἐστησατε |

Examples

John 2.10: και λεγει αὐτω· Πας ἄνθρωπος πρωτον τον καλον οἶνον τιθησιν ...

– And he said to him, ‘Every person puts (out) the fine wine first . . .’

Matt. 12.18: θησω το πνευμα μου ἐπ’ αὐτον. – I will place my spirit on him.

John 19.19: ἐγραψεν δε και τιτλον ὁ Πιλατος και ἐθηκεν ἐπι του σταυρου.
– Pilate also wrote a notice and placed (it) on the cross.

2 Tim. 1.11: εἰς ὃ ἐτεθην ἐγὼ κηρυξ και ἀποστολος και διδασκαλος.
– for which I was appointed a herald, and apostle and teacher.

Eph. 1.22: και αὐτον ἔδωκεν κεφαλὴν ὑπὲρ παντα τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ. – and he gave him as head (or ‘made him head’) over all things for the church.

Mark 4.11: ἔλεγεν αὐτοῖς· Ὑμῖν το μυστηριον δεδοται τῆς βασιλείας του θεου. – He said to them, ‘The secret of the kingdom of God has been given to you’.

Matt. 20.18: και ὁ υἱος του ἀνθρωπου παραδοθησεται τοις ἀρχιερευσιν ...
– And the son of man will be handed over to the chief priests ...

2 Pet. 3.15: καθως και ὁ ἀγαπητος ἡμων ἀδελφος Παυλος κατα την δοθεισαν αὐτῷ σοφίαν ἐγράψεν ὑμῖν. – Just as our beloved brother Paul also wrote to you according to the wisdom given to him.

19.1.3 The meaning of ἵστημι

ἵστημι is basically a transitive verb (i.e. one which can take an object) meaning ‘I cause to stand’ or ‘I stand something up.’ However, particular tenses of ἵστημι are used to convey an intransitive meaning (i.e. one which cannot take an object) – ‘I stand (myself) up.’ The full pattern is as follows:

If you want ...			Then use ...
Transitive:	Present	I cause to stand	Present Active	ἵστημι
	Future	I will cause to stand	Future Active	στήσω †
	Past	I caused to stand	1 st Aorist Active	ἔστησα †
Intransitive:	Present	I stand	Perfect Active	ἔστηκα †
	Future	I will stand	Future Middle	στήσομαι †
	Past	I stood	Either 2 nd Aorist Active	ἔστην or Aorist Passive	ἐσταθην †

Notes

- Forms marked † conjugate identically to the corresponding part of λυω.
- Since the Perfect Active is used for a Present intransitive meaning, the Pluperfect Active (εἵστηκεν †) is used for an Imperfect intransitive meaning.
- Since ἵστημι has both a 1st and 2nd Aorist, watch the forms of the participles (and the other moods) – ἱστάς (Present participle), στήσας (σ suffix – 1st Aorist participle – transitive), στας (no suffix – 2nd Aorist participle – intransitive).

Examples

Transitive:

Mark 9.36: και λαβων παιδιον ἕστησεν αὐτο ἐν μεσῷ αὐτῶν.

– And he took a child and stood him in their midst.

Matt. 25.33: και στησει τα μεν προβατα ἐκ δεξιῶν αὐτοῦ ...

– and he will stand (or ‘put’) the sheep on his right ...

Intransitive:

Matt. 20.32: και στας ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἐφώνησαν αὐτοὺς και εἶπεν ...

– And Jesus stood still (lit: ‘having stood’) and called them and said ...

2 Cor. 1.24: συνεργοὶ ἐσμεν τῆς χαρᾶς ὑμῶν· τη γὰρ πιστεὶ ἕστηκατε.

– We are fellow-workers of your joy, because you stand in the faith.

19.1.4 The pattern of endings

It is not necessary to learn all of the endings of the -μι verbs. In practice the endings are similar enough to those of λυω that if you understand the principle of the Present and verbal stems, you should be able to recognise the forms. However, for completeness the Present and Aorist endings are given below (more detail on the -μι verbs can be found on pages 265–8).

Note: Basically, the three different -μι verbs have the same endings, but with a different vowel dominating – ε for τιθημι, α for ἵστημι and ο for δίδωμι.

Present Active
Indicative			Subjunctive
τιθημι	ἵστημι	δίδωμι	τιθω	ἵστω	δίδω
τιθης	ἵσθης	δίδως	τιθῇς	ἵσθῃς	δίδῃς
τιθησι(ν)	ἵστησι(ν)	δίδωσι(ν)	τιθῇ	ἵσθῇ	δίδῃ
τιθεμεν	ἵσταμεν	δίδομεν	τιθῶμεν	ἵστώμεν	δίδῶμεν
τιθετε	ἵστατε	δίδοτε	τιθῆτε	ἵσθητε	δίδωτε
τιθεασι(ν)	ἵστασι(ν)	δίδοασι(ν)	τιθῶσι(ν)	ἵστώσι(ν)	δίδῶσι(ν)
Imperative			Infinitive
			τιθεναι	ἵσταναι	διδοναι
			Participle
τιθει	ἵσθη	δίδου	τιθεις -εισα- εν, stem τιθενττιθετω	ἵστατω	δίδοτω	ἵστας -ασα, -αν, stem ἵσταντ-τιθετε	ἵστατε	δίδοτε	διδους -ουσα -ον, stem διδοντ-
τιθετωσαν	ἵστατωσαν	δίδοτωσαν

Aorist Active

Indicative – 1st Aorists ἐθῆκα, ἐστήκα, ἐδῶκα (conjugates regularly).
 – ἵστημι also has intransitive 2nd Aorist, ἐστην (endings as ἐλύθην).
Other moods – As in the Present but using the verbal stem (i.e. missing the initial τι, δι or ι), except 2nd sing. Imperative which are θες, στηθι, δος and Infinitives θειναι, στηναι, δουναι.

19.1.5 Other similar verbs

There are a few other verbs which share some of the same characteristics as these three ‘proper’ -μι verbs.

ἵημι (literally ‘send’ but only found in compounds such as ἀφίημι – I leave, forgive, dismiss, and συνιημι – I understand). This follows the same pattern as τιθημι with the Present stem ἱε and verbal stem ἐ.

Verbs in -νμι (such as δεικνυμι – I show, ἀπολλυμι – I destroy, ῥηγνυμι – I break). These have -νμι verb endings in the Present tense (with the υ vowel dominating), but then use an altered stem for the other tenses along with the normal λυω endings (see the principal parts on page 253 for the details).

φημι (I say) This only appears in the following Indicative Active forms: Present: φημι, I say; φησιν, he says; φασιν, they say; Imperfect: ἐφη, he said.

εἶμι (I am) If you look back at the Present of εἶμι (Chapter 5, section 5.3) you will see that it has some similarities with the Present of the -μι verbs.

Examples

Luke 5.21: τίς δυναται ἁμαρτίας ἀφειναι εἰ μη μονος ὁ θεος;

– Who is able to forgive sins except God alone?

Rev. 2.4: ἄλλα ἐχω κατα σου ὅτι την ἀγαπην σου την πρωτην ἀφηκες.

– But I have (this) against you that you abandoned your first love.

Matt. 4.7: ἐφη αὐτῷ ὁ Ἰησους· Παλιν γεγραπται ...

– Jesus said to him, ‘Again it is written . . .’

Jas. 2.18: δειξον μοι την πιστιν σου χωρις των ἐργων, κἀγω σοι δειξω ἐκ των ἐργων μου την πιστιν. – Show me your faith without works, and I will show you my faith through my works.

10. He made the sick man stand up in the synagogue.
11. After she had dismissed the crowd she began to pray.
12. While he was giving them the wine, he taught them.

19.2 αω AND οω VERBS

There are two other groups of contracting verbs similar to the -εω group (e.g. φιλεω). These follow the same general pattern as the -εω verbs, but the short α or ο at the end of their stems undergo slightly different contractions.

KEY GRAMMAR

Present and Imperfect – Contractions take place
Other tenses – Short vowel lengthens²

	-εω φιλεω – I love	-αω τιμαω – I honour	-οω πληρωω – I fulfil
Present and Imperfect	ε + ε → ει ε + ο → ου ε + diphthong or long vowel drops out	α + ε or η → α α + any ο → ω α + any ι → α	ο + short vowel or ου → ου ο + long vowel → ω ο + any ι → οι
Other tenses	ε becomes η	α becomes η	ο becomes ω

² Really, contractions occur when the α, ε, or ο is followed by a vowel (as in the Present and Imperfect), lengthening when followed by a consonant (as in the other tenses).

Notes

- The Present Infinitives of -αω and -οω verbs behave as if the Infinitive ending is -εν not -ειν, hence τιμάν and πληρουν.
- In the 3rd Sing. Imperfect Active Indicative of -εω, -αω and -οω verbs the 'optional ν' was not used. Thus the ending is ε giving: ἐφιλει, ἐτιμα, ἐπληρου.
- A few -εω verbs keep the ε in the other tenses e.g. καλεσω.

Examples

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| • ἐφιλει – He was loving | • τιμησω – I will honour |
| • πεφιλημαι – I have been loved | • πληροι – It is fulfilling |
| • ἐτιμα – She was honouring | • πληρουται – It is being fulfilled |
| • τιμας – You are honouring | • πεπληρωται – It has been fulfilled |

2 Thes. 2.1: ἐρωτωμεν δε υ̐μας, ἀδελφοι, ... – We ask you, brothers,

Eph. 6.2: τιμα τον πατερα σου και την μητερα – Honour your father and mother.

Gal. 2:20: ζω δε ου̐κετι ἐγω, ζη δε ἐν ἐμοι Χριστος· ὁ δε νυν ζω ἐν σαρκι, ἐν πιστει ζω τη του υ̐ιου του θεου του ἀγαπησαντος με και παραδοντος ἐαυτον ὑπερ ἐμου.

– It is no longer I who live, but Christ lives in me. What I now live in flesh I live by faith in the son of God who loved (lit: 'the one having loved') me and handed himself over for me.

Matt. 12.16-17: και ἐπετιμησεν αὐτοις ἵνα μη φανερον αὐτον ποιησωσιν, ἵνα πληρωθη το ῥηθεν δια Ἡσαΐου του προφητου ...

– And he rebuked them so that they would not make him known, in order that what was spoken through Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled ...

Word helps donate/donor, stand, thesis/antithesis, affirm/euphemism, dipsomania, pediatrics/psychiatry, NikeTM, planet, Timothy, indict, pleroma/plenary, teleology.

³ In the Passive γενναω means ‘I am born’.

⁴ Like αἰτέω (Chapter 6), ἐρωταω and its compounds are followed by a double accusative – both the person asked and what is asked for occur in the accusative.

⁵ ζαω behaves differently from other -αω verbs, contracting to an η rather than an α. Thus, for example, the Present Infinitive is ζην not ζαν.

⁶ In the ‘other tenses’ (Future, Aorist and Perfect) the α in ἰαομαι remains an α rather than becoming an η. Thus, for example, the Future is ἰασομαι.

⁷ The Middle of ἀπολλυμι (ἀπολλυμαι) means ‘I perish’.

20.1 CONDITIONS

Conditional sentences (those containing an ‘if’) are basically intuitive – you have been translating senses with εἰ (‘if’) in them since Chapter 5. However, it is possible to classify conditional sentences into a number of different groups, each with further sub-groups, with ever tighter definitions of exactly what is conveyed. This can be of some value, although a book on the elements of New Testament Greek is not the place for this level of detail. Furthermore, such analysis can be counter-productive, since sometimes it is rather doubtful whether writers were using conditionals quite so precisely. However, it is worth learning a little more about conditional sentences.

20.1.1 The basic conditional sentence¹

Any conditional sentence has two parts:

	Protasis – the ‘if’ clause	Apodosis – the ‘then’ clause
Gal. 5.18:	εἰ δὲ πνεύματι ἄγεσθε	οὐκ ἔστε ὑπο νόμον
	if you are led by the spirit	you are not under law

The logic of any conditional sentence is:

If the Protasis is true, then the Apodosis is true.²

- E.g. ‘If you like Greek (then) you are wise.’

When your teacher says this sentence, it conveys nothing about whether you do or don’t like Greek. What it conveys is that (in the teacher’s opinion) IF it is true that you like Greek THEN it is automatically true that you are wise.

¹ Sometimes called a fulfilled conditional or an ‘assumed true’ conditional.

² Strictly speaking we should say ‘then the apodosis follows’, since the apodosis is not always a statement that can be true or not. For example, it could be a command: ‘If you like Greek, buy this book’ means if the protasis is true (‘you like Greek’), then the apodosis follows (‘you should buy this book’).

These conditional sentences are expressed in Greek simply by the use of the word $\epsilon\iota$ corresponding to the English ‘if’, as you have been doing since Chapter 5.

20.1.2 Two variations on the basic conditional

There are two ways in which Greek alters the basic conditional sentence to give a different flavour.

(a) Indefinite conditions ($\epsilon\alpha\nu$ + Subjunctive)

Sometimes Greek will use $\epsilon\alpha\nu$ + Subjunctive rather than $\epsilon\iota$ + Indicative in the protasis. In such a condition, it is still the case that IF the protasis is true THEN the apodosis follows. However, the Subjunctive conveys the sense that there is something ‘indefinite’, not completely defined, about the protasis.³

Often this indefiniteness is merely because the condition speaks about the future, which is by definition somewhat undefined, and thus this whole group of conditions are often called ‘future conditions’.

- E.g. ‘If you like Greek, you will learn it.’

However, sometimes, $\epsilon\alpha\nu$ + Subjunctive is used to highlight the fact that the protasis is indefinite because it addresses a generic situation, without a particular occasion being in mind.

- E.g. ‘If someone enjoys rules and patterns, they like Greek.’

(The speaker does not have a particular person or occasion in mind – it is a generalised statement.)

(b) ‘Contrary to fact’ conditions ($\alpha\nu$ in apodosis)

Sometimes Greek will put the word $\alpha\nu$ in the apodosis. In such a condition, it is still the case that IF the protasis is true THEN the apodosis follows. However, the writer is deliberately expressing that they believe that the protasis is not true. These conditions are sometimes called ‘unfulfilled conditions’.

- E.g. ‘If you had liked Greek, you would have learnt it.’

³ Useful parallels can be drawn between these indefinite conditions and indefinite clauses (Chapter 17, section 17.3.1). Indefinite clauses can be seen as normal (definite) clauses to which $\alpha\nu$ + Subjunctive are added to express the indefiniteness.

Definite: $\delta\tau\epsilon \epsilon\sigma\theta\iota\epsilon\iota\varsigma$ – when you eat – $\delta\tau\epsilon$ (when) + Indicative.

Indefinite: $\delta\tau\alpha\nu \epsilon\sigma\theta\iota\eta\varsigma$ – whenever you eat – $\delta\tau\alpha\nu$ (= $\delta\tau\epsilon$ + $\alpha\nu$) + Subjunctive – suggesting a level of indefiniteness; a generic situation, not a particular occasion.

Similarly with conditions the basic form is (a) $\epsilon\iota$ + Indicative, but one can use (b) $\epsilon\alpha\nu$ (= $\epsilon\iota$ + $\alpha\nu$) + Subjunctive to suggest a level of indefiniteness.

Here the speaker is saying two things: (1) that if you like Greek you will learn it (a basic condition) and (2) that you didn't like Greek (the force of the ἄν).⁴

Hint

In English, contrary to fact conditions have the word 'would' in the apodosis.

20.1.3 The form of conditionals in Greek

	Protasis	Apodosis
Basic conditions	εἰ + Indicative	Any mood or tense
Indefinite conditions	ἐάν + Subjunctive	Any mood or tense
'Contrary to fact' conditions	εἰ + Indicative ⁵	ἄν + Indicative ⁵

The key principles of conditional sentences can be summarised thus:

KEY GRAMMAR

Protasis:	εἰ + Indicative = If ἐάν + Subjunctive = If (future/generalised/hypothetical)
Apodosis:	ἄν = Would (protasis seen as untrue)

Examples

Basic conditions (fulfilled)

Gal. 3.29: εἰ δε ὑμεῖς Χριστου, ἄρα του Ἀβρααμ σπέρμα ἐστε.

– If you are Christ's, then you are Abraham's offspring.

1 Cor. 8.3: εἰ δε τις ἀγαπᾷ τον θεον, οὗτος ἐγνωσται ὑπ' αὐτου.

– If someone loves God, he is known by him.

Luke 23.37: εἰ συ εἶ ὁ βασιλεὺς των Ἰουδαίων, σωσον σεαυτον.

– If you are the king of Israel, save yourself!

Luke 11.19: εἰ δε ἐγὼ ἐν Βεελζεβουλ ἐκβαλλω τα δαιμονια, οἱ υἱοι ὑμων ἐν τίνι ἐκβαλλουσιν; – If I cast out demons by Beelzeboul, by whom do your sons cast them out?

⁴ Being precise, the 'contrary to fact' condition does not convey that the protasis is false, but only that the speaker thinks that it is false. E.g. Luke 7.39: οὗτος εἰ ἦν προφητης, ἐγινωσκεν ἄν ... 'If this man were a prophet he would know. . .'. The speaker thinks that Jesus is not a prophet, but the author of the gospel may well think that he is.

⁵ In both the protasis and apodosis the Imperfect is used for references to present time, and the Aorist for references to past time. Note also that if the protasis of an 'contrary to fact' condition is negative μη is used (strangely, given the verb is in the Indicative).

Indefinite conditions

Matt. 9.21: ἐὰν μόνον ἄψωμαι τοῦ ἱματιοῦ αὐτοῦ, σωθήσομαι.

– If only I touch his cloak, I will be saved.

John 14.14: ἐὰν τι αἰτήσῃτε με ἐν τῷ ὀνόματι μου, ἐγὼ ποιήσω.

– If you ask me for anything in my name, I will do it.

1 Cor. 14.14: ἐὰν γὰρ προσευχώμαι γλῶσση, τὸ πνεῦμα μου προσεύχεται.

– because if I pray in a tongue, my spirit prays.

1 John 2.15: ἐὰν τις ἀγαπᾷ τὸν κόσμον, οὐκ ἐστὶν ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ πατρὸς ἐν αὐτῷ. – If someone loves the world, the love of the father is not in him.

Unfulfilled conditions

John 5.46: εἰ γὰρ ἐπιστευετε Μωϋσῃ, ἐπιστευετε ἂν ἐμοί.

– For if you believed Moses, you would believe me.

1 Cor. 2.8: εἰ γὰρ ἐγνώσαν, οὐκ ἂν τὸν κυρίον τῆς δόξης ἐσταύρωσαν – For if they had known, they would not have crucified the lord of glory.

Heb. 8.4: εἰ μὲν οὖν ἦν ἐπὶ γῆς, οὐδ' ἂν ἦν ἱερεὺς.

– Therefore if he were on earth, he would not even be a priest.

5. εἰ ἀκαθαροὶ ἡμεν, οὐκ ἂν ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ ἐκαθήμεθα.
6. ἐὰν ἐγὼ δώσω σοι, δώσεις οὖν σὺ ἄλλοις;

20.2 THE GENITIVE ABSOLUTE

Mark 14.17: καὶ ὄψιας γενομένης ἔρχεται μετὰ τῶν δώδεκα.

– When it was evening, he comes (came) with the twelve.

(lit: ‘evening having happened’)

Here the word evening ὄψια is in the genitive, and γενομένης (Aorist participle of γίνομαι – ‘having happened’) is gen. fem. sing. to agree with it. But why is ὄψια in the genitive? It is not a possessor, nor is it governed by a preposition. What place does it have in the sentence? It is not subject or object. This is an example of a particular construction using participles called the genitive absolute.

The genitive absolute is a noun with a participle agreeing with it which is 'separated off' from the rest of the sentence (this is what 'absolute' means, from the Latin ab-solutus – 'separated off' – it has nothing to do with 'absolutely'). This separation is in meaning – the noun does not have a place in the main sentence – which is then expressed by the noun and participle occurring in the genitive (which makes sure you can't confuse them with the subject or object of the main sentence).

Up to now, you have been able to represent every sentence, however complex, by a map of interconnected units, based round a skeleton of subject, verb and (normally) object. For example, the sentence 'While he was passing along the sea, he saw Simon and Andrew casting (nets) in the sea' (Mark 1.28) could be represented in the diagram on this page.

Here the main sentence is shaded grey, and all the rest of the sentence connects to it, and hence the case of the other pieces of the sentence can be determined:

'passing' agrees with 'he', the subject of the sentence, and so is nominative; 'casting' agrees with 'Simon and Andrew', the object of the sentence, and so is accusative.

However, if we take our example from Mark 14.17: 'Evening having happened, he comes with the twelve', the diagram would look rather different, for there is no connection between 'evening having happened' and 'he comes with the twelve'. Thus, 'evening having happened' is a 'separated-off' clause, which does not connect to the main sentence.

Therefore in Greek it will be a genitive absolute, and thus ‘evening’ and ‘having happened’ will be in the genitive.⁶

Hint

- Genitive absolutes normally occur at the beginning of sentences – so if the first word in a sentence is in the genitive, ‘think genitive absolute’.
- Very often genitive absolutes give some ‘background information’, such as the time or circumstances at which something happened.

Examples

Mark 14.66: καὶ ὄντος τοῦ Πέτρου κατὰ ἐν τῇ αὐλῇ ἔρχεται μία τῶν παιδισκῶν.

– While Peter was below in the Hall, one of the servant-girls came.

Matt. 26.21: καὶ ἐσθιοντῶν αὐτῶν εἶπεν· Ἀμην λεγὼ ὑμῖν ...

– While they were eating, Jesus said, ‘Amen I say to you. . .’

Rom. 5.13: ἁμαρτία δὲ οὐκ ἐλλογείται μη ὄντος νομοῦ.

– Sin is not counted when there is no law.

HALF-WAY PRACTICE

1. ἔλθοντος δὲ Ἰησοῦ οἱ διδασκαλοὶ ἐθαυμαζόν.
2. εἰ γὰρ ἐβλεπον ἐπιστευον ἄν.
3. τοῦ δὲ βασιλεως ἀποθανοντος ἦλθον εἰς τὴν Γαλιλαίαν.
4. ἡμέρας γενομένης ἐλάλει τῷ ὄχλῳ.
5. ἔαν τὰ δαιμονία ἐκβληθῇ εὐχαριστησόμεν.
6. τοῦ γὰρ λόγου κηρυττομένου οἱ ἀκούοντες ἐπιστευσαν.
7. αὐτοῦ δὲ ὄντος ἁγίου πάντες ἐφοβούντο.
8. εἰ ὁ νομὸς οὐκ ἐδόθη, οὐκ ἂν ἐγνώσαν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν.
9. As she came in the angel said to her, ‘. . .’
10. If he is holy he will worship God.
11. If it were day we would not be afraid.
12. When he had been raised everyone was amazed.

⁶ In the Greek of the time this rule was breaking down, and we will often find a genitive absolute used when the noun involved does in fact turn up elsewhere in the sentence, but the use of a genitive absolute avoids creating a rather complex sentence. E.g. Mark 9.28: καὶ εἰσελθόντος αὐτοῦ εἰς οἶκον οἱ μαθηταὶ αὐτοῦ κατ’ ἰδίαν ἐπηρώτων αὐτόν . . . – ‘And as he was going into a house his disciples asked him privately . . .’ Here εἰσελθόντος could have been made to agree with the αὐτόν but the use of the genitive absolute breaks the sentence into smaller blocks, making it easier to understand.

20.3 PERIPHRASTICS

As we already know, Greek forms tenses by adding suffixes and prefixes to the verb, while English forms them by adding auxiliary words (e.g. I was going – ἤγον). However, Greek does upon occasion use a construction similar to English using an auxiliary word plus a participle. This is called a periphrastic construction.⁷

Tense	Periphrastic Construction
Present	Present of εἶμι + Present participle
Imperfect	Imperfect of εἶμι + Present participle
Future	Future of εἶμι + Present participle
Perfect	Present of εἶμι + Perfect participle
Pluperfect ⁸	Imperfect of εἶμι + Perfect participle
Future Perfect ⁸	Future of εἶμι + Perfect participle

In Classical Greek the periphrastic constructions emphasised the continuous force of the participle (either continuous occurrence – Present participle, or the continuation of the completed state – Perfect participle). This is why the Aorist participle is never used in periphrastic constructions. However, it is doubtful that any such emphasis is present in the periphrastic constructions in the New Testament, and for two reasons. First, as Greek developed from the Classical period to the New Testament period, this emphasis seems to have waned. Second, in Aramaic, Imperfects are always expressed using a periphrastic construction, and this idiom may have influenced the occurrences in the New Testament writings.

Examples

Mark 2.18: ἦσαν οἱ μαθηταὶ Ἰωαννοῦ καὶ οἱ Φαρισαῖοι νηστευόντες.

– The disciples of John and the Pharisees were fasting.

Eph. 2.5: χαρίτι ἐστε σεσωσμένοι – By grace you have been saved.

2 John 12: ... ἵνα ἡ χαρὰ ἡμῶν πεπληρωμένη ᾖ.

– ... in order that our joy might be complete.

(Note: here the periphrastic uses the Present Subjunctive of εἶμι after ἵνα.)

⁷ The name derives from περὶ (around, about) and φράζω (I explain), since they explain their meaning in a round-about fashion.

⁸ English ‘equivalents’: Pluperfect ‘I had loosened’; Future Perfect ‘I will have loosened’.

4. τιμωμενος δε ἐστὶ ὁ προφητης.

20.4 COMPARISON AND FORMATION OF ADJECTIVES AND ADVERBS

From any adjective you can form a corresponding adverb, and from an adjective or adverb, you can form two variants – the comparative and the superlative.

As in English, there is a pattern by which these are normally formed, but some of the more common adjectives and adverbs have irregular forms. There is a further slight variation – if the last letter of the adjective or adverb's stem is short, ω is used as the joining vowel in the comparative and superlative, while if it is long or a diphthong, ο is used.

For example: σοφος has a short vowel at the end of the stem: σοφ-δικαιος has a diphthong at the end of the stem: δικαι-

		Example
		Short Vowel	Long Vowel or Diphthong
Adjective	wise	σοφος	δικαιος
Comparative adjective	wiser, more wise	σοφωτερος	δικαιοτερος
Superlative adjective	wisest, most/very wise	σοφωτατος	δικαιοτατος
Adverb	wisely	σοφως	δικαιως
Comparative adverb	more wisely	σοφωτερον	δικαιοτερον
Superlative adverb	most/very wisely	σοφωτατα	δικαιοτατα

Common irregular forms

Adjectives

ἀγαθος	good	→	κρεισσων	better
κακος	bad	→	χειρων	worse
μεγας	great	→	μειζων	greater
πολυς	much	→	πλειων	more
μικρος	small	→	μικροτερος	smaller	→ ἐλαχιστος smallest

Adjective		Adverbs
ἀγαθος	good	→	εὖ	well
Unused root		→	μαλλον	more	→
πολὺς	much	→	πολλὰ	greatly	μαλιστα
					most

Notes

- We learnt in Chapter 12, section 12.4 that comparison is expressed in Greek either by a genitive or by the use of the word ἢ with the second noun in the same case as the first.
- μαλλον is the adverb ‘more’ (qualifying a verb), while πλειων is the adjective ‘more’ (qualifying a noun).
- The superlative was gradually falling out of use, and often the comparative was used in its place.

Hint

It is helpful to remember that words ending in -ως are adverbs. You should now understand how the forms καλως, ὁμοιως and οὕτως, which you learnt earlier, have been formed from καλος, ὁμοιος and οὗτος.

Examples

- ἄξιως – in a worthy manner
- παντως – by all means
- ὀντως – really
- πρωτως – for the first time

Mark 1.32: ἔφερον πρὸς αὐτὸν παντας τοὺς κακῶς ἔχοντας.

– They were bringing to him all those who were sick (lit: the ones ‘having badly’).

Mark 5.23: λεγων ὅτι Το θυγατριον μου ἐσχατως ἔχει.

– saying, ‘My daughter is dying’ (lit: has finally).

1 Cor. 7.40: μακαριωτερα δε ἐστιν ἐὰν οὕτως μείνῃ.

– She is more blessed if she remains as she is (lit: thus).

20.5 THE OPTATIVE

In Classical Greek there was a sixth mood, called the optative, which is best thought of as an even less certain form of the subjunctive. However, by the New Testament period its use was rare, except among those writers trying to imitate the style of writing of the past (cf. non-deponent use of the Middle – Chapter 15, section 15.6.1). It does occur, though, in a famous phrase of Paul – μη γενοιτο – ‘may it not be!’

The optative was used:

1. For wishes
2. For indirect questions (i.e. questions within reported speech).

The optatives were formed in a similar way to subjunctives, but rather than being marked out by a long η or ω, they have the diphthongs οι or αι.

Examples

Rom. 6.1-2: ἐπιμενωμεν τὴν ἁμαρτίαν, ἵνα ἡ χάρις πλεονασῇ; μη γενοιτο.

– Should we remain in sin in order that grace abounds? By no means!

Luke 1.38: γενοιτο μοι κατὰ τὸ ῥῆμα σου.

– May it be to me according to your word.

Going further

The aim of this book was: ‘To help you learn enough Greek to read the New Testament.’ If you have completed the twenty chapters, have a reasonable (not perfect) grasp of their main points, and have practised with the sentences and passages along the way, then you have reached this goal. All you now need is more practice. To begin with you will find reading the New Testament quite slow, but soon your reading will become faster and more fluent, and far more enjoyable.

There are a wide variety of tools designed to help you become more fluent and reference works that provide more depth than has been possible in this book. I list some of these below grouped into various categories. Remember, though, your goal was not to be able to progress to more complicated Greek books, but to read the New Testament. So do that – make a start today! And if at all possible, don’t read alone – find a couple of others who will join you. That way you can encourage each other, and what you have forgotten someone else will probably have remembered, so you will go much faster. Quite quickly you will find the commonly occurring vocabulary and grammar becomes very familiar, allowing you to focus your energies on the more unusual or complicated words and phrases. Enjoy it!

The basics

A Copy of the Greek New Testament – You will need one of these. Older copies may have a slightly different text owing to developments in textual criticism. The best option is probably the United Bible Society’s (4th edn) The Greek New Testament (Stuttgart: Deutsche Bibelgesellschaft, 2001). The other possibility is the Novum Testamentum Graece (27th edn, 2001) also from the Deutsche Bibelgesellschaft (known as Nestle-Aland after the names of its editors). These two give the same text, but differ in the ‘apparatus’ (notes) they give for textual criticism.

A Dictionary – The dictionary at the back of this book lists only the most common words in the New Testament. As you start to read, you will encounter others, so you will need a dictionary (or ‘lexicon’). There are various available, but for a relatively cheap, easy-to-use dictionary try W.C. Trenchard’s A Concise Dictionary of the New Testament (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2003). The standard dictionary for scholarly work (far more detailed but also more expensive, and more bulky) is A Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature edited by F.W. Danker (and others) (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 3rd edn, 2000). Some editions of the United Bible Society’s Greek text come with a dictionary in the back, which can also be very useful.

Helps

There are all sorts of books produced to help you read the Greek New Testament.

Verse-by-verse helps – These comment on each verse in order for you not to need to keep searching through reference works, which makes them ideal companions when reading. S. Kubo’s A Reader’s Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament (Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan, 1975) focuses on vocabulary, while M. Zerwick and M. Grosvenor’s A Grammatical Analysis New Testament (Rome: Editrice Pontificio Istituto Biblico, 5th edn, 1996) also parses unusual grammatical forms. Into this category also come interlinears, where the Greek text is given on one line, and an English translation below. These can be useful, but do little to help you understand the Greek.

Vocab-builders – These categorise Greek words in various ways to help you expand your working vocabulary as easily and as memorably as possible. Current options include B.M. Metzger’s Lexical Aids for Students of New Testament Greek (Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Books, 3rd edn, 1993) and W.C. Trenchard’s The Student’s Complete Vocabulary Guide to the Greek New Testament (Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan, 1997).

Analytical dictionaries – These list every form that occurs in the New Testament, and tells you what basic word it has come from (e.g. it would list ἐλυσαν and not just λυω). Current options include those by B. and T. Friberg, W.D. Mounce and W.J. Pershbacher.

Further reference tools

You may want to look at a more detailed analysis of Greek grammar. For this D.B. Wallace’s Greek Grammar Beyond the Basics (Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan, 2000) is good but daunting (he has produced a shorter version called The Basics of New Testament Syntax [Grand Rapids, MI: Zondervan, 2000]). An older standard is A Greek Grammar of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature edited by F. Blass and A. Debrunner (translated by R. Funk) (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 1961).

A Greek concordance can be useful – some quote the word's usage in English (such as the one by J.R. Kohlenberger III), others quote it in Greek (such as the one by W.F. Moulton, A.S. Geden, H.K. Moulton, and I.H. Marshall).

New skills

You may want learn about textual criticism – the process by which our printed modern texts of the Greek New Testament are produced from the many ancient copies we have. On this see The Text of the New Testament either by K. and B. Aland (Grand Rapids, MI: Eerdmans, 2nd edn, 1996) or by B.M. Metzger (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 3rd edn, 1992) (whose A Textual Commentary on the Greek New Testament [Stuttgart: Deutsche Bibelgesellschaft, 2nd edn, 1995] is also very useful, commenting on all the most important passages).

If you are going on in academic work, you may need to learn to use Greek accents. For this see D.A. Carson's Greek Accents: A Student's Manual (Grand Rapids, MI: Baker Books, 1985).

Computers

There are a growing number of useful computer tools for Greek, in particular Bibleworks and Gramcord, both of which allow you to conduct extensive investigations and searches for grammatical constructions or occurrences of particular words. The Internet contains a constantly expanding range of information and resources – links can be found on this book's website: www.nt-greek.net.

Comparative English grammar

Why a section on English grammar?

The aim of this textbook is to help you learn Greek, not English. You already know English perfectly well and are already using English grammar all the time. However, many readers will be using English grammar implicitly, without realising it, because many people today learn English without any focus on formal grammar. Whether this matters or not is a moot point and not an argument to be gone into here. However, it can be unfortunate when you start to learn a foreign language, particularly a language like Greek whose structure and grammar are actually very similar to English. Often Greek grammar is best explained by reference to English. For example, Greek sentences have subjects and objects just as English does. If you already understand what a subject and an object is (from English), then all you need to learn about Greek is that the subject is put in the nominative case and the object in the accusative case. This explanation does not work, though, if you have never met the terms ‘subject’ and ‘object’ before. In these situations it can be helpful first to understand what ‘subject’ and ‘object’ are in English, and then to learn how they are pressed in Greek. This is why there is a section on English grammar in a Greek textbook.

How to use this guide

This guide does not intend to give an overview of English grammar. Rather, it contains explanations of English grammar that may help with your learning of the Greek covered in this book. You may wish to read through the whole of this guide, to familiarise yourself with the grammatical terminology used, and the aspects of English grammar that are highlighted. However, the guide is intended to be a reference tool – at various points within Chapters 1–20 you will be referred to the appropriate part of this guide. For example, when in Chapter 2 you meet the idea of subjects and objects in Greek, you are referred to section 3 of this guide, which explains subjects and objects in English. In a similar way, when grammatical terms occur in the index, they refer both to where they are taught in Greek and to where the English parallel is given in this guide.

1. The parts of speech

An obvious first question to ask of any word is ‘What type of word is it?’ For example, ‘put’ is a different sort of word from ‘coat’, and ‘on’ is very different again. They are called different parts of speech. There are eight different parts of speech: that is, eight different types of word. Many of the chapters of this book are focused on explaining how Greek handles a particular part of speech, e.g. Chapter 5 looks at adjectives, while Chapter 2 introduces basic verbs and nouns. Being clear as to what the different parts of speech are in English is vital if you are to grasp how they are formed and used in Greek.

1.1 Noun

A noun is the name of any person or thing. For example, ‘coat’, ‘Jim’, ‘peace’.

Most nouns are in fact the name given to the common link between a number of things or people. ‘Cup’ is the name given to all cups, which expresses the fact that although I have one cup that is large and another that is old, they are both part of the same group of things – they are both cups. Therefore formally many nouns are called common nouns.¹

¹ The more you think about this, the more complicated it becomes. It was the Greek philosopher Plato (c. 427–347 BC) who was first recorded as debating what it is about a cup that makes it a cup, when they can come in many different types and sizes.

Another type of noun is a proper noun. This is the name given to a particular person, place or thing. For example – Jeremy, Oxford, Wycliffe Hall. In English and in Greek we mark out proper nouns by giving them capital letters.

A third type of noun is an abstract noun. This is the name of a quality, state or action rather than a person or thing. For example – love, peace, destruction.

1.2 Verb

A verb is a word describing an action. For example – sing, learn, eat.

Sometimes ‘action’ needs to be interpreted loosely. In the sentence ‘he is hot’, or ‘it exists in my dreams’, ‘is’ and ‘exists’ are verbs, although you might not think of them as actions. Nevertheless you could say that ‘being hot’ is what ‘he’ is doing, or ‘existing’ is what ‘it’ is doing.

1.3 Pronoun

A pronoun is a word used to replace a noun. For example – she, this, who.

Whenever a pronoun is used, you should be able to identify what noun it is replacing. This noun is called the antecedent, and it affects the choice of pronoun. Consider the two sentences: ‘Mary eats the cake. Mary likes the cake.’ In English this sounds strange. You would normally replace the second occurrence of the word Mary with a pronoun. Because the antecedent of the pronoun is Mary, you would use the pronoun ‘she’ (if the antecedent were John you would use ‘he’ or if it were ‘the children’ you would say ‘they’). Similarly you would replace the second occurrence of ‘cake’ with ‘it’. Thus you would actually say ‘Mary eats the cake. She likes it.’ The sentence ‘she likes it’, contains two pronouns, ‘she’ and ‘it’, each of which is replacing a particular noun.

There are many subdivisions of pronouns, but they all share the same function of replacing a noun. For example, ‘who’ is a ‘relative pronoun’ because it relates together what could be two independent sentences. Rather than writing ‘John envies Mary. Mary ate the cake’, you write ‘John envies Mary who ate the cake’ (‘Mary’ is the antecedent of ‘who’).

1.4 Adjective

An adjective is a word that is joined to a noun to qualify its meaning (that is, to add something to it). For example – new, my, three.

Most adjectives answer the questions ‘What kind of?’ or ‘How many?’ (adjectives of quality or quantity). However, there are some other types of adjective that are slightly different. Demonstrative adjectives such as ‘this’ or ‘those’ answer the question ‘Which?’, possessive adjectives such as ‘my’ or ‘our’ answer the question ‘Whose?’, interrogative adjectives ask questions, such as ‘Which?’ Nevertheless, all adjectives are joined to a noun. In the sentences ‘This cake is good', 'My cake has gone' 'Which cake was eaten?' 'this', 'my' and 'which' all qualify 'cake' and so are adjectives.

The word 'the' is a special type of adjective. It is called the 'definite article' and is sometimes considered a separate part of speech (alongside its partner the 'indefinite article' – 'a'). However, it is joined to a noun to qualify its meaning, so it can be seen as an adjective. For example, consider the sentences – 'Mary likes cake' and 'Mary likes the cake.' The word 'the' in the second sentence qualifies 'cake' and tells us that it is a particular cake that is being referred to, not cake in general.

1.5 Prepositions

A preposition is a word (or phrase) joined to a noun (or pronoun) that indicates the relationship between the noun / pronoun and another part of the sentence: for example – into, with, on behalf of.

In English as in Greek, the noun (pronoun) that a preposition is joined to normally comes immediately after it. In the sentence 'He went into the house', 'into' is a preposition joined to 'house' (or governing 'house'), indicating the relationship between 'the house' and 'he went'. The relationship would be different if the preposition 'out of' had been used, or 'on to'. Similarly 'he went with them' or 'Christ died on behalf of sin'.

1.6 Adverb

An adverb is a word joined to a verb to qualify its meaning. For example – slowly, carefully, not. Adverbs can also be used to qualify an adjective or another adverb (e.g. 'extremely' is an adverb that can be used to qualify an adverb – he worked extremely carefully – or an adjective – the drink was extremely hot).

Adverbs and adjectives are closely related to each other. Adjectives qualify nouns, while adverbs qualify verbs (or adjectives or adverbs). In English you can often form an adverb by adding –ly to the end of the adjective word: for example 'slow' and 'slowly'.

1.7 Conjunction

A conjunction is a word that joins together two sentences, clauses or words: for example – and, but, because.

1.8 Interjection

An interjection is a word that stands complete on its own, expressing a feeling directly: for example – alas, thanks, hello.

1.9 Words that can be more than one part of speech

In English the same word can be more than one part of speech, depending on how it is used in a sentence. For example, ‘talk’ can be both a verb (‘At lunch we talk about the class’) and a noun (‘I enjoyed listening to the talk’); and ‘free’ can be an adjective (‘He had a free ticket’) or a verb (‘They free the slave’). This almost never happens in Greek.² Therefore when, for example, you want to translate the word ‘talk’ you need to be sure whether it is a noun (Greek λογος) or a verb (Greek λεγω).

1.10 Example

Then Peter quickly opened the large window next to the door and said, ‘Hello!’

Then	Connects this sentence to the previous one	Conjunction
Peter	The name of a particular thing/person	(Proper) Noun quickly	Qualifies (further describes) ‘opened’	Adverb opened	An action	Verb
the	Qualifies (further describes) ‘window’	Adjective (article)
large	Qualifies (further describes) ‘window’	Adjective window	The name of something	Noun
next to	Indicates how ‘door’ relates to ‘window’	Preposition
the	Qualifies (further describes) ‘door’	Adjective (article)
door	The name of something	Noun and	Connects the two clauses together	Conjunction said	An action	Verb
Hello	Expresses a complete idea or feeling	Interjection

2. Sentences, clauses and phrases

A sentence is a group of words that make complete sense on their own. Grammatically they do not need to be part of a larger whole. In English, a sentence is marked out by beginning with a capital letter and finishing with a full stop (or period). This paragraph contains four sentences, each of which makes complete sense on its own.

A clause or phrase is a group of words that makes sense but is not complete. Technically a clause is a group of words that contains a finite verb (that is, a verb in the indicative, imperative or subjunctive mood – see section 9 below), otherwise it is a phrase. For example, ‘They ate the cake which they liked in the house’ is a sentence. Within this, ‘which they liked’ is a clause (it is not complete on its own so it is not a sentence, but it does have a finite verb, so it is a clause). 'In the house' is a phrase.

3. Subject and object

The subject is the noun (or pronoun) that is uppermost in mind when the sentence is formed and is the focus of attention. In English it is normally the first noun (or pronoun) in the sentence. For example, the boy arrived, she is singing, the cake was eaten, later they went away. In most sentences (active sentences – see section 8 below) the subject does the action expressed by the verb.

Some verbs refer to actions that do not directly affect something else – they do not have objects. These are called intransitive verbs: for example – I remain, I die, I sleep.

Most verbs, however, naturally have an object as well as a subject. These are called transitive verbs. The object specifies who or what is directly affected by the verb. For example, in the sentence 'I love him' – 'love' is a transitive verb and 'him' is the object; in 'she eats the cake' – 'the cake' is the object.

An important distinction is made between objects that are directly affected by the action of the verb and those that are indirectly affected, or secondarily affected. Such objects are called indirect objects (as opposed to direct objects) and are normally shown in English by the use of a preposition. For example, 'I gave the cake to her' – 'the cake' is the direct object, and 'her' is an indirect object (notice the 'to').

Note that some verbs can be used intransitively or transitively. For example, 'I sang' is complete in itself – 'sang' can be used intransitively – but it can also be used transitively – 'I sang the national anthem'.

4. Complements

The previous section has highlighted a distinction between transitive verbs, which have an object, and intransitive verbs, which do not.

However, some intransitive verbs are not complete in themselves. For example, 'He becomes' is not complete. You need to specify what he becomes (e.g. 'He becomes angry'). Most intransitive verbs can be used on their own but are more often completed by another word. For example, 'She appears' is complete when it means 'She was not there before but then she appears', but needs completing when used in the sense 'She appears happy'. Similarly the verb 'to be' can be used on its own to mean 'exists' (e.g. 'Are you there?', 'I am') but normally needs completing ('I am sad').

The word that 'completes' such a sentence is called a complement. It can be a noun, adjective or a pronoun – 'He is a shepherd', 'He is good', 'He is mine'. When learning Greek it is important to understand that a complement is not an object. An object is a separate person or thing from the subject that receives the action of the verb. A complement is a further description of the subject.

5. Person

Person indicates the relationship between the one who is speaking³ the sentence, and the one who is doing the action in the sentence.

When the person speaking is the same as the one doing the action, it is ‘first person’ – in the sentence ‘I hit the dog,’ ‘I’ is a first-person pronoun, and ‘hit’ is a verb in the first person.

When the person spoken to is the one doing the action, it is ‘second person’ – in the sentence ‘You like the dog,’ ‘you’ is a second-person pronoun, and ‘like’ is a verb in the second person.

When the person spoken about is the one doing the action, it is ‘third person’ – in the sentence ‘She carries the dog,’ ‘she’ is a third-person pronoun, and ‘carries’ is a verb in the third person.

For example – ‘The waiter brought your meal to me’ – ‘brought’ is a verb in the third person (‘he brought’); ‘your’ is an adjective in the second person and ‘me’ is a pronoun in the first person.

6. Inflection

Inflection is when the form of a word is altered to express more precisely the meaning of the word or its function in the sentence, or in order to match with other words in the sentence. The part of the word that remains unchanged is called the stem.

In Greek inflection is very common – almost every word you ever meet is inflected. However, in English inflection occurs only to a limited extent.

Nouns are inflected in English to show number – that is whether they are singular (one) or plural (more than one). For example, one house, two houses; one child, five children; one box, two boxes. They are also inflected to show possession – Peter, Peter’s. Certain nouns that express ‘occupations’ can be inflected to show gender – that is whether the noun refers to a male or female person. For example, prince and princess, actor and actress.

Verbs are inflected in English to show tense, voice and mood (sections 7, 8 and 9 below). For example, love, loved, loving. Verbs are also inflected in the third person singular in the Present tense – I talk, he talks; you see, she sees; they go, it goes.⁴

³ Or writing, thinking, feeling etc.

⁴ The verb to be is more inflected – I am, you are, he/she/it is.

Pronouns are the most inflected part of English. For example, ‘he’ or ‘him’ depending on the function of the pronoun in the sentence (subject or object – he saw Mary; Mary saw him); or depending on gender (who is first; what is first).

Inflections appear to be gradually falling out of use in English. Several centuries ago the second person singular of verbs was also inflected – I talk, thou (you) talkest, he talks – and verbs such as ‘shall’ had a ‘t’ in the third person singular – I shall, he shalt. In modern English it is still generally considered correct to inflect ‘who’ to ‘whom’ when it is not the subject (e.g. Who hit me? Whom did you hit?), although the distinction is frequently ignored (e.g. personally I would normally say ‘who did you hit’ rather than ‘whom did you hit’).

7. Tense

The tense of a verb indicates the time at which the verb takes place and the aspect or nature of the action.

English has an elaborate structure of tenses constructed by the use of auxiliary verbs (parts of ‘to be’ and ‘to have’). Greek has fewer different tenses and distinguishes between them by inflection.⁵

		Past	Time Present	Future
Aspect	Continuous	Imperfect I was loving	Present Continuous I am loving	Future Continuous I will be loving
	Simple	Simple Past I loved	Simple Present I love	Simple Future I will love
	Complete	Pluperfect I had loved	Perfect I have loved	Future Perfect I will have loved

8. Voice

There are two Voices in English – Active and Passive. These indicate whether the subject is carrying out the action of the verb, or whether the action of the verb is being done to the subject. For example, ‘She broke the jar’ is an active sentence: the subject ‘she’ is carrying out the action ‘break’. However, ‘The jar is broken’ is a passive sentence: the action ‘break’ is being done to the jar.

⁵ The verb ‘to be’ is used in Greek as an auxiliary in the periphrastic forms, but these are rare (Chapter 20, Section 20.3).

Voice is closely related to the categories of subject and object (section 3 above).

Intransitive verbs – Active only: Subject does the action. No object.

Transitive verbs – Active: Subject does the action to the object.

Passive: Subject has the action done to it.

It is best to think of Active sentences as the basic type of sentence, and indeed they are far more common than Passive sentences. A Passive sentence is a special type of sentence in which (compared with an Active sentence) the object has become the subject. The reason for using a Passive sentence is that (a) the person or thing doing the action does not need to be specified, and (b) the stress or focus is directed on the person or thing to which the action is done.

For example, ‘The woman ate the cake’ is an Active sentence. ‘Woman’ is the subject. ‘Cake’ is the object. However, the sentence can be changed into a Passive sentence – ‘the cake is eaten’, in which ‘cake’ is the subject. This changes the focus onto the cake, not the woman, and indeed the woman is no longer mentioned.

9. Mood

The mood of a verb indicates the manner in which the action of the verb is to be regarded. These can be classified into two groups: the moods of finite verbs, and those of infinite verbs. The difference between these is that a finite verb refers to a particular action, and so can make a sentence complete (see section 3 above). An infinite verb expresses the idea of the verb more generally and hence is not complete in itself but needs to be part of a larger sentence.

Moods of finite verbs

Indicative – A verb in the Indicative mood makes a statement or asks a question. For example – ‘He went in’, ‘They will arrive soon’, ‘Why are you here?’ Most verbs are in the Indicative mood.

Imperative – A verb in the Imperative mood gives a command or request. For example – ‘Sit down’, ‘Come’, ‘Pick up your mat!’

Subjunctive – A verb in the Subjunctive expresses a thought or wish rather than an actual fact: for example – ‘Your will be done’, ‘I may go’, ‘If I were you.’

Moods of infinite verbs⁶

Infinitive – The Infinitive is a verbal noun, expressing in a noun the action of the verb generally. It is normally preceded in English by ‘to’. For example – ‘I want to learn’, ‘I love to sing’. The fact that the Infinitive is a verbal noun is made clear

⁶ Often these are not considered as ‘moods’ in English, but that is how they are labelled in Greek, and so it is convenient to label them as such here.

by the fact that ‘to learn’ or ‘to sing’ in the examples could be replaced with a noun – ‘I want a drink’, ‘I love water’. The fact that it is a verbal noun is shown by the fact that the Infinitive can have its own object – ‘I want to learn a language’, ‘I love to sing the national anthem.’

Participle – The participle is a verbal adjective, expressing in an adjective the action of the verb generally. In English there are two participles – an Active participle ending in -ing (e.g. singing, drinking) and a Passive participle normally ending in -ed (e.g. loved, cooked). In English participles are mainly used in the formation of the various tenses (e.g. I am singing). Greek participles are rarely used in this way. In English they can also be used simply as adjectives, for example – ‘I saw the singing policeman’, ‘You are my loved son’, ‘I ate the cooked fish.’ Greek uses participles extensively in this way.

10. Gender

There is no concept of grammatical gender in English. If a word refers to a male it is considered masculine and hence will use the masculine pronouns he, him and his. If it refers to a female it is considered feminine and hence will use the feminine pronouns she, her and hers. Otherwise it is considered neuter and will use the neuter pronouns it and its. This means that every noun that is not referring to a person or animal is considered neuter.⁷ This approach of reflecting real gender in the pronoun used has its difficulties, in particular when referring to people whose gender is unknown (e.g. in the sentence ‘I am going to see my new doctor, I hope that  will be helpful’) or in referring to entities seen as people (and therefore not neuter) but not gendered (e.g. ‘I believe in the Holy Spirit.  is a gift from God’).

Greek is different. As in many European languages, the idea of gender is used in Greek to define different patterns of words. Thus, speaking very roughly, a third of Greek words are said to be ‘masculine’ words, a third ‘feminine’ and a third ‘neuter’. Naturally, those words that do refer to males will be masculine, but in addition thousands of words which to an English speaker are neuter are also ‘masculine’ – e.g. field, river, heaven. Similarly words such as sword, hope and power are ‘feminine’ in Greek. Thus it is important when learning Greek to understand that references to gender will normally be references to ‘grammatical gender’, i.e. which pattern of words the word in question belongs to, rather than implying something about its real or natural gender (as if Greeks thought of a river as a male thing, and a sword as a female thing).

⁷ In more poetic language there are some exceptions, e.g. ships are often referred to as if they were female – ‘When the new ship was launched, her decks were full of sailors.’

Parsing guide

When reading a language, you can often understand a sentence without working out precisely every grammatical form within it. This is to be encouraged – after all you do not normally analyse the grammar of a sentence in your own language. However, when you are just starting out, or if a sentence is particularly difficult, or if there is a complicated exegetical argument about its meaning, you will need to parse each word and then very precisely fit together the meaning of the sentence.

Noun	Adjective Pronoun Article	Verb
		Indicative Imperative Subjunctive	Infinitive	Participle
(Gender) (Masculine) Case Genitive Number Singular	Gender Feminine Case Accusative Number Plural	Person 2nd person Number Singular Tense Present Voice Active Mood Imperative	Tense Aorist Voice Middle Mood Infinitive	Gender Neuter Case Dative Number Plural Tense Perfect Voice Passive Mood Participle

Parsing a word means explaining its grammatical form. For example, τον is the accusative masculine singular of the definite article. What information you need to given when parsing depends on the type of word you are parsing.

The table on page 250 sets out what pieces of information you should give when parsing, and gives an example (in italics).

Notes

- It is not strictly necessary to give the gender of a noun, because for any given noun it cannot change. However, your teacher may encourage you to state the gender of nouns when parsing to help you ensure that you make any articles or adjectives correctly agree with it.
- The Middle and Passive often share the same endings. In these cases, from a grammatical point of view all you can say is that it is ‘middle or passive’; the meaning of the rest of the sentence should make clear which it is.
- Sometimes a form can be one of several options. In these cases, give all the options. For example, ἀγαθου is masculine or neuter, genitive, singular.
- It can be helpful to say ‘deponent’ or ‘middle deponent’ when parsing a deponent verb such as ἐρχομαι.

Hint

- The augment (ἐ) can only occur when a verb is in the Indicative – therefore if a verb has the augment, it must be in the Indicative.
- The Imperative and Infinitive only occur (except extremely rarely) in the Present and the Aorist.
- The participle only occurs (except extremely rarely) in the Present, Aorist or Perfect.
- When parsing verbs, look for the distinctive patterns:

	Indicative		Other Moods
	Active and Middle	Passive	Active and Middle	Passive
Present	—	—	—	—
Future	— σ	— θησ
Imperfect	ἐ —	ἐ —
Aorist	ἐ — σ	ἐ — θ	— σ	— θ
Perfect	Reduplication

- Watch out for compound verbs, and verbs which begin with vowels.
- A participle is parsed as a combination of an adjective and a verb.

Examples

λογον	Accusative, Singular
καλαις	Feminine, Dative, Plural
ἔλυετο	3 rd Person Singular, Imperfect, Passive, Indicative
λυσαι	Aorist, Active, Infinitive
λυθεντας	Masculine Accusative Plural, Aorist Passive participle

Hint

- Refer back to Chapter 18, section 18.4 (page 207) for guidance on how to construct any part of a verb from its principal parts.
- Notice that various verbs use the -εω endings in the future. These are given here in their uncontracted form for clarity (i.e. the future of βαλλω is given as βαλεω, although this will contract to βαλῶ).

genitive:	Time 'during'	τῆς νυκτός	during the night
dative:	Time 'at which'	ἐκείνῃ τῇ ἡμέρᾳ	on that day

- In practice in the New Testament ἐν is often used together with the dative for time 'at which' – ἐν ἐκείνῃ τῇ ἡμέρᾳ – on that day.
- Generally when words such as 'during', 'while', 'when' or 'after' occur in English, they would be communicated in Greek by the correct tense of the participle ('during' and 'while' – Present; 'when' and 'after' – Aorist).

Index of sources from which the sentences are derived

As explained on page 5 a balance had to be struck in the design of the sentences. On the one hand, their purpose is to practise the grammar and vocabulary learnt in a particular chapter. On the other hand it is desirable for them to be taken from the New Testament, both because this helps you see that the goal of reading the New Testament in Greek is being achieved, and because you need to build up your ability to read real Greek, not made-up sentences. Balancing these two, while keeping the promise that you would not be expected to cope with Greek that has not yet been explained to you, has not always been easy.

The principle that has been followed is that, whenever possible, sentences have been based on the New Testament but altered to suit the learning need. The list below cross-references the sentences and the Bible passages on which they have been based. This will allow you to check the original sources as a way of getting into using a Greek New Testament, and so you can understand why occasionally the Greek sentences don't appear to follow all the rules.
